CLASH OVER RELIEF CONTROL

EIGHT CONCERNS REAP 5 MILLIONS ON SILVER STAND

White House Policy Aids Rich Group.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's silver policy has poured more than five million dollars into the hands of eight large mining companies controled by a small group of wealthy men and holds out the certainty of fatter profits yet to come, investigation showed today.

By raising the price of silver from 35 cents an ounce to 64½ cents and recently to 71 cents and by promising to raise it eventually to $1.29, the President, under the spur of the silver senators from the west, handed these eight companies an 80 per cent increase in income from silver last year and virtually guarantees them a future increase of 270 per cent.

Produce 70 Per Cent of Output.

Since the eight leading companies produce approximately 70 per cent of all the silver mined in the country, they stand out as the big beneficiaries of the President's policy. Last year they produced approximately 18 million ounces of silver. Before the New Deal silver policy appeared on the horizon this metal would have had a market value of a little more than six million dollars, but last year it was worth 11½ millions, a jump of more than five million dollars because of the government policy.

The eight leading companies roughly, in order of their importance, are:

Sunshine Mining company; Phelps Dodge, Inc.; Anaconda Copper Mining company; United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company; Silver King Coalition Mines company; Bunker Hill and Sullivan company; Tintic Standard Mining company, and Hecla Mining company.

Even among these eight the first four tower above the others. These four last year produced approximately 12½ million ounces of silver, or 48 per cent of the country's total. Their silver was worth more than eight million dollars, a gain of $4,600,000 over what its value would have been at pre-New Deal prices.

Small Groups in Background.

Behind each of the eight companies stands a small controling group of wealthy stockholders and a numerous scattering of ordinary investors. Identity of the true owners is not clearly stated even in reports filed with the federal securities commission, but private reports are that J. P. Morgan, Chase National bank, National City company, and other big bankers dominate some of the companies and are therefore real recipients of the New Deal silver "bonus."

Among the banks whose directorates interlock with those of one or more of the big silver companies is First Security company, Ogden, Utah, the holding company created by Marriner S. Eccles, New Deal federal reserve governor, to control a 50 million dollar chain of banks.

Other banking houses whose directors are also directors of some of the big silver companies reaping profits under the New Deal are J. P. Morgan & Co., Lee, Higginson & Co.; Grayson McP. Murphy, Chase National bank, National City company, First National Bank of Boston, Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago, Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, Irving Trust company, Chemical National bank, and Guaranty Trust company.

Dividends Flow Again.

Besides enjoying the increase in silver prices these large stockholders have seen the value of the stock they own rise and dividends begin to flow again as word spread that the administration, giving in to the senate silver bloc, is "reviving" silver. Some of these companies' stocks have trebled in value since March, 1933, outdistancing the general price rise.

What the New Deal's jacking up of silver prices means to some of the big silver stockholders is at least partially reflected in the case of Arthur Curtiss James, president of the Western Pacific railroad and director of the Burlington and other roads. Mr. James, according to a report filed with the SEC, holds more stock in Phelps, Dodge, Inc., than any other director of that company.

Personal Holdings Large.

His personal holdings and the holdings of two companies, Curtiss Southwestern corporation and Curtiss Southwestern company, which he controls 97½ per cent, amounted to 556,625 shares as of Dec. 31, 1934. This stock is now worth more than 9 million dol-

FRANCE, RUSSIA QUARREL; DROP WAR PACT DEAL

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 19.—The war clouds over Europe, thicker than ever since the league of nations council's vote Wednesday rebuking Germany for rearming, suddenly rolled back late tonight when it was learned that negotiations for a Franco-Russian military alliance have been indefinitly suspended, if not completely broken off, just 24 hours before the pact was due to be signed here.

Maxim Litvinov, soviet Russian foreign commissar, who was supposed to arrive here tonight or tomorrow morning, canceled his visit. He is reported to be en route back to Moscow from Geneva. The diplomatic luncheon at the Quai d'Orsay tomorrow, which was arranged to celebrate the signing of the famous Franco-Russian "mutual assistance pact," was abruptly called off.

Laval May Visit Hitler.

The trip of Foreign Minister Pierre Laval to Moscow has been indefinitly postponed and it is now uncertain whether it will ever take place.

Still more significant is the report tonight that if Laval does go to Moscow or when he goes to Warsaw, if he does not go to Moscow, he will stop off at Berlin on the way back to establish direct contact with Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

It was a bombshell almost unique in European annals—the diplomatic equivalent of the bride being left at the altar. Although it was known this afternoon that a serious snag had developed in the Franco-Russian negotiations because of France's reluctance to pledge automatic assistance if the soviets were attacked, the French evening papers definitly announced the luncheon and the signing of the pact for tomorrow.

Russia Refuses Compromise.

What happened was that following a stormy meeting of the council of the ministers this morning Laval summoned V. P. Potemkin, soviet ambassador, to the Quai d'Orsay and told him that he could not sign the text agreed upon with Litvinov at Geneva Wednesday and suggested modifications bringing it more in line with the spirit of the league covenant.

Laval, Potemkin, and Jules Basdevant, French juridical expert, spent three hours this afternoon drafting a compromise text, which Potemkin submitted to Litvinov at Geneva by phone. A few minutes later the soviet ambassador, pale and disheveled, rushed back to the Quai d'Orsay and announced to Laval:

"My government cannot initial the pact in its present form and under the circumstances Litvinov feels it would be useless for him to come to Paris tomorrow."

Rushes from Geneva.

Laval is said to have asked the soviet envoy if it would do any good for him to talk personally to Litvinov on the phone.

It was deduced from this that Litvinov is en route to Moscow. Geneva reports him as headed for Basel, where he could get a train for Moscow—via Berlin.

The exact cause of the collapse of the pact, which had twice been agreed upon in principle, is the conflict over the automatic nature of military assistance pledged, which by this afternoon had been narrowed down to this one point: whether France would go to Russia's aid after the simple recommendation of the league council or whether it would insist upon being authorized by a formal vote.

Red Propaganda an Issue.

In the latter case a unanimous decision of the council would be necessary—something which would be next to impossible to obtain if Europe were confronted with actual conflict—whereas in the former case a minority of the council might abstain or even vote against.

Soviet unwillingness to give France adequate guaranties that communist propaganda in this country would cease also played a rôle in the breakdown of the negotiations.

This issue has hitherto remained in the background, but today it was made one of France's main conditions to signing the pact, thus producing considerable consternation in the Russian camp.

The soviets are unwilling to assume complete responsibility for the activities of the Third Internationale, but the French negotiators pointed out that it is absurd for France and Rus-

Good Weather Is Promised for Easter Parade

Springlike weather is to prevail in Chicago over the Easter week-end, according to the official forecast. Today and tomorrow are expected to be partly cloudy, with little prospect of rain, and with temperatures normal for the season—above 55 degrees at the time of the Easter fashion parade.

Yesterday's weather, milder than for some days past, brought out many shoppers and the loop was crowded. Still greater throngs attended Good Friday religious services, most of which were concentrated from noon to 3 p. m., the hours traditionally assigned to Christ on the cross.

Two Union Services in Loop.

Two great interdenominational three hour services were held in the loop. One was conducted by the Christian Business Men's committee at the Grand Opera house. The other, under the auspices of the Chicago Church federation, took place in the Chicago temple. Leaders of both services said that each was more largely attended than similar services in previous years.

The Rev. E. G. Zorn, executive secretary of the business men's committee, declared last night that the Grand Opera house service was the "best timed and most worshipful of any three hour service we have conducted. All during the period the theater was filled to capacity and it was estimated that enough people passed in and out of the theater to fill the Grand Opera house more than twice."

At the Chicago temple it was estimated that more than 5,000 persons participated in the day's devotions there.

Carillon to Be Dedicated.

All is in readiness for the dedication of the new carillon in the tower of the Chicago temple, 400 feet above Clark and Washington streets. At 10:45 on Easter morning, according to announcements by Dr. John Thompson, pastor of the temple, the bells will ring out for the first time. William E. Turner, 1854 Addison street, donor of the chimes, yesterday pulled the switch which made the carillon ready for operation. The dedicatory service from 10:45 to 11 o'clock tomorrow will be broadcast over station W-G-N.

The congregation of Rogers Park Baptist church, whose edifice at 1900 Greenleaf avenue was damaged by fire on Thursday, will hold its Easter festival at the Adelphi theater, 7074 North Clark street, tomorrow. This was announced last night by the pastor, the Rev. John W. Moffatt.

Harry G. Saulnier, chairman of the Easter Sunrise service to be held in Soldiers' field at 6:30 tomorrow, said last night that all arrangements for the service had been completed. He announced that favorable weather would make an attendance of 50,000 worshipers probable.

"FLYING MAID" FROM EVANSTON REJECTED BY U. S.

Joan Sighs, disappointed in her ambition to don an aviator's helmet and lead a woman's flying corps in preparations for the next war, still has her lace frilled maid's cap to fall back on. In fact, she has already fallen back on it.

The identity of the mysterious Miss Sighs, who wrote Congressman J. J. McSwain [Dem., S. C.] a letter two weeks ago sounding the clarion call to women air fighters has been the subject of much comment. This comment was increased yesterday when it was announced she had received from the congressman, chairman of the house military affairs committee, a note informing her of his belief that no Joan of Arcs are needed now, but thanking her for her offer of assistance.

Miss Sighs, greatly disappointed, went back to her work and let it leak out what the work is. She is a maid in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stewart, 614 Judson avenue, Evanston. Mr. Stewart is the son of Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago.

"She is very enthusiastic about aviation," said Mrs. Stewart, "although she has never flown herself. She reads and studies about it a great deal and would really like to join the army. On the other hand, she is a very competent maid and a good cook."

Amelia Is Off for Mexico on Good Will Hop

Burbank, Cal., April 19.—(AP)—Amelia Earhart, courageous woman flyer, hopped off from the Union Air terminal at 9:55 o'clock [11:55 o'clock Chicago time] tonight in what she described as a nonstop good will flight to Mexico City.

"I had planned to leave unannounced," said Miss Earhart, "and arrive in Mexico without great ado, but it couldn't be done."

Weather Changes Her Plans.

While her plane was being warmed up, Miss Earhart, who but a short time ago made the long hop from Honolulu to Oakland, studied maps and announced she had decided to fly down the west coast until she was opposite Mexico City, then turn east. Originally she had planned a direct compass course, but disturbing weather conditions caused the change.

Joe Nikrent, National Aeronautical association timer, placed a barograph aboard her plane and said if Miss Earhart made the flight nonstop it would be a record for women.

"I expect to reach Mexico City in 12 or 13 hours, but do not hope to better the nonstop record of 8 hours 9 minutes held by Leland Andrews," said Miss Earhart. "My plane is not equipped for such a record breaking attempt."

No woman has made the flight nonstop.

Husband Awaits Her in Mexico.

Miss Earhart's publisher husband, George Palmer Putnam, is awaiting her in Mexico. After she has been there a while she will make plans for a speed flight to New York City, she said, although these are not now in a definite stage.

The flyer's big monoplane was fueled with 544 gallons of gasoline. She carried a "spare" parachute. She wore brown slacks, a brown lether jacket, white blouse, and a vari-hued scarf. As usual, she was bareheaded, and her tousled locks flew in the wind as she waved good-by to those gathered at the terminal.

Takes On Cargo of Mail.

After getting into the air at 9:33 p. m., Miss Earhart flew down the field and landed to take on a cargo of mail. Then she was away again at 9:55 p. m. [11:55 p. m. Chicago time], which became the official time of the take-off.

The air line distance from Burbank to Mexico City is 1,700 miles, but Miss Earhart's route will take her a hundred or so miles farther.

By comparison with her previous aviation exploits the flight to the Mexican capital should be a fairly easy one for Miss Earhart.

She was the first woman to fly the Atlantic alone and last January became the first person, either man or woman, ever to fly solo across the 2,400 miles of open Pacific from Honolulu to Oakland.

State Officers Lose Powers; U. S. Inquiry

Illinois state finance officers were virtually dismissed yesterday from control of the federal funds that comprise three-fourths of all relief expenditures in the state.

The action was taken by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in a meeting crowded with developments. It was regarded by one official as a long step toward complete "federalization" of Illinois relief operations at a not distant date.

Developments of the Day.

Other events of the meeting, held in the relief headquarters at 1319 South Michigan avenue, were these:

1. State Treasurer John Stelle and State Auditor Edward J. Barrett arranged with Chairman Robert J. Dunham of the relief commission to surrender their functions to IERC staf employés on Monday, after the commission had voted to relieve them of all supervision over the federal funds disbursed for relief purposes.

2. Stelle and Barrett, both ex-officio members of the commission, indicated they would take up the matter with Gov. Horner before conceding as final the commission's action.

Welcome Federal Investigation.

3. The commission voted to request United States Attorney General Cummings to investigate financial transactions of the commission to clear it of allegations of wholesale "irregularities," and also to determine to what extent, if any, there has been falsification of relief records in newspaper articles.

4. Howard O. Hunter, regional representative of the Federal Emergency Relief administration, announced that a corps of FERA agents would conduct an independent investigation of the matters referred to Attorney General Cummings.

5. Painting a dark picture of consequences which would follow a halt in relief operations, due to the present shortage in funds, several commission members declared they would go to Springfield next week to urge that the legislature provide $3,000,000 a month for relief, as demanded by federal officials.

Auditor's Original Charges.

The removal of State Treasurer Stelle and State Auditor Barrett from any control over federal relief disbursements came about in this way: Last week Barrett charged "looseness" and "irregularities" in the present system of handling expenditures. He urged that funds be distributed from a single office instead of from the branches which now operate in each of the 102 counties of the state. He asked that he be relieved of responsibility if the procedure were not tightened up as he suggested.

The relief commission decided yesterday that its present system was adequate and voted seven to one to comply with Barrett's alternative request—relief from responsibility. Barrett alone voted against this proposal. Stelle did not vote.

Move Sweeps Stelle Out, Too.

The effect of this ballot was to relieve Stelle, too, of his fiscal duties under the commission, inasmuch as the state treasurer and auditor were made jointly responsible for verifying signatures on checks when the decentralized system was approved by the commission last September.

Stelle sought to prevent the ouster by arguing that federal relief funds are not given to the commission, but to Gov. Horner as trustee. Stelle concluded by demanding that complete control of disbursements be vested in the state officers.

As the matter now stands Stelle and Barrett will lose a total of 60 patronage jobs when the IERC takes over their relief branch offices on Monday. Although paid from relief funds, these employés were hired by the state officers independently of the IERC.

Barrett amplified the charges of "looseness" he made a week ago by

HOUSE PASSES NEW DEALERS' SECURITY BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—The house of representatives passed the New Deal's social security bill by a vote of 372 to 33 late this afternoon.

The measure, carrying old age pensions and benefits along with unemployment insurance, was passed in the form the administration wants.

Before passage the overwhelming Democratic majority defeated a move of the Republicans to send the measure back to the ways and means committee with instructions to increase the old age pensions and strike out pay roll taxes, which, the minority contended, amount to regimentation of American labor and industry. The motion was downed by a vote of 258 to 146.

Bill Goes to Senate.

The bill now will go to the senate, where procedure is more leisurely. It may be several weeks before action is taken there, since the senate finance committee, to which the bill will be referred, is busy with NRA extensions and soldiers' bonus legislation.

As passed by the house, the bill contains the following:

1. Grants to states for old age assistance [pensions] on a 50-50 basis, but for no individual will the federal government's share exceed $15 per month.

2. Compulsory old age benefits for persons over 65 on basis of salary earned during working lifetime, payments ranging from $15 to $85 a month. Income tax on pay rolls of employés starting with 1 per cent in 1937 and graduated upward to 3 per cent in 1949; excise tax on employers in same amounts. This will mean a total pay roll tax of 6 per cent by 1949.

Calls for New Bureau.

3. Unemployment insurance. Tax on employer of 1 per cent on pay rolls in 1936, 2 per cent for 1937, and 3 per cent thereafter.

4. Social security board as new bureau of government in the executive branch with three members appointed by the President.

5. Federal grants to states for maternal and child health service, an appropriation of $3,800,000.

6. Federal grants to states for public health service, an appropriation of 8 million dollars.

Treadway Leads Fight.

The Republican fight to recommit the bill was led by Representative Allen T. Treadway [Rep., Mass.], ranking minority member of the house ways and means committee, which had considered the legislation for three months.

Had Treadway's motion prevailed, the pay roll taxes for old age benefits would have been wiped from the bill and old age pensions would have been increased by an estimated $10 a month.

In their last stand against the legislation the Republicans charged that the government was taking another step toward Moscow and the regimentation of 25 million working men and women in the imposition of pay roll taxes.

"This is regimentation created by the brain trust," declared Representative Daniel A. Reed [Rep., N. Y.]. "The tax on the wage earner will not go into effect until 1937, while unemployment insurance will start in 1936. Why is this? It is a political move and nothing else.

Predicts "Lash of the Dictator."

"Next year the electorate will be corrupted with the 5 billion dollar work relief slush fund, and after that the lash of the dictator will be felt."

Reed called attention to an obscure provision in the bill granting to the secretary of the treasury the power to "make and publish rules and regulations for the enforcement" of the old age benefits taxes.

"A federal bureau will be set up to finger print all workers along with Al Capone and every other jail bird in this country," contended Reed.

Calling attention to the estimated 32 billion 782 million dollars that will be amassed in reserves for old age benefits by 1970, Representative James W. Wadsworth [Rep., N. Y.] declared that the bill was forcing the country away from democracy.

Describes "Vicious Circle."

"The funds must be invested in federal bonds and securities," said Wadsworth. "The treasury will collect the pay roll taxes with one hand and with the other will buy its own bonds.

"Thus the government will depart from the policy of calling upon its citizens for financial assistance and turn the financing over to an inside burocracy. It is a vicious circle."

Representative Charles L. Gifford

[Rep., Mass.] said that since farmers were not included in the workers' class that would receive the old age benefits the bill would work a great hardship upon the agrarian population. He contended that the burden would fall upon the farmers, who would be forced to purchase articles at higher prices brought about by the pay roll taxes.

Doughton Defends Bill.

When the bill finally had reached the stage where a record vote would be taken, Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], 73 year old chairman of the ways and means committee, arose.

"I'm proud to say that despite the attacks and partisanship displayed," said Doughton, "this measure has not been changed and the vote here today will show that congress is behind our great President and that the country believes in his statesmanship and wisdom."

It was a different reception, however, that greeted Representative James W. Mott [Rep., Ore.], who attacked the old age pensions contained in the bill as inadequate and mentioned the pension systems enacted by "the normally Republican states of the north.

Amendments Are Crushed.

One of the members on the majority side gave Mott a Bronx cheer at this point. Since this exclamation will not appear in the proceedings of the house, the author probably will never be known.

During the last two days the administration steam roller crushed exactly 40 proposed amendments to the bill while two minor alterations, offered by the ways and means committee, were accepted.

One of the proposals defeated this afternoon was an appropriation of $9,950,000 for distribution among the states for blind pensions.

On final passage of the bill there were 288 Democrats, 77 Republicans, 6 Progressives and 1 Farmer-Laborite who voted for it. In the negative were 18 Republicans, 13 Democrats and 2 Farmer-Laborites.

The tally sheet on the motion to recommit the bill to committee showed: For the motion, 94 Republicans, 43 Democrats, 6 Progressives and 3 Farmer-Laborites; against, 257 Democrats and 1 Republican.

CHARGE OUTSIDE OFFICIALS PLAY RELIEF POLITICS

Charges that "imported" officials of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission were playing politics in distributing aid to the needy were made yesterday before the commission by a delegation from Montgomery county, in the southern part of the state. The delegation demanded the removal of J. F. Brenton, district representative of the IERC in Montgomery and surrounding counties; Miss Josephine Crain, the county relief administrator, and Hugo Fenski, county case work supervisor.

Members of the delegation said that relief clients are being told they should "go up as Republicans" when applying for aid at the county relief headquarters. They declared that there are only 18 Democrats on the relief staf but that there are 39 Republicans on the staf.

Commission members traced most of the trouble to the lack of a citizens' relief committee in the county. F. Z. Glick, associate executive secretary of the IERC, was instructed to investigate the charges and to attempt to set up a new citizens' committee.

presenting a detailed statement listing irregularities and faults in the disbursing system. He cited examples of unnecessary work, where upwards of a dozen checks in small amounts were made out to various individuals instead of one check for the total amount.

Other examples included the following: different amounts appearing on the same check; checks labeled "not over $50" issued for higher amounts; more revoked and destroyed checks in the last month than in the two and one-half years that the old centralized system operated.

"I am not charging," Barrett told the commission, "that there was anything criminal in any of this."

Governor Praises Group.

Gov. Horner, reached by telephone at Springfield last night, conceded that the commission's action indicated a certain loss of state control over federal relief funds. He pointed out, however, that the commission controls disbursements in the largest sense and that it is an agency of his creation.

"Neither Mr. Barrett nor Mr. Dunham has formally submitted the matter to me," Gov. Horner said. "If I should overrule the commission, I am sure they would respect my wishes, but I do not mean to indicate I am inclined to do that. The personnel of the commission is beyond reproach—they have done wonderful work. If a clerk makes a mistake, I cannot and do not blame the commission. I am sorry to hear of this controversy.

"Federal funds are turned over to me as trustee, but the commission is my administrator of those funds. I also recognize the right of the federal government to check up on those funds."

Give Hunter Leave to Inquire.

Regional Representative Hunter of the FERA made his own addition to the growing list of investigations when he entered the meeting for a short time.

"May I assume that there is no objection to my conducting an independent investigation of various allegations made before this commission?" Hunter asked.

"Yes, by all means, and the rougher the better," replied George A. Barr of Joliet, whose answer was echoed by other commission members.

"I have several aces up my sleeve," said Hunter, who several days ago approved Chairman Dunham's recommendation that the state officers be dismissed from relief duties. "I have evidence that there has been deliberate sabotage by certain employés of the state treasurer's office and the state auditor's office against the existing relief system."

Several Asked to Investigate.

Hunter refused to go into detail on this charge. For his investigation, however, it was learned, he will use special FERA agents.

The motion to request an investigation by Attorney General Cummings was made soon afterward by Victor A. Olander, who last week was the moving force in a request by the commission for investigations by United States District Attorney Green, Attorney General Kerner of Illinois, and State's Attorney Courtney. None of these officials has yet accepted the task.

Auditor Barrett added to the commotion by bringing up the dismissal by the IERC of Arthur Durhan, head of the auxiliary timekeeping unit which investigates the failure of relief clients to appear for duty on work projects. Durhan was let out because his procedure in handling a check was "unwise," according to Charles S. Bond, controler of the relief budget.

Attorney General Cummings could not be reached in Washington last night, but his assistant, William Stanley, said the attorney general could not determine whether to make an investigation until fully advised of the nature of the charges.

Question of State Funds.

The commission discussed the impending halt in relief operations. Because of the general assembly's failure to comply with Washington's demand that Illinois contribute $3,000,000 a month, funds on hand will be exhausted by April 25 in most counties. FERA officials have announced that no federal grant will be made to Illinois for next month unless the required contribution is provided by April 30.

"This commission ought to be in Springfield next week," Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton declared.

Chairman Dunham said he would be in Springfield Tuesday to urge the legislature to action. Olander and Sexton also pledged their attendance. The commission agreed, however, that it would not press for action on a sales tax increase or any other particular relief program. Gov. Horner is seeking to boost the sales tax from 2 to 3 per cent to meet the FERA's demands.

The commission authorized Mr. Dunham to act with full authority on Gov. Horner's request that action be taken to aid public schools which may be forced to close for lack of funds.

FERA FUND NOW POLITICAL CLUB, SAYS HASTINGS

Cites Threats Made to Three States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] today charged that the Roosevelt administration already is playing politics with the 4 billion 880 million dollar fund just appropriated "not for the perpetuation of a political machine, but for the relief of honest distress."

Immediately after Senator Hastings had released his blast accusing the administration of playing politics with human distress, Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins announced the taking over of relief activities in Georgia, whose governor yesterday called President Roosevelt "a radical in the extreme."

Takes Over Louisiana Work.

Hopkins already has taken over all relief activities in Louisiana, where Senator Huey P. Long is carrying on a long distance brawl with Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes. Mr. Ickes has held up four public works projects in Louisiana and canceled four in Georgia.

In addition to these disciplinary measures the FERA has issued an ultimatum to the state of Illinois to the effect that all federal relief funds will be withheld unless the state legislature acts to raise $3,000,000 a month for 12 months by April 30. In another ukase Mr. Hopkins has informed the state of Pennsylvania that it will get no more federal funds unless it contributes $5,000,000 a month.

Hopkins appointed Miss Gay B. Shepperson, present state relief administrator in Georgia, as director of the new federal setup. He said he took this action because the Georgia legislature had adjourned without carrying out his orders to raise $3,000,000 for relief during 1935.

Gov. Talmadge, who has been denouncing Hopkins since the early days of the administration, not only called President Roosevelt an "extreme radical" yesterday, but assailed the NRA and the AAA and predicted a third party in 1936.

Declares People Are Aroused.

Senator Hastings, whose opposition to gigantic work relief appropriation bill was based on his contention that it would be used as a campaign fund for President Roosevelt in 1936, said the only reason for withholding relief was the refusal of state administrations to subscribe to the "crazy quilt schemes" of the New Deal. He said the American people would not stand for this sort of thing much longer.

"Secretary Ickes," he said, "announced the withholding of PWA funds from three states, ostensibly because the governments of those states have, for various reasons, not gone along with the New Deal's ideas of what they should do. Neither Mr. Ickes nor any one else can disguise the fact that the real reason for denying relief to hungry thousands is because the state administrations of two of three commonwealths refuse to believe that Mr. Roosevelt is appointed from On High.

Punishment for Enemies.

"A rose by any other name smells just as sweet, and, conversely, politics played at the expense of human misery, no matter what the excuse, smells badly and is nauseous to every right thinking person in the country.

"It is obvious that the Roosevelt administration, before it launches on a repetition of vote buying as it did in the last election, intends to punish those who refuse to be bought into ready approval of the crazy-quilt schemes of a ruinous national administration.

"It is lamentable that in venting its spleen against political enemies, unfortunate citizens must be denied a measure of relief congress voted for every one who is distressed, without first finding out whether they subscribed to the unsound and rapidly failing policies of the New Deal. The American people will not long stand for this stort of thing."

Building Being Prepared for Manufacturer Bombed

Damage estimated at about $500 was caused late last night by the explosion of a bomb on the second floor of a vacant three story building at 16-32 South Throop street. Capt. Patrick Collins of the Des Plaines street police district, and Sergt. Marshall Pigeon of the bomb squad, learned that machinery was being installed in the building for a sheet metal specialty company.

FISH ACCUSES RADIO STATION OF CENSORSHIP

Speech Suppressed, Says N. Y. Representative.

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York today accused radio broadcasting station WHN of suppressing an address he had been scheduled to make at 6:15 p. m. today.

Accepting the challenge as a "direct blow at free speech," Representative Fish announced he would register his charge in the Congressional Record and before the federal radio commission.

Mr. Fish expressed conviction the management of WHN had suppressed his address because he prefaced it with an attack on the defeated New York reapportionment bill, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Postmaster General James A. Farley, and President Roosevelt.

"Direct Case of Censorship."

"This is a direct, concrete case of censorship of the air," Representative Fish declared. "It is hot off the griddle. I am going to read it into the Congressional Record and take it up before the radio commission and show that it is a definite and concrete case of censorship.

"People have been talking about censorship on the radio, but this is the first time we have a definite case. It is the first time I've had an address suppressed in all the time I have gone on the air.

"I sent WHN a copy of my address at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. A little later I received word from a Mr. Bard that I would be unable to go on the air. He gave no reason except that the release had been received too late. I believe they objected to my prefatory remarks on reapportionment.

"Pestered for Address."

"Station WHN had been pestering me for two months to make an address, and two weeks ago I consented to do so. I came up from Washington, missing an important vote in the house, to oblige them. There was no stipulation that I should submit an advance copy of my address and I voluntarily sent them the release. I feel very bitterly about it."

Louis K. Sidney, managing director of WHN, made this explanation:

"The station has a rule that all broadcast addresses must be submitted in writing 72 hours in advance. In this case we were willing to take it 24 hours in advance. It came about two hours before the broadcast time and we refused to accept it. It came too late even to be read."

EFFIGY OF CHRIST REMOVED FROM CALVARY CROSS

Pilgrims Throng Holy City for Easter Rites.

JERUSALEM, April 19.—(AP)—The Holy City was thronged again tonight—as it was more than 1900 years ago for the Passover festival to which Jesus Christ came to preach—with crowds come to do adoration at Eastertide.

This morning pilgrims walked along historic Via Dolorosa, in symbol of the Savior staggering under the burden of the cross.

A solemn burial procession, that started with the removal of the effigy of the crucified Christ from the cross in Calvary, marked the evening observance of Good Friday.

The ceremonials followed the pontifical mass procession, blessing of oils for the sick, confirmations and baptisms of picturesque Maundy Thursday yesterday.

Easter Celebrations Varied.

Easter celebrations in the Holy City are varied, for many different denominations participate.

The Western church and the Eastern Orthodox church play leading rôles in the Easter observance, but, due to the difference of the Gregorian and Julian calendars, they have Easter during different weeks most years. The celebrations coincided in 1933 and will again in 1936, but this year the Orthodox church's eastern week-end begins April 26.

Tomorrow's Holy Saturday program includes the benediction of the fire and font, pontifical mass, procession, litany, and matins about midnight.

Pope Attends Services.

ROME, April 19.—(AP)—The confusion of nature at the death of Christ was commemorated in hundreds of religious ceremonies in Rome's many basilicas and churches tonight as the great majority of Italians celebrated Good Friday.

In the Vatican Pope Pius, accompanied by high ranking prelates, attended services in his private chapel.

Services at St. Peter's were conducted by Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, papal secretary of state and high priest of the basilica. These were the "Miserere" and "Tenebrae" mourning services.

Today's commemoration of Christ's sacrifice for mankind was marked by the mournful silence of Rome's hundreds of church bells and the prostration of priests before bare altars as they led the devout in prayers.

Streets Are Deserted.

A dead city between noon and 3 p. m., the hours Christ hung on the cross, Rome's streets were almost deserted as its residents spent the time either at home or in sorrowful worship elsewhere. For these hours basilicas and churches were stripped of their ornaments and sacred images covered with drapes of purple and black. Even the papal throne in the Sistine chapel was divested of its ornaments.

A curiously solemn traditional practice followed by the clergy gave doleful emphasis to the conclusion of the service in St. Peter's. Priests banged with their prayer books on their kneeling benches to signify the confusion of nature at the passing of the Savior.

Hymns, the rosary, and sermons on the sorrows of the Virgin Mother as she stood before the cross were held at sunset this afternoon in all the Roman churches bearing her name. Two of these churches, Santa Maria del Popolo and Santamaria in Via, are the titular churches of Cardinal Hayes of New York and Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, respectively.

Picturesque Passion Play.

One of Italy's most picturesque Passion Plays took place according to tradition this evening in the little town of Grassina, near Florence. There peasants held the "Gesu Morto," which means "Jesus dead."

A huge procession symbolizing Christ's journey to Calvary opened the Passion Play. The sturdiest of the peasants bore the figure of Christ lying upon a bier under a black canopy to a hilltop crested by three tall crosses. There they said prayers for the martyred Jesus, and later led their horses, sheep, and oxen into the village chapels to be blessed by the priests using holy water.

ROBBER ESCAPES AFTER GUN FIGHT WITH POLICEMEN

Frustrated in his attempt to hold up the Western Union Telegraph office at 110 East Ohio street last evening, a youthful robber engaged in a battle with two policemen, shot his way to freedom, and escaped in a car which he commandeered in the street.

In the office when the gunman arrived were Policeman John O'Toole of the Chicago avenue station and Miss Florence Freistedt, the manager. O'Toole had been sent there after a report was received that a Western Union branch at 16 North Clark street had been held up. He was concealed behind a partition.

The bandit ordered Miss Freistedt to the rear. She notified Policeman O'Toole that a holdup was in progress and he maneuvered for a favorable position. Before the robber could get the office money two patrons walked in. They were also ordered to the rear.

O'Toole then stepped to the front and began shooting. The robber returned the fire and then fled. Outside he was fired on by Lincoln Park Policeman Walter Brown. Unhurt, he ran west to Rush street and forced Keith A. Foster, 4844 Elm street, Niles Center, and Al J. Peterson, 6501 North Fairfield avenue, to take him into a car with them. He left the two motorists at Clark and Oak streets, according to their statements, and boarded a northbound street car.

Bandits Visit Poker Game; Depart with 'Pot' of $2,000

Dixon, Ill., April 19.—(AP)—Poker players gathered in a private home at Sublette, 18 miles south of here, were reported to have lost nearly $2,000 in cash and jewelry to a holdup gang, according to reports at the sherif's office. Four masked men were reported to have robbed the players.

BABY 'KIDNAPED' BY LITTLE GIRL

BABY KIDNAPING GIVES POLICE A BUSY AFTERNOON

Mother Finds Child, Buggy Gone.

For a while yesterday afternoon two baby buggies, each with an occupant, stood in front of a department store at 7426 Cottage Grove avenue, while two mothers were inside shopping.

About 4 o'clock Mrs. Harry Davis, 8121 Ingleside avenue, 22 years old, came out of the store with her friend, Mrs. Dolly Gilmore, 7648 Ingleside avenue. Mrs. Gilmore's baby was there in her buggy, but Mrs. Davis' baby and buggy both were gone.

Seeks Help from Police.

Mrs. Davis ran up and down the street searching, almost hysterical. Finally, in a taxicab, she went to the Grand Crossing police station and sought the aid of Sergt. John McArdle.

With visions of kidnapers or morons, Sergt. McArdle searched the district. False clews of women seen with baby buggies led him this way and that. At last he called the detective bureau to send out a teletype message, and received the reply:

Mrs. Davis and Sergt. McArdle went to the store and, sure enough, it was the missing child—4 month old Barbara. Mrs. Davis was ready to stop right there and weep tears of thankfulness, but Sergt. McArdle searched on.

Search Leads to "Kidnaper."

His search led him to 7456 Evans avenue, and Alice Mashburn, 5 years old and freckle-faced. Alice burst into tears when she saw the policeman.

"I didn't mean anything!" she sobbed. "I've always wanted a little baby sister to take care of. I haven't got any little sister, and this baby was so nice and cute, so I wheeled her away. Then I got scared and left her in that other store!"

Sergt. McArdle asked Alice's mother to bring her to the station today. Alice won't be punished, of course, but the seriousness of the matter will be explained to her then.

RETIRING CHIEF TAKES DIGNITY OF OFFICE WITH HIM

Now Broadview Has No Car or Gun.

Robert Mann got appointed chief of police of Broadview on Thursday and yesterday he had a crime to solve.

The village squad car and shotgun were stolen.

"How," said Chief Mann to Village President Forest F. Coburn, who appointed him, "am I going to function without a squad car? Do I use roller skates or a bicycle?"

It's Your Problem, Chief.

"You're chief of police, he decided, "find your own squad car. Do I do your work for you?"

"I know who got it," said Mann, "it's Edward Grant, the chief I replaced. He got sore when you fired him and went off with the squad car and shotgun, on a vacation, perhaps."

Mr. Coburn admitted that this was an unusual problem.

They Start Law's Machinery.

Agreeing that something would have to be done, President Coburn went before Police Magistrate James McBride of Bellwood and swore out a warant, charging ex-Chief Grant with the larceny of one squad car and one shotgun.

Chief Mann, who is the entire police force, as well as the chief, went to the village hall, then came back to President Coburn with an optimistic smile.

"Anyway," he said, "Grant didn't steal the lockup. It's still there, if I can get somebody into it."

DIMS CITIES' HOPE OF U. S. FUNDS ON LARGE PROJECTS

Betters Tells Mayors of Distribution Plans.

Only about half of the four billion dollar federal work relief fund is now earmarked for work which can be carried out in urban areas, although 70 per cent of the 3,500,000 "employables" for which the fund is designed to furnish jobs live in the cities.

The probable division of the fund was outlined yesterday in a letter sent by Paul V. Betters, executive director of the United States Conference of Mayors, with headquarters here, to members of the conference. The letter, a report on the conversations which the governing committee of the conference held a week ago in Washington with President Roosevelt and Relief Administrator Hopkins, also outlined the probable characteristics of the spending program.

Outline of Federal Policies.

"In general," said Mr. Betters, "it is the apparent intention of the government to follow certain policies:

"It is planned to have the full program completed by July 1, 1936.

"It is hoped that 50 per cent of the four billion may ultimately be returned to the government.

"The government may set up a central agency to handle the purchase of certain materials required."

Only a little more than two billion dollars remain after eliminating the 800 million fund for highways, streets and grade crossing elimination and the electrification and other rural projects set up in the fund, Mr. Betters said. The original $4,880,000,000 in the appropriation act included 880 millions for direct relief which has no bearing on the work relief expenditures.

"This (distribution) inevitably means that the type of projects which will conform to the aim of the project are those in which a very high direct labor cost is involved," said Mr. Betters. "This means, so far as I can interpret the existing situation, that very little major construction involving large buildings is possible."

Only 26 Per Cent for Materials.

Such building, he continued, would be possible where the cities are able to undertake loans for self-liquidating proposals. At the same time the report reiterates the contention which was stressed at Washington, that "financial conditions are such that cities cannot absorb any further loans for public works."

Taking Mr. Betters' estimate of two billion dollars available from the fund to finance urban work relief projects, $1,470,000,000 of this would be necessary to pay even the minimum wage established in the bill—$50 a month—for one year to the estimated 2,450,000 employables living in the cities. This would leave only 26.5 per cent of the fund for purchase of materials, and little more than repair and maintenance work can be done at this ratio of labor to material costs.

The Betters letter urges that if the urban employables are to be taken care of, virtually all of the 800 millions for highways and grade separations must be spent in the cities. Such projects, however, have a high material cost. It is doubtful if more than 30 per cent of that fund would go for labor.

Judge Balks Tom Mooney's Latest Move for Liberty

San Rafael, Cal., April 19.—(AP)—Tom Mooney's latest freedom move met with initial defeat here today when he was denied a writ of habeas corpus by Superior Judge Edward I. Butler of Marin county.

THEY TRY THIS POTATO PACKAGE TRICK TOO OFTEN

Albert Mitchell, 35 years old, 4636 Prairie avenue, and Clarence Williams, 39 years old, 525 Oakwood boulevard, both colored, were arrested in Waukegan yesterday after they attempted to defraud Mrs. John C. Ballentine, wife of an insurance executive, of $46.

The two men appeared at the Ballentine home in Beach, near Zion, with a heavily wrapped package. Mr. Ballentine, they said, had ordered them to make delivery and collect $46. Suspicious of the story, Mrs. Ballentine told them to go to her husband's office in Waukegan and collect there. She then communicated with her husband, learned that he had not ordered the package, and notified the police.

Williams and Mitchell were seized as they went to the office. The package contained about 48 cents worth of potatoes at current prices.

It is believed the men are the same pair who defrauded employés of John K. Walker, insurance broker at 175 West Jackson boulevard, of $243 on March 22. They delivered three boxes of potatoes, which they said was whisky ordered by Mr. Walker, and collected. Mr. Walker at the time was out of Chicago.

FOES WHO DOWNED VOLIVA WILL EXULT IN PUBLIC TODAY

While bands boom and oratory flows, the political foes of Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva of Zion will celebrate today their overthrow of Voliva's twenty-four year dictatorship in the April 2 election, and cry:

"Four years of prosperity for Zion!"

Over at his office, Mr. Voliva, glowering beneath his bushy eyebrows, as he prepares for Easter services, repeats his prophecy: "Those rebels won't last ninety days. Their own constituents will throw them bodily out of office when they discover their inefficiency and lack of intelligence. My people won't work for that rabble."

The whole town is festooned with ribbons to proclaim what Mayor William Edwards calls "the day of emancipation." A platform has been erected on 27th street in the heart of Zion. On this platform six city officials, two township officials, and six school board members, all Voliva foes, three of them elected April 13, will make speeches and "take the oath of office" this afternoon. They took the oath officially soon after the election and will be merely repeating it today.

FEDERAL FARM PURCHASE BILL RUNS INTO SNAG

Scheme Declared Land Socialization.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—The Bankhead bill to put the government in the landlord business, with a billion dollars to start with, ran into more opposition than its supporters in the senate had exepected today and did not come to a vote. However, Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson, one of its strongest supporters, obtained an agreement for limitation of debate Monday and hopes that he can put it over then.

This measure, which the senate has debated for three days, would create a Farmers' Home corporation with authority to issue 1 billion dollars in fully guaranteed bonds to buy land, improve it, and sell it on 60 years' time to tenant farmers and share croppers, most of whom are in the south.

Will Move to Recommit.

Before consenting to the debate limitation Senator Harry Flood Byrd [Dem., Va.] served notice that he would move on Monday to recommit the bill to the banking and currency committee, which has not considered it at all. The agriculture committee gave it only scant attention before reporting it out favorably.

Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] said the measure ought to go back to the agriculture committee, or else to the janitor, and Senator Ellison D. Smith [Dem., S. C.], chairman of the agriculture committee, replied that the senate could take its choice so far as he was concerned.

Smith is against the bill because he doesn't believe the government should underwrite a billion dollars to put several hundred thousand tenant farmers in the production of cotton while the AAA is paying benefits to decrease production of cotton.

Like Russian Scheme.

The bill was attacked from both the Republican and Democratic sides today as a land socialization scheme along the lines of the Russian experiment.

"Why, under the terms of this bill, the Farmers' Home corporation can lease, as well as sell the land it buys, to tenant farmers and share croppers," said Senator Byrd. "Isn't that about what they are doing in Russia?"

Senator Bankhead explained that the senate, during the absence of Senator Byrd, had adopted an amendment striking out the word "lease."

Senator Dickinson contended that the farmers of the country already have too much credit, that they would be better off without the temptation to increase their incumbrances and add to their land holdings. He also assailed the inconsistency of the program as it relates to the AAA.

Off and On Proposition.

"One time we had a bill here to curtail the production of cotton and it is my understanding that that has put a great many farmers off the land," he said. "Now we propose to buy the land and build houses on it and furnish the tools and the live stock and the other necessary equipment and put the men back in the production of cotton.

"There is no limitation in this bill on the amount of land that can be purchased. It can become a land speculation program and it will become a land socialization program. It is another advance in the direction of soviet Russia."

Senator Dickinson also attacked the bond provision. He cited figures to show that the federal government already has authorized the alphabetical lending agencies to issue fully guaranteed bonds aggregating 11 billion 350 million dollars.

Makes U. S. Pay Self.

When Senators Dickinson and Smith suggested that the share croppers would not be any better off if placed on farms of their own—might, in fact, be worse off because of their increased responsibilities—Senator Thomas P. Gore [Dem., Okla.] replied ironically that the gentlemen were greatly mistaken.

"O yes," he said, "they will be much better off. They will receive AAA bounties for what they don't grow and that's what they will use to pay for their land."

Senator Gore described the processing tax as "a tax levied upon the consumer to pay the producer for what he doesn't produce in order to increase his price to the consumer."

KINGFISH WARNS 'ALPHABET GANG' OF NEW RAZZING

Back from Baton Rouge in Jubilant Mood.

New Orleans, La., April 19.—[Special.]—Senator Huey P. Long returned to New Orleans from Baton Rouge this afternoon in high glee and as he expressed it, "raring to get to Washington and show up this alphabet gang that Roosevelt has surrounded himself with."

Senator Long had succeeded in rushing through the legislature all of the bills giving him greater power over the state. He took particular joy in the passage of the bill which places the handling of federal funds in the hands of a state board. Secretary Ickes has declared that Louisana will not get a cent of federal money to build up "a Long machine." Director Hopkins of the FERA has also shown an inclination to deny funds to the state if the money is to be handled by Long boards.

Sounds His Warning.

Said Senator Long: "When I get through with these alphabet boys in my speech before the senate, probably Monday, we'll see if they're going to spend the money of the people in order to build up a machine for Mr. Roosevelt and their gang. In Louisiana we've spent a lot of money, and spent it honestly, and we ain't going to allow men like Ickes and those of my enemies he has already-appointed, to come in here and buy votes for their boss. Mr. Ickes says I have halitosis of the intellect. That ain't nothing to what he's got. He admits I at least have an intellect, but I don't admit anything about him."

Reiterates Jackass Story.

Senator Long then reiterated his story in which he had likened the secretary of the interior to a jackass. Then he said, "I'm going to tell the senate just what this Washington gang is trying to do, I'm going to ask the senators if they want them to come into their states and try to put them out of business in case they happen to criticize the wastefulness and inefficiency of the alphabet boys. Mr. Ickes and his bunch will look sick when I get through with them."

Hauptmann's First Lawyer Moves to Collect $4,200

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—James M. Fawcett of Brooklyn, former counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, said today he has engaged an agent to collect $1,200 fees and $3,000 in expenses from Hauptmann. The lawyer's claim is based on services soon after Hauptmann was arrested last September. Fawcett left the case before Hauptmann was tried, found guilty, and sentenced to the electric chair for the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

DISABLED BIRD FLIES AGAINST WINDOW OF AUDUBON SOCIETIES

New York, April 19.—(AP)—A disabled woodcock, lost over New York's steel and concrete forests, today flew plump against a window of the offices occupied by the National Association of Audubon Societies.

Members of the bird societies' staf hurried out to pick up the bird from the roof where it had fallen and found it had been stunned, but had suffered no ill effects from its crash.

Nothing so appropriate had ever happened before, they said. It was the first visit of such a bird to the city since 1927.

The crippled woodcock will be turned over to William Vogt, who is in charge of the Jones beach, Long Island, bird sanctuary, and there restored to flying condition, banded and released.

FILM OF LONG'S BATTLE BARRED AT NEW ORLEANS

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—New Orleans theater-goers will not be permitted to see a movie reënactment of Kingfish Huey Long's famous battle of Long Island, even though the senator from Louisiana posed for part of the scene himself as an episode in a portrayal of his political career by the March of Time.

A few hours before a new release of the screen review opened today at Loew's State theater in New Orleans, the manager received a telegram from the theater chain's home office in New York ordering him to eliminate the entire Long sequence.

"We can't understand it," said a spokesman for the March of Time in New York. "The senator posed for much of the feature and certainly had a pretty fair idea of what it was to show. Perhaps some one is attempting to protect him without his knowledge."

The telegram to the New Orleans manager was signed "Levy." At the Loew executive offices here, minor officials were sure no one named Levy had authority to send such an telegram.

By judicious cutting, the Battle of Long Island is sliced down to a closeup of the bath club's washroom, a sudden scuffle, and the vicious swing of a clenched fist. Then the scene shifts to Huey's hotel room with its famous sign: "Can's receive visitors today."

HEAVY GUARD PUT OVER POET TRIED AS GIRL'S SLAYER

Defense Attorney Enters State Hospital.

Dixon, Ill., April 19.—(AP)—Charles Skinner, poem penning hermit of Amboy, elected to make a finish fight of his murder trial today after his chief counsel suddenly had become demented and had been taken in manacles to a hospital for the insane.

The 43 year old poet is accused of slaying 17 year old Olive Derwent in a fit of frustrated love. After the loss of his principal defender, Attorney Clyde Smith took the versifier's case and opened the defense by subjecting major state witnesses to a raking examination before a packed courthouse.

Heavy Guard Over Poet.

A heavy guard was placed over Skinner today. Fifteen deputy sherifs, state police, and detectives watched every movement of both the poet and the crowd. Three railroad detectives were placed at strategic points in the courtroom. Placing of the guard followed threatening gestures made against Skinner by the crowd earlier in the trial.

Harold Nimz, young lawyer whose mind apparently cracked under the strain of the proceedings, was adjudged insane at a hearing and was taken to the East Moline State hospital in handcuffs this afternoon.

Smith gave no intimation of his plans as he stepped into the breach. He closely questioned a trio of prosecution witnesses—Dr. E. A. Sullivan, Mrs. Dorothy Camery, aunt of the victim, and Mrs. Earl Stout—but failed to shake their stories. The physician and the aunt had testified that the high school girl had named Skinner as her assailant when told her wounds might prove fatal.

Girl's Identification Told.

The girl was shot last Jan. 30 by a stealthy gunman, who fired a fusillade of bullets at her and her escort, John Scott, as they sat in a parked car. Mrs. Stout told how Skinner allegedly had informed her that the "Lily White Snow Flake" of his verses was "running around" with Scott.

Nimz's strange actions attracted attention last night when the young attorney went about town telling people his client had been acquitted. Then he broke the furnishings of his boarding house room.

County Judge William L. Leech called a sanity hearing today, and an affidavit from the lawyer's father, Eli Nimz of Chicago, was introduced. It ascribed his son's insanity to overwork caused by the trial.

RUSSIAN SINGS TO BOOKKEEPER; SENT TO PRISON

MOSCOW, April 19.—(AP)—On charges that he sang to his bookkeeper and spent government funds and time breeding pigeons, Mikhail Ifremoff, chief engineer of the hard soil excavation department of the Moscow subway, was sentenced today to ten years in prison.

Bookkeeper Snetkoff, who listened to the singing and was convicted of hiding the shortages, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment.

It was charged that Ifremoff spent $2,100 of government funds for taxis to go to and from his pigeon farm. Testimony also showed that he frequently put aside his blueprints, removed the telephone receivers from their hooks, and sang arias to the delighted Snetkoff, who should have been at work.

JOHNSON LEARNS CONTROLERS ARE UNSENTIMENTAL

Made to Return "Gift" of U. S. Furniture.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Reappearance of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson on the New Deal stage yesterday as the final NRA defense witness before the senate finance committee was followed today by disclosure of one of the last teapot tempests precipitated by the general before leaving public life.

Loyalists See Nothing Wrong.

Although the furniture was government property, the Johnson loyalists saw nothing wrong in their act because, they said, the general was then working on his final report to President Roosevelt, which was government business.

Controler General John R. McCarl, government watchdog, didn't think much of this explanation and demanded the return of the government property. Johnson refused to surrender it. McCarl notified the division of supplies in the treasury department that it must either get the furniture back or make up the difference.

Meanwhile the Johnson worshipers in the NRA, as another sentimental gesture, were collecting contributions from all NRA employés to buy the departed general a gift. One suggestion was that an automobile be purchased. Johnson had had trouble with his automobiles, having had to sell his Lincoln when Henry Ford spurned the blue eagle. Altogether between $1,200 and $1,300 was collected.

Won't Take Check.

When McCarl demanded Johnson's office furniture back, Braddish Carroll, NRA custodian of the contributions, offered to pay the treasury for the desk, chair and accessories given to Johnson. He was informed that the government was not in the furniture selling business. Nobody would take the check.

Finally furniture resembling that at which Johnson labored as NRA head was purchased for him by his NRA followers with their contributions and, marked with a little silver plaque, were sent to the general in exchange for the genuine articles. Thus has the one-time NRA chief been stripped finally of the last symbols of his departed authority.

Sandusky of Cicero. LIFE OF BREMER THREATENED BY GANG, JURY TOLD

Karpis Named Buyer of Signal Lights.

St. Paul, Minn., April 19.—[Special.]—Alvin Karpis, fugitive leader of the Barker-Karpis gang, today was identified definitly as the man who purchased flashlights used as the payoff signal in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, for which ten persons are on trial in United States District court here.

A picture of Karpis was identified by Mrs. Florence Humphrey, employé in a St. Paul department store, as that of the man who bought the signal lights and red lenses from her last Jan. 27, when Bremer was a captive. The lights, put in evidence yesterday by the government, were found near Mazeppa, Minn., where the payoff was made by Walter Magee, St. Paul contractor and friend of the Bremer family.

Bremer Again Threatened.

Other developments of the fifth day of the trial in which Arthur ["Doc"] Barker, and nine others, including John J. ["Boss"] McLaughlin of Chicago are charged with kidnaping and conspiracy to kidnap included:

Revelation that threats to put Bremer "on the spot" have been made by remnants of the Barker-Karpis gang within the last three months.

Identification of a number of photographs of fugitives who are sought in connection with the kidnaping, including Dr. Joseph P. Moran of Chicago, former intimate of McLaughlin, who is reported to have treated Bremer's wounds during his stay at Bensenville and William Harrison, former Chicago golf professional.

Introduction of fingerprints of Barker as matching prints on gasoline cans found along the route driven by Bremer's abductors from Bensenville, Ill., to Rochester, Minn., when they released him.

Rented Garage to Alderton.

Testimony by Edward R. Bishop of Tomahawk, Wis., formerly of Bensenville, that he had rented a garage to Harold Alderton, Bensenville farmer and one of the defendants.

Coincident with the revelation that Bremer's life has been threatened, it was learned that the wealthy young banker is guarded constantly.

Plans to kill Bremer, reported made by Alvin Karpis and Volney Davis, fugitives, were started after he visited Bensenville early this year and identified the house where he had been held for 21 days after his kidnaping on Jan. 17, 1934. The plan, department of justice agents learned, was to shoot Bremer on a St. Paul street.

Describes Career of Crime.

The start of Barker's criminal career a decade ago in Oklahoma was injected into the trial today as the government put John Duncan of the Oklahoma state division of investigation on the stand.

Duncan also identified a photograph of Volney Davis, who was known as the boy friend of Edna Murray, another of the defendants. Davis escaped from federal agents at Yorkville, Ill.

Davis was taken by airplane from Kansas City and the ship was forced down at Yorkville. While a federal agent was phoning Chicago headquarters another agent stood drinking beer with Davis. Suddenly Davis dashed the beer in the agent's face, leaped through a window, and fled.

BANDIT SHOOTS WOMAN; OFFERS BLOOD DONATION

Lawrence, Mass., April 19.—[Special.]—With his victim dying in Lawrence General hospital, the young bandit who shot her last night offered today from his cell in Salem, N. H., to give his blood to Mrs. Florence Foley of North Andover.

The 20 year old Lynn gunman was captured in Pony Inn in Salem after he and a companion had ordered patrons of the place to hold up their hands and had shot Mrs. Foley through the abdomen when she fled to a closet. His companion escaped in a stolen car.

Capt. Carl C. Kilpatrick went to the captive's cell and informed him that the woman probably would die and that he was in a "tough spot."

"She'll probably need a blood transfusion won't she?" the prisoner asked.

He was told that one had already been given her and to this he said:

"Well, why can't I give my blood?"

AERIAL ARMADA TO FLY 11,000 MI. IN NAVY GAMES

Planes to Circumnavigate Eastern Pacific.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Pedro, Cal., April 19.—[Special.]—As part of the exercises of the combined arms of the American Navy to be conducted over 5,000,000 square miles of the Pacific ocean this spring, the navy air force will conduct a massed circumnavigation of the eastern Pacific by air.

The plan, kept secret until today, is for an armada of the giant multi-motored service seaplanes to sweep northward from San Diego within two weeks, cover the American mainland to the Canadian border, hop to the Alaskan coast, leap the Gulf of Alaska to Kodiak Island, then to Dutch Harbor in the Aleutian Islands, where there is a navy aerial base.

Honolulu on Route.

From Dutch Harbor the massed flight will wing to Adak Island, a pinnacle of the bleak "weather factory" of Bering sea, which in the last few years has been assuming more than geographical importance. The ships will be overhauled at Adak for a 2,000 mile formation flight to Midway Island, western-most tip of the Hawaiian group, and thence to Honolulu and back to the mainland.

Anyone who wishes to interpret this ambitious project as a demonstration that the eastern half of the Pacific might be considered an American millpond, will be permitted to draw his conclusions.

Naval officers say nothing of the sort, but they do regard the enterprise as surpassing any former effort in history, even the successful flight of Gen. Balbo's Italians to Chicago.

Details Kept Secret.

Details of the expedition have been guarded carefully. No announcement has been made as to personnel assigned for the 11,000 mile flight, which of the navy's nine aerial squadrons will be assigned for the flight, nor the number of planes to go.

The flight will be conducted under Rear-Admiral Alfred W. Johnson, commanding the patrol wing of the fleet's high seas air force. Admiral Johnson leaves San Diego Monday aboard the U. S. S. Chester for Pearl Harbor where he will direct the operation from mid-Pacific.

Two of the surface units assigned to the expedition, the minesweepers Tern and Gannet, left San Diego today conveying fuel, spare parts, emergency gear, supplies, and to lay moorings for the seaplanes along the flight's route.

One Phase of Game.

The expedition is one phase of the giant war game of the American fleet, which will involve 177 battle craft and cover the six weeks between April 29 and June 10.

The exercise is regarded as the battle fleet's most important in years and is intended to enable the entire American striking force, under Admiral Joseph Reeves, to simulate the maneuvers it would have to perform in case of sea attack upon American possessions from a hostile fleet heading from the orient.

Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, newly arrived from Great Lakes Naval Training station, has been installed in command of the supply, repair, and service units of the combat craft.

WARDEN THOMAS REINSTATED; THEN RESIGNS HIS POST

Columbus, O., April 19.—(AP)—As suddenly as he was suspended as warden of Ohio penitentiary four months ago Preston E. Thomas was reinstated today to the position he held for 23 years.

Mrs. Margaret Allman, director of welfare, announced the withdrawal of removal charges filed against Thomas with the state civil service commission and the receipt of Thomas' resignation, effective May 1.

The arrangement makes no change in the present directing staf of Ohio penitentiary, as Thomas requested that he be relieved of active service until his resignation becomes effective in 12 days.

Mrs. Allman filed 17 charges, including inefficiency, immoral conduct, and failure to prepare for emergencies, with the commission in seeking Thomas' permanent removal. While the reason behind Thomas' reinstatement and his immediate resignation was not explained by Mrs. Allman, many believed it was actuated by uncertainty as to whether the commission would uphold the removal order and a desire by the warden to place himself back in good standing in order that he might become eligible for a pension in event a state employés' retirement bill now before the legislature should be enacted.

AMERICA FOUND FIRST BY IRISH, SAYS EXPLORER

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 19.—(AP)—Dr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, arctic explorer, today said the Irish discovered America six or seven centuries before the voyage of Christopher Columbus in 1492. He told the Pennsylvania Historical association the pope has documents to support this claim.

"We'll probably never know the name of the man who discovered America," he added, "but we may be positive he was an Irishman."

Stefansson described a paper written by an Irish monk in 820 A. D. telling of colonization of Iceland by the Irish at that time and said Vatican records show the pope in 1126 made Greenland a separate bishopric which had an unbroken line of bishops until 1528.

Dr. Stefansson added that history should credit Columbus with the discovery of the West Indies, but that the Irish should be recorded as the discoverers of the continent—an accomplishment which also has been claimed for the Norsemen.

ROBS DRUGGIST OF $125.

An armed man entered the drug store of Dante Varone, 3854 Division street, yesterday, threatened Varone with a gun, and rifled two cash drawers of a total of $125. The robber then locked Varone in a rear room and fled.

KING OF BULGARIA ENDS ARMY RULE; NAMES CIVILIAN

Military Factions in Clash for Power.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 19.—(AP)—King Boris, still the head man in his government, crossed up contending army factions today and named Andrea Toscheff, civilian, diplomat, and historian, to the vacant premiership.

Toscheff replaced Gen. Petko Zlateff, whose army dominated cabinet resigned yesterday after the arrest and internment of several leading statesmen tore it apart.

All through the day sabers rattled, heels clicked, and telephones buzzed in the royal palace as rival military leaders wrangled for the upper hand in the tangled political situation.

New Premier a Nationalist.

At nightfall the king, whose disposition to run Bulgarian affairs has been increasingly evident since his "royal putsch" last January, surprised military and political circles by choosing Toscheff to form the new government.

An ardent Nationalist, the premier-designate has served as minister to Belgrade, Vienna, Istanbul, and other capitals. He has not figured largely in the country's politics for many years, however.

Uncertainty was injected into the situation just before the announcement from the royal palace when it became known that various groups of army officers were conferring among themselves as well as with the monarch.

Political Leaders United.

Meanwhile, leaders of political parties, officially defunct in Bulgaria through former Premier Kimon Gueorguieff's decree doing away with the parliamentary régime, seemed united for the first time in years—united in protest against the arrest and internment of the one eyed Gueorguieff, former Premier Alexander Zankoff and others.

Also tending to drive them together, it appeared, was their common desire that the army get out of politics. Army leaders, however, showed no inclination to fall in with that desire.

Surprise at Toscheff's designation was the more because Gen. Todod Radeff, minister of education in the Zlateff cabinet, had been generally regarded as the likeliest candidate for the priemership. Radeff, Col. Koleff, and Col. Naidenoff figured prominently in the palace conversations.

Routs 3 Robbers, Wounds Machinist Working Nearby

FRANCE, RUSSIA IN 'QUARREL'; WAR ALLIANCE IS OFF

Paris Refuses Automatic Aid to Moscow.

sia to be wartime allies if French communists subsidized by Moscow are doing everything in their power to sabotage the French army.

The real reason for Laval's about-face, which completely changes the European setup, is that at Geneva he obtained serious undertakings from the British and a pretty explicit pledge from the Poles to renew their tieup with France if the Russian entanglement were headed off.

While technically it is Litvinov who broke off the negotiations, it seems pretty clear that Laval deliberately brought this about by a desperate last minute maneuver.

He was not a minute too soon. It was rumored here today that Reichsfuehrer Hitler was planning to make a speech tomorrow in which he was expected to announce defiance to the whole world, thus killing the last chance for further negotiations. As a result of Laval's decision, it is believed the fuehrer will cancel his address or radically alter its tone.

Russians Are Furious.

The Russians are furious at what they consider Laval's betrayal. They insist he had given unconditional approval to the text drafted at Geneva with Litvinov and an equally unconditional pledge to sign it when he got back to Paris.

The Quai d'Orsay does not yet officially admit the breakdown of the negotiations. A semi-official communique issued tonight announced that Litvinov was not coming, but that Potemkin would initial the pact tomorrow. A little later it was suggested that the ceremony of initialing the pact might have to be postponed on account of Laval's leaving for the Easter holidays.

Even if by some miracle the initialing should take place, it will not be the Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact devised ten days ago, but some innocuous, emasculated document with no real meaning. Even this possibility seems almost incredible, however, in view of the open break between Laval and Litvinov.

Laval in Row With Herriot.

Up to a late hour it could not be exactly ascertained whether it was Laval himself who took the initiative of revising the text of the pact agreed upon at Geneva or whether he was instructed to do so by the council of ministers, as the Russian ambassador was officially told.

One plausible version current tonight is that Laval informed his colleagues it would be disastrous to conclude a pact with the soviets in the form envisaged and that unless it was modified he would never consent. One unconfirmed rumor even mentions that he threatened to resign.

In any case, it is reported there was a bitter row between Laval and former Premier Edouard Herriot. The latter, who apparently is completely hypnotized by the soviets, demanded that nothing be done to compromise the signing of the pact. Undoubtedly Laval has brought down a political hornet's nest on his head, and it is not impossible that a split may occur in the cabinet.

Predict Red May Day Riots.

One probable consequence of the breakdown in the negotiations with the soviets which is causing some apprehension is serious Red disorders on May day, if not earlier.

In the diplomatic field another possible dangerous consequence is a revolt against France by the little entente — Jugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania—and the conclusion of a separate pact between them and the soviets.

JAPANESE ASSAIL U. S. MANEUVERS AS "OFFENSIVE"

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, April 19.—Criticisms implying that the coming American naval maneuvers in the North Pacific are "offensive" in character as compared with Japan's "defensive" exercises carried out in the South Pacific last year appeared in two Tokio newspapers today.

Homiuri said that although the American fleets will ostensibly be kept 2,000 miles from Japan, the nature of the maneuvers will make it difficult to observe this rule, as the western extremity of the American Aleutian islands is only 700 miles from the Japanese Kuriles. The newspaper asserted that the significance of the maneuvers will be in their attacking strategy.

Kokumin said that because the extreme end of the maneuver area is only 700 miles from the Kuriles, the Japanese navy attaches serious importance to the results. A certain section of the navy, said Kokumin, while admitting the United States' right to hold these maneuvers, considers that the United States should have refrained in view of the international situation.

FIREMEN PRAISED AS HEROES.

Firemen Nels Thorson and George Olson of Truck 19 were praised for heroism by a coroner's jury at the inquest yesterday into the death of Mrs. Mary Fashingbauer, 47 years old, 458 North Green street. She died Wednesday of burns received in a fire in her home the day before. The firemen carried her from the flames.

MASKED BANDITS HOLD UP COUPLE; GET $8,000 LOOT

Two armed and masked men held up and robbed Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, 7131 Crandon avenue, in front of their home early today. From Mrs. Martin they took jewelry valued at $4,800, a mink coat worth $3,000, and $35. Mr. Martin surrendered a $100 watch.

The Martins had stopped their car and were getting out when the men, parked near by in a small car, leaped out and confronted them with drawn pistols. The jewelry taken from Mrs. Martin included three rings and a $2,500 brooch.

THREE GIRLS PICK NEIGHBOR, 54, AS ASSAILANT OF ONE

Andrew Evanchuck, 54 years old, 749 Temple street, was held by the Racine avenue police yesterday after three small neighbor girls identified him as the man who had lassoed one of them with a cord and attempted to pull her into an alley. One child, 9 years old, was walking near her home when the cord was flung about her neck. As she was being dragged into the alley, her sister, 11 years old, and a friend, 10, saw the situation and fought with the assailant, meanwhile crying for help. The girls parted the cord and the man fled. A few minutes later the Racine avenue police seized Evanchuck nearby.

HITLER 46 TODAY; BE TRUE TO HIM, GERMANS TOLD

Nation to Honor Dictator with Great Pomp.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 19.—Germany tonight prepared to celebrate Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's 46th birthday tomorrow. The reich's national press chief, Otto Dietrich, as well as almost all newspapers, urged the population to show their love for the fuehrer by "keeping their nerve in these difficult times and remaining absolutely true to him."

Dietrich in his birthday proclamation said:

"Let us give the fuehrer what even the poorest of our countrymen can give—a firm determination to follow his leadership and trusting faith wherever he leads us. By so doing we serve the nation. We also honor ourselves by honoring the fuehrer."

Tribute to Hitler.

"In the year of the national socialist revolution we celebrated him as a fighter and creator of German unity," he said. "In 1934 we honored him as a statesman and builder of the new reich. On his forty-sixth birthday we turn over a new leaf in German history. In his forty-sixth year the fuehrer has returned military sovereignty to the reich.

"The national army with its glorious tradition is revived and we no longer shall be buffeted around by others. Through him we have reconquered equality of rights. This is the military deed of the politician Hitler which history will place on the same level as the political achievements of the unknown soldier Hitler. He symbolizes the eternal power of regeneration of the people. If we see in Hitler, in his indestructible vitality, an embodiment of the German people, then unconditional faith in him must be a moral law that binds us all."

Band Serenades Hitler.

Hitler returned to Berlin from Munich this evening for the celebration. The band of his infantry regiment arrived in the capital to serenade him. George Fuerst, the composer of Badenweiler, the reichsfuehrer's favorite march, conducted the band.

The climax of the celebration is fixed for tomorrow evening when Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering's bride, Emmy Sonnemann, bids farewell to the state theater in a special birthday festival performance. She will play in "Minna von Barnhelm," by Lessing. The plan of portraying herself as Queen Louise of Prussia in her farewell performance was dropped because it was feared a political interpretation might be given to the play, which centers around the Hohenzollerns.

All large German cities will give food and presents to the needy in honor of the fuehrer's birthday. All German ships have received orders to display their flags. Captains will address their crews on the importance of the birthday. Catholic churches will hoist church flags to show that the relations between Hitler and the church have improved.

Jews Declare Their Loyalty.

The Association of National German Jews has sent a message to Hitler assuring him of their loyalty. The association expresses the hope that "despite the incomprehensible league of nations council's resolution [condemning Germany for rearming] Germany will not change her military policy."

The chancellery declared it received so many messages of congratulations for the dictator that it will be closed to the public until all messages are handled.

Diplomats, meanwhile, wondered when Hitler will find time to deal with the league's censure. A strong Nazi group is urging him to ignore the condemnation entirely and to proceed as if nothing had happened.

Good Friday Ignored by Many.

Good Friday usually is celebrated with the greatest austerity throughout the nation, but this year many of the workers engaged in rebuilding army barracks ignored the holiday by remaining on the jobs.

Followers of the new Germanic religion, which does not recognize the Christian Easter, are celebrating instead the "holiday of the Goddess Ostera" whom they describe as the Germanic goddess of fecundity. In their "farmers' calendar" Good Friday is marked down as the day to remember the "4,500 Saxons slaughtered by Charles the Butcher [meaning Charlemagne] and 9,000,000 innocents murdered because of their faith."

300 Miners Pass 60th Hour on Hunger Strike in Pit

BEUTHEN, Germany, April 19.—(AP)—Three hundred miners, fighting against a heavy wage cut, passed their sixtieth hour tonight on a hunger strike in the coal pit of the Artur mine near Chrzanow, Poland. Owners of the mine announced that the wage reduction was made in order to keep the mine going, and at the same time deducted the workers' life insurance contributions from their salaries instead of the company paying them as previously.

France to Operate New Lottery of $8,500,000 on Turf Classic

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 19.—The French state, which already operates a huge national lottery with prizes varying from $60 to $160,000, today decided to enlarge the official gambling activities by the creation of a sweepstake in imitation of the one in the Irish Free State.

The occasion will be the Grand Prix, classic of the French turf, which is run on the Longchamp track outside Paris the last Sunday in June.

Seven Per Cent to Charity.

The total value of the tickets issued will be more than $8,500,000, although this figure may be reduced to about $6,000,000 in view of the short time remaining to organize the sweepstake. Seven per cent of the total will be taken for charities, like the public wards ordinarily supported by the pari-mutuel. Another 8 per cent will be distributed among organizations such as the association for men with faces multilated in the world war.

At the same time the national lottery administration decided to make its lottery game bigger and gaudier with the announcement that beginning with the seventh slice of tickets to be issued April 29 with the drawing about July 1, the biggest prize will be raised from $160,000 to $195,000.

The number of tickets issued will be increased from 1,000,000 to 1,200,000 and the number of small prizes of all categories will be augmented 20 per cent.

Winners Refuse to Donate.

A banker of the city of La Rochelle on the west coast of France, who sold the ticket winning the grand prize of $160,000 in the drawing of March 19 has just revealed that the winners, contrary to usual custom, refused to donate a single penny to orphan children. He says the incident is not uncommon, his bank having been lucky and sold several tickets which won prizes in the lesser category of $65,000.

The winners having refused to make any donations whatever, he has given $325 out of his own pocket, although he had no luck himself.

FRANCE RAISES SERVICE TERM FOR MEN IN NAVY

PARIS, April 19.—(AP)—The ministry of marine decided today to increase the enlistment period in the navy from 24 to 30 months. The measure parallels the action taken by the army recently. There will be an intermediate stage for those due to leave the service July 1. They will be compelled to serve only 27 months. Although service in the navy is not by conscription, those who are called on to serve in the army may select sea service instead. Service in the fleet always has been longer than that in the army.

ASK BRITISH LAW TO FORCE AUTOIST PAY FOR KILLING

Compensate Victims' Kin, Minister's Demand.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 19.—Minister of Transport L. Hore-Belisha, having almost exhausted the possibilities of beacons, colored lights, and other precautions at dangerous highway crossings, is about to turn his attention to the removal of what he considers a hideous blot from the statute book. He intends to ask parliament to pass a bill compelling careless motorists to pay compensation to relatives of persons killed through the drivers' negligence.

As the law stands now, a careless driver who kills a cow, horse, dog, sheep or any other animal of pecuniary value is liable for damages. As much as $3,000 has been paid for a horse killed on the king's highway. But for killing a child through negligence no compensation can be demanded.

Couple Lose Two Children.

A glaring example of this anomaly is shown by a double tragedy suffered by a married couple living near the Great West road, one of Great Britain's most modern highways. Ten months ago their 5 year old son was killed by an automobile. At the inquest the jury found there had been negligence but not of so gross a kind as to justify a charge of manslaughter. The bereaved parents expected some compensation for their loss, but failed to recover anything.

A few weeks ago their 6 year old daughter was killed by an automobile almost at the same spot. They again claimed damages, but were unsuccessful. Moreover they were obliged to pay their own funeral expenses.

Under a recent law a motorist may be forced to pay something in case of a fatal accident. If relatives of persons killed in auto accidents sue the driver they may, perhaps, be awarded $50 to cover funeral expenses, but the sum is so small that relatives rarely take such action. Moreover, the agony of having to give evidence and hear all over again exactly how the accident happened often proves too much of an ordeal to face.

A County court judge in deciding a recent action brought by parents for compensation in respect of their son's death put the whole thing in a nutshell.

Judge Assails Law.

"The law as it is framed today," he said, "is that it is cheaper to kill a child than a cow, because a cow is a source of profit, whereas a child is a source of expense."

At Liverpool a few days ago a 4 year old girl was awarded $6,500 damages for injuries she received when she was knocked down by an automobile. On the same day the father of five children was killed in the same district. His wife received no compensation.

Hore-Belisha intends to get the law amended so that parents and relatives will have the right to adequate compensation for their loss through the carelessness of a motorist. Even if the motorist was not at fault, sufficient expenses to cover funeral and other costs should be awarded survivors, the minister argues.

FUGITIVE BROUGHT BACK.

Columbus Wilson, 28 years old, colored, who escaped from the Chicago State hospital for the insane a year ago, was returned to Chicago yesterday by Sergt. Ben Chatham of Memphis, Tenn. Wilson was arrested at the home of his mother in Memphis.

WOMAN SEEKING SURGERY AID IS HURT IN CRASH

Two women were critically injured and four other persons less seriously hurt yesterday when two automobiles collided head-on in Grand avenue near McAree road, just west of Waukegan. The most seriously injured are Mrs. Edna McCullom, 45 years old, 113 North Utica street, Waukegan, and Mrs. Cora Zellers, 58 years old, 312 Madison street, Waukegan.

Mrs. Zellers and Olander Campbell, 63 years old, 113 North Utica street, Waukegan, were taking Mrs. McCullom to the Lake County General hospital, Waukegan, for a minor operation. Campbell and the driver of the other car, Berger Nielsen, 17 years old, of Gurnee; his mother, Camelia, and his sister, Elsie, also were injured.

Thomas Wolenberg, 4 years old, 4339 North Ashland avenue, was fatally injured last evening when he was struck in an alley behind his home by a laundry truck driven by Charles Gimble, 3828 North Mozart street. The boy died early today in the Ravenswood hospital.

This death increased the total in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 278. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 225 persons had been killed in accidents in Chicago and 4,308 had been injured.

ADMIT GERMANS HAVE LOST FAITH IN NAZI PRESS

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, April 19.—A frank confession that the average German gets his news through gossip and has lost faith in the strictly censored German newspapers is contained in the German Press, a journalistic trade organ published by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels' Reich Press league.

Referring to the flood of reports and rumors going from mouth to mouth throughout Germany, the article states:

"There has appeared between a calculable group of readers of published newspapers an incalculable group of readers of unpublished newspapers. Along with the published newspaper there has now reappeared the old vocal newspaper, the passing of news from mouth to mouth. The reader is not responsible. The newspapers are responsible. The newspaper is losing ground because it satisfies only 40 per cent of the reader's curiosity instead of 80 per cent. It is directly encouraging the reader to satisfy his curiosity 'behind the scenes' or 'confidentially.'

"A spoken newspaper may consist of mere gossip and rumor but its existence is a warning. It tells us that newspaper and reader have grown apart and newspapers are no longer fulfilling their original mission. The reader wants to know more about the things that affect his own life. Our newspapers, however, give no answer to these questions. The published word no longer has its former effect. The reader has became a mule to the newspaper."

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands, April 19.—(AP)—Rumors circulating here tonight that former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany is seriously ill were denied at Doorn castle. The rumors, which were not confirmable, persisted that he had not been seen outside the castle for the past two days and that doctors have called there frequently. Dispatches from Berlin and Potsdam said members of the Hohenzollern family had no information other than that Wilhelm was well.

PERMANENT POLL LIST CUTS FRAUD, JARECKI ASSERTS

Comparison of Signatures Effective, He Says.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Edmund K. Jarecki, county judge of Cook county since 1922, who was reëlected twice largely because of his work for clean elections in Chicago and the suburbs under the jurisdiction of the election board, declared unqualifiedly yesterday his certainty that the permanent registration bill now pending before the legislature at Springfield would go far toward ending much of the vote fraud against which he has been battling.

He attached great importance to the provision of the proposed law requiring the comparison of the signature of each applicant for a ballot with the signature on his registration card at the polling place.

Advantages of Signature System.

"Permanent registration," he said, "would effectively prevent voting by one person in the name of another, would prevent a vote's being cast in the name of a person who is out of the city on election day or is ill and unable to go to the polls, or who has died or has been convicted of an infamous crime and sent to the penitentiary since the next preceding revision of the registry."

Judge Jarecki included this analysis of the value of the proposed law, which is urged by the Illinois League of Women Voters, in a statement saying that in spite of all the precautions and safeguards he and the election commissioners have established there are some frauds still chargeable to the present registration system.

Money Saving a Big Factor.

In this statement he also pointed out that one of the chief purposes of requiring permanent registration would be that of saving money for the taxpayers. Judge Jarecki's statement follows:

"The purpose of registration is to give opportunity to those who wish to vote to qualify themselves to do so.

"Until 1927 the statute provided for a biennial general registration to take place immediately preceding each congressional election, in which year the life of a general registration was extended from two to four years, with intermediate registrations for all elections and primaries [except judicial elections].

"The purpose of extending the period of the general registration from two to four years was in the interest of economy. In connection with a general registration, two days are provided, while in intermediate registrations only one day is provided.

Studies Detroit System.

"Just prior to the convening of the present session of the legislature, when the matter of the proposed permanent registration bill was under discussion, I sent representatives of the board of election commissioners to Detroit, where the permanent registration system is in use, to make a survey of this system in order to ascertain whether it was workable in Chicago and the cities, towns, and villages within the jurisdiction of the Chicago election board.

"The report made by such representatives was favorable. The representatives were of the opinion that the signature requirement of the permanent registration law would prevent the voting of persons in the names of others. Another good feature is the placing of the warning card in the registration file of those registered persons concerning whom there was doubt as to their right to vote. The warning card is a signal or a direction to the precinct election officials that the person in connection with whose name it appears is to be challenged and required to establish his or her right to vote.

False Suspicion of Fraud.

"Under our present system of registration, in the very nature of things, there are many removals between the night of revision and the day of election, and there being no opportunity under the law, until after the next registration, to have the registrations of such persons canceled, it is frequently thought that such names on the books represent fraudulent registrations.

"This is not true, because at the time of registration they had a right to register and the fact that their names cannot be erased from the registers until after the next registration is no fault of theirs—neither is it the fault of the election board.

"It has been the uniform practice of the board throughout the present administration of the election office to post in each precinct polling place within its jurisdiction a printed list of the registered voters and an invitation to the public to examine the list and make application before the board for the erasure of the name of any person whom they know does not reside at the address printed opposite his or her name in such printed list.

Public Ignores Matter.

"Unhappily, the public, thus far, has not coöperated in a single solitary instance with the efforts of the board to strip from its printed lists the names of those persons who have no right to remain upon the registers.

"Under the law sponsored by the present board and the County court, the names of deceased persons and of persons convicted of infamous crimes have been erased from the registers, and those persons accordingly denied the right to vote. During the course of the year the board has removed the names of upward of 15,000 persons, thereby preventing voting in the names of such persons."

EIGHT COMPANIES REAP 5 MILLIONS ON SILVER POLICY

Roosevelt Stand Aids Wealthy Group.

In addition, after declaring no dividend in 1932 and declaring but holding back a 25 cent dividend in 1933, Phelps-Dodge declared a 50 cent dividend in 1934, the first year of higher silver prices. The 1933 dividend was distributed with the 1934 dividend, making total dividends paid by Phelps-Dodge to Mr. James or companies he owns $417,000 in 1934.

How important a rôle the increased silver price under the New Deal is to these increased company and private earnings is shown by the fact that one secondary company, the Federal Mining and Smelting company, reported to its stockholders that in its case "1 cent per ounce in the price of silver means about $15,000 per annum."

Receives $450,000 "Gift."

On this basis President Roosevelt's policy last year gave this company, which produced 914,353 ounces of silver, a $450,000 boost. If the New Deal eventually puts the silver price up to $1.29 an ounce it will mean $1,400,000 a year to this single company, which ranks just one notch below the leading eight.

Importance of silver to these companies grows out of the fact that, with the notable exception of the Sunshine Mining company, they produce silver merely as a byproduct. Their big business is in copper, lead, or zinc.

Production costs, and more beside, are made on copper or whatever the primary metal is for the company. Whatever they make on the silver byproduct is that much "gravy."

Silver's political strength lies in the fact that it is produced in the states of Idaho, Utah, Montana, Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, and Nevada, whose fourteen senators are a compact bloc and are able to enlist senators from California, Washington, Oregon, and other western states, as well as inflationists in the senate.

Production, Directors Listed.

The eight big companies, their production and prominent directors or owners, are:

1. Sunshine Mining company, Idaho and Washington, outstanding "pure" silver mine, probably largest producer. Produced 3,212,000 ounces in 1933, worth $1,124,200, compared with $2,071,740 under New Deal's 1934 price, a gain of $997,000. Believed to be owned largely by estate of A. E. Larson, Yakima, Wash., miner and capitalist.

2. Phelps Dodge, Inc., production jumped from about 2,400,000 ounces in 1933 to 3,247,718 in 1934. Production in latter year worth $2,094,960, compared with $1,136,695 at pre-New Deal prices, a gain of $985,000. Phelps Dodge recently acquired United Verde Mining company which produced 246,700 ounces of silver in 1934 and which was headed by the father of Lewis W. Douglas, former Roosevelt budget director. Prominent Phelps Dodge directors:

Louis Cates, president; director of First Security corporation and First Security Trust company, Salt Lake City, both of which were run by Marriner S. Eccles, New Deal governor of federal reserve board.

Lamont a Director.

Cleveland S. Dodge, vice president; director of Bank of New York Trust company and of Empire Star Mines company, fourth largest gold producer in country.

Walter Douglas, director; uncle of Lewis Douglas.

3. United States Smelting, Refining and Mining company. Produced 3,037,000 ounces in 1934, worth $1,958,865, a gain of $900,000 over previous values. Prominent directors:

C. A. Hight, president; member of board of directors of several associated mining companies.

S. W. Winslow Jr., director; president of United Shoe Machinery company.

John R. Macomber, director; chairman of board of Chase, Harris, Forbes & Co.; director of Harris Trust and Savings bank, Chicago; First National corporation, Boston; and International Paper company.

Robert F. Herrick, director; member of the law firm of Herrick, Smith, Donald & Farley; director of United Shoe Machinery, Nash Motors, and United Fruit companies.

4. Anaconda Copper Mining company. Produced 2,786,000 ounces in 1934, compared with 2,391,000 ounces in 1933; production in 1934 worth $1,796,970, compared with 1933 production of $836,850, a gain of $960,000. Prominent directors:

Grayson McP. Murphy, director; head of brokerage firm of that name; director of Guaranty Trust company; Bethlehem Steel company, and Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

Charles E. Mitchell, director; former chairman of board of National City company.

5. Silver King Coalition Mines. Produced 1,715,000 ounces in 1933, worth $600,250 then, would be worth $1,106,175 in 1934, a gain of $500,000. Controled by David Keith, Salt Lake City, who is co-trustee with Walker Bank and Trust company, Salt Lake, for 80,284 shares. Beneficiary of trust not known, but Walker bank once reported to be Guggenheim institution. James Ivers, director, holds 25,000 shares, and Thomas F. Kearns, vice president, holds 19,705 shares.

6. Bunker Hill and Sullivan. Produced 1,450,585 ounces in 1933, worth $507,710 then, $935,637 now, a gain of $428,000. Believed to be controled by Stanly Easton, president, Kellogg, Idaho.

7. Tintic Standard Mining company. Produced 1,329,543 ounces in 1934, worth $847,527, compared with $465,325 at pre-New Deal prices, a gain of almost $400,000. Controled by Ira D. Travis, president, and James W. Wade, vice president and manager, Salt Lake City.

8. Hecla Mining company. Produced 1,054,000 ounces in 1934, worth $679,830, compared with $368,830, a gain of $300,000. James F. McCarthy, Wallace, Idaho, president; A. W. Witherspoon, Spokane, director; director of Old National bank, First National Trust and Savings bank, and Finch Investment company, all of Spokane.

URGE PASSAGE OF REGISTRATION BILL BY HOUSE

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce joined yesterday in the demand that the permanent registration bill be retrieved from the house subcommittee that is holding it up in Springfield and promptly passed by the general assembly. Last week a group of Democrats caused the measure to be buried in a subcommittee of the house elections committee.

"Efforts to have the bill reported favorably have been blocked by machine politics," according to C. G. Ferris, executive vice president of the chamber. "Tremendous efforts are being made to revive the bill and spokesmen for the Illinois League of Women Voters, the initial sponsors, will be heard next Tuesday by the committee.

"Before that time it should be the duty of every member of every trade and commercial association in Chicago to demand that the Chicago representatives favor immediate positive action on this bill. If the bill is defeated it will undoubtedly be because Chicago legislators have felt that they could bow to the will of the machine in preference to the wishes of their constituents."

MUSSOLINI BACKS RESTORATION OF AUSTRIAN THRONE

Sees Hapsburgs as Only Way to Block Germany.

ROME, April 19.—(AP)—"A cordial colloquy of more than an hour" between Premier Mussolini and Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, Europe's chief exponents of fascism, today served to emphasize official Italy's growing sentiment for restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty in Austria.

Von Starhemberg—youthful vice chancellor of Austria, leader of the 100,000-strong Fascist Heimwehr [home guard] and stanch monarchist—talked to Il Duce about the Hapsburgs, Austria's rearmament and the forthcoming Danubian conference in Rome.

Aims to Block Germany.

It is freely conceded here that Italian officialdom looks upon eventual restoration of the monarchy in little Austria as the only means of staving off permanently Austria's union with Germany.

Austrian circles said tonight, however, that Von Starhemberg's report on prospects for an immediate restoration was not entirely favorable.

Austria alone, without Hungary, would not be sufficient domain for the Hapsburgs, he was reported as saying, and the trend of recent Hungarian elections was deemed unfavorable to the monarchy.

Concerning Austria's rearmament, already decreed by the Schuschnigg government, Von Starhemberg was said to have told Mussolini his nation "wishes to go slow" in contrast with Germany's precipitate action. Austria's financial stringency dictates only moderate rearmament, he was reported to have said.

Prince Leaves Rome Today.

The prince, who arrived here last night by airplane ostensibly to preside over an automobile touring party of prominent Austrians, will leave Rome tomorrow morning.

His visit stirred wide interest in diplomatic, political and royalist circles, especially because he wrote an article recently for the Italian review, Nuova Antologia [new anthology], openly advocating restoration of the Hapsburgs.

"If there are in Austria persons—and they are many—who cherish the desire and the hope of seeing the legitimate heir of the Hapsburgs reënter as chief of the state," the vice chancellor wrote, "I do not see anything in that which could contrast with the program and the intentions of the Austrian government."

RUSSIAN TROOPS GRAB CONTROL OF AREA IN CHINA

LANCHOW, Kansu Province, China, April 19.—(AP)—European business men today brought word from Hami, in eastern Sinkiang province, of an alleged sharp inrease in soviet Russian influence in the Sinkiang territory of northwest China.

The business men said that large bodies of soviet military had moved into Sinkiang, "virtually taking over control of the area," supporting an increased Russian commercial penetration there, and making it difficult for other foreigners to trade in Sinkiang.

The travelers said reports from Hami claim that the British military were present in southern Sinkiang as a buffer against possible penetration of soviet influence in India.

Fries Toad for Dinner; Baby Dies, 8 Others Ill

HONOLULU, April 19.—(AP)—A strange type of toad, with a poison sac in the head, was said today by physicians to have caused the death of Anna Tanpan, aged 2, and the serious illness of eight other members of the family. The toad, a type imported by sugar planters to combat Japanese beetles, was caught in a canefield by a boarder and was fried for dinner.

CHINESE RENEW BOYCOTT AGAINST JAPANESE GOODS

Officials' Efforts Fail to Halt Campaign.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 19.—Akira Ariyoshi, Japanese minister to China, will return home tomorrow after making three "farewell visits" to Nanking within six weeks for the purpose of interviewing Premier Wang Ching-wei on Sino-Japanese relations.

According to Japanese circles, Ariyoshi is in a pessimistic mood due to his alleged failure to bring about a material improvement, particularly concerning the cessation of the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods.

Launch "Buy Native" Drives.

While Chiang Kai-shek, virtual dictator of China, and Wang have ordered anti-Japanese activities to cease and Nanking has issued regulations designed to prevent the so-called patriotic societies from intimidating merchants handling Japanese merchandise, the whole country, especially students and chambers of commerce, are launching "buy native goods" campaigns. These campaigns are proving as effective as the original boycott.

Ten thousand school children in the Shanghai district yesterday assembled at the new civic center under official auspices and took an oath to purchase only native goods. They also promised to urge their friends to take similar action.

Pleads for Native Attire.

Lin Sen, China's 70 year old president, yesterday addressed a rally at Nanking. He urged the people of China to forget luxurious foreign clothing and attire themselves in native goods. "In my opinion native clothing is the proper attire," he said.

A conference of Japanese consular officers from all parts of China was held here last week. The officials allegedly were forced to admit the correctness of Japanese military appraisals that there has been little actual improvement in the attitude of the Chinese public toward Japan. They did declare that Chinese officials are more friendly.

A Tokio report published here stated, however, that China has agreed to refund most of Japan's long defaulted loans, some of which were originally negotiated in 1918.

Paris Postmen Rushed to Nice to Break Mail Strike

NICE, France, April 19.—(AP)—A flying squad of 100 postmen was rushed here from Paris today to distribute Nice's mail, with the aid of maps of the Riviera resort, after a strike of 200 local mail carriers because they were overworked by the distribution of campaign tracts for the coming municipal elections. All the strikers were suspended from duty.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was incorrectly stated yesterday that an Easter egg hunt would be held in Sherman park, 53d street and Racine avenue, at 2 o'clock tomorrow. It will be at 2:30 o'clock today.

An item yesterday said that Gene Oliver, former member of the old county board of assessors, had agreed to redeem for his divorced wife jewelry she had pawned. Mrs. Oliver declared that her former husband pawned the jewelry for his own use a few months before he began serving a federal prison sentence for income tax evasion.

Year's Most Violent Quake Jars British Seismograph

LONDON, April 19.—(AP)—The most violent earthquake recorded on seismographs in Great Britain this year was felt today beginning at 3:26 p. m. [Greenwich meridian daylight time—6:26 a. m. central standard time] and lasting for more than two hours. The seismologist of West Bromwich observatory said the shocks probably occurred in the vicinity of Asia Minor or Baffin bay.

CUBA DECLARES WAR ON ISLAND'S 'DILLINGER GANG'

Crime Commission Named to Draft New Laws.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, April 19.—Faced with gangster tactics which one high official said "make Dillinger look like a piker," President Mendieta today announced plans to combat crime in Cuba.

Ostensibly moved to action by the recent kidnaping of Eutimio Falla Bonet, from whom gangsters collected $300,000 in United States $100 banknotes here on April 4, the cabinet passed a decree providing for the immediate appointment of a national crime commission.

President Mendieta did not reveal the names of the tentative appointees, but it was made clear that the commission will be charged with drawing up anti-crime legislation involving modifications in the island's penal codes.

"Not Ordinary Banditry."

Asking that his name be withheld, one high government official said:

"It's not the threat of ordinary banditry or common crooks with which Cuba is faced, but gangster methods and gang tactics that make the late John Dillinger look like a piker."

One new development in the Falla Bonet case which drew wide interest was the testimony presented to the investigating judge, Dr. Fidel Vidal, by the chauffeur who was driving Falla Bonet when the abduction occurred on April 3.

The chauffeur, Emeterio Vigil, who was located by army secret service agents, said he could identify at least five of the men who took part in the kidnaping.

Posed as Secret Service Men.

He told of being taken along with young Falla Bonet by a group of youths armed with revolvers who said they were members of the army secret service.

According to Vigil, he and the young millionaire were lodged in separate quarters at a house which had definitly been established as the hideout of the kidnapers. He said that the morning after the abduction he and his boss were freed.

Meanwhile, Luis Pizarro, one of the suspects held without bail in connection with the abduction, issued a statement from Principe prison, accusing two jailed "autenticos" of threatening him.

The accused pair—Dr. Joaquin Rio Balmaseda, former secretary of justice, and Rafæl Giraud, former administrator of the Compañía Cubana de Electricidad—were said to have warned him that it would cost him his life if he talked.

Report More Extort Cases.

HAVANA, April 19.—(AP)—Reports of more extortion cases reached officials tonight, indicating that terrorists have abandoned bombings in favor of the more profitable kidnaping and extortion racket.

Confirmation of the government's belief that extortion is being carried on on a large scale came through reports from Camaguey that two leading landowners were ordered to pay money or be killed.

Unconfirmed reports said the province was so stirred that some wealthy residents were leaving, fearing they would fall victim to the "snatch" racket.

Antonio Guiteras, former secretary of war, navy, and the interior, and a group of other leftist leaders are under indictment now in the $300,000 kidnaping of Eutimio Falla Bonet.

POSTAL CLERK ENDS HIS LIFE BY LEAP INTO RIVER

A man identified as Frederick Rank, 35 years old, 2610 North Kilbourn avenue, a postoffice clerk, was drowned in the Des Plaines river below the Washington boulevard bridge yesterday.

Mary Severson, 4928 North Lawndale avenue, said she saw the man leap from the bridge, and immediately called police and forest preserve employés. The body was recovered, but work with an inhalator failed to revive Rank.

Dr. John Hollisen, 3434 Fullerton avenue, said that he had sent Rank to the North Shore Health Resort for treatments for a nervous disorder. Rank was there two weeks, and was discharged April 13, Dr. Hollisen said.

POLITICAL RULE OF PERMANENT FAIR RESISTED

Amendments Planned for Pending Bills.

Amendments to the two bills now before the state legislature, authorizing the creation of a permanent Chicago Fair, on the lake front exposition grounds, will be proposed Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of Mayor Kelly's recreation commission in its quarters at 160 North La Salle street. After hearing the proposals, it was considered likely that the commission will prepare its recommendations.

Of primary importance to those seeking the amendments is the protection of the Fair against becoming a political football. As the bills now read a Fair control commission of ten members, each to serve five years, would be set up. The members would be appointed by the mayor with the consent of the city council. Several methods of avoiding this political control have been suggested, all relating in some manner to a self-perpetuating commission.

Fear Cheap Type of Concessions.

Members of the recreation commission have expressed the fear that with political control only the cheaper honky tonk type of concessions would be attracted to the Fair grounds. The only reason, it was pointed out, for the high caliber of exhibitions and entertainment at A Century of Progress was the divorcing of the exposition from politics.

"It is safe to assert that political control would ruin an exposition," Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of A Century of Progress, said yesterday. "Time and again the management of A Century of Progress did business with large concerns that had announced they would not have exhibits if they were to be under the control of politicians. Under a political control we would have got the type of exhibitors and concessionaires who play politics."

At the time authorization for the 1934 World's Fair was sought in the state legislature and in congress politicians aired their grievances against the Fair. The chief complaint was that tickets and jobs had not been forthcoming at the insistence of politicians. The management stood firm and the Fair, the only one to ever pay off its indebtedness, was presented free from political control.

How to Divorce Politics.

Maj. Lohr, who refused to discuss directly the proposed permanent Fair, illustrated the method by which "a Fair" could be divorced from politics. Once the commission is appointed it should be self-perpetuating, he said, members electing members to fill vacancies created. The original commission should be appointed by one or two men, of high civic caliber in whom there was a general confidence. The fewer the appointments of a direct political nature the better, Maj. Lohr declared.

It was learned that at no time has the advice or aid of the men who ran A Century of Progress been sought by the proponents of the permanent Fair. The Century of Progress leaders in the beginning had no authority, it was pointed out, but developed their idea with their own organization, gained financial backing, and then instituted legislation authorizing the exposition to go ahead. In the present case the authorization is being obtained before an organization is started.

Plan to Use Old Corporation.

One plan that is being considered, it was learned, is to vest the old Century of Progress corporation with the authority to organize the permanent Fair. Maj. Lohr refused to comment on such a plan, but said that no one had made such a suggestion to him.

At a meeting of the recreation commission on Thursday Attorney Walter L. Fisher voiced a protest against the "commercialization of the lake front" and the direct political control involved. A majority of the civic groups represented on the recreation commission also are opposed to political control of the Fair, as provided in the bills now before the legislature.

KIDNAP WHISKY TRUCK CREW AND TAKE $6,000 LOAD

Seven hijackers, riding in three automobiles, escaped yesterday with 250 cases of whisky valued at $6,000 after kidnaping a truck driver and his helper and holding them prisoners for three hours. The robbers, with revolvers drawn, surrounded the whisky truck in Glenwood-Dyer road, between Burnham road and Torrence avenue, near Lansing.

They forced Truck Driver George Valent of Whiting and his helper, John Ivanic, 2217 North Melvina avenue, to lie on the floor of one of the automobiles while the thieves drove them around the country.

Late in the afternoon the captives were put out of the automobile at County Line and Burnham roads, near Steger. Valent and Ivanic walked to Steger and notified the police. Lieut. Lester Laird of the county highway police and Lieut. James Kerr took them on a tour of the district in the hope of finding the truck and the hijackers.

Another truck, the property of the National Cordial company, 2129 North Western avenue, was seized by robbers at 114th street and Langley avenue last night. The driver, Adam Pietruszewski, 2327 Carolina street, and his helper, Raymond Manski, 3513 Melrose street, were allowed to keep the truck, but the robbers took $200 they had collected and 16 quarts of whisky.

The high command also reported breaking of the enemy line at two places in the Villa Montes sector, and said the action there and at Boyuibe "continues favorable to our forces."

POLICE OF QUEBEC HUNT YOUTH AS EX-M. P.'S KILLER

BALDWIN MILLS, Que., April 19.—(AP)—Police searched the countryside tonight for a young man seen near the store of W. K. Baldwin, former member of parliament for Standstead, shortly before the aged man was found dying in the store. His skull had been crushed and a paper bag stuffed into his mouth. Baldwin died while being taken to an ambulance.

Baldwin was found last night by his sister and two customers lying behind the counter of his store. His arms and feet were bound with rope. The store's till had been rifled.

A workman, Oliver Cabana, told police he saw a young man back of the store shortly before the attack is believed to have taken place. The prints of heavy boots, with spiked heels, were found in the mud at the store's rear. Police are investigating the possibility of a connection between the slaying and a fire in Baldwin's wood planing mill a week ago, which they said was of incendiary origin.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Bob Becker

Sow Oats in Frost

April 19, 1935.

The boys on the Yorkville farm finally got into the fields to continue their work of sowing oats. With the thermometer altogether too close to the freezing mark for comfort, Clarence Thurow, farm manager, and his helpers put on their winter work clothes and sowed 25 acres in the morning and 25 more in the afternoon.

There were six men in the fields and they used 12 horses, three tractors, and two seeders. It wasn't particularly pleasant to be doing spring work in winter weather, but Thurow finally decided that he might just as well go ahead.

There is a good chance that the oat sowing will be completed this week, provided the weather remains favorable.

With five colts to be taught their first lessons in how to conduct themselves when they get dressed up for duty, Eddie and Ernie are having a busy time on the Wheaton experimental farm. If they lead any of these frisky young animals near the barnyard where the goats are kept there is an assured group of spectators because the two kids, now as playful and cute as any young animals could be, are interested in everything.

When I drove into the yard the other day the two kids were hopping up and down on the running board of an automobile. Lately they have found something new to amuse themselves with. When a road grader and a roller were parked in the yard the other day the peppy kids left the old nanny and started an investigation of the machinery. When this game became a bit dull I saw them go over to a woodpile next to the barnyard fence and climb all over it. They can get more fun and more exercise out of a woodpile than anything or anybody I have ever seen.

The black swans now seem to be fairly well organized on their nesting plans. First they started building a nest in a foot of water. Two of the three birds that helped build were hens and they both laid eggs in the new home. Now the two hens have come to an agreement on which will incubate the eggs in this nest because one of the two is building another nest on land.

There is a pheasant cock here on the farm that put up a tricky defense in behalf of a hen the other day. One of the boys was walking through a patch of woods with his dog when he heard the call of a cock pheasant. Then he saw the bird running around in a circle just ahead of the dog.

When the pheasant had attracted the attention of the canine it started to fly very slowly and close to the ground, thus drawing the dog after it. When the dog had been lured away from the hen pheasant the wily cock turned on the power and flew away. It was a gallant defense in behalf of a "lady" against pretty heavy odds. But the smart cock pheasant won.

THE AVERAGE MOTORIST DRIVES 10,000 MILES A YEAR

8,000 of these miles
are within 25 miles of your home

Constant starting, stopping, accelerating waste your money—if your gasoline doesn't have these Three Different Kinds of Power

10,000 MILES A YEAR! Enough to cross America 3 times! Don't you often wonder how you run up all this MILEAGE?

It's the little trips . . . the 2 miles to school and back . . . the mile-and-a-half to market, the bank . . . the continual stop-and-go that EATS UP GASOLINE!

These short trips call for 3 distinct kinds of power in your gasoline . . . POWER for quick starting . . . POWER for accelerating . . . POWER for the steady run!

Unless these three types of power are present—AND IN PERFECT BALANCE—these short trips waste your money.

Super-Shell, the first truly BALANCED gasoline, cuts your driving costs 3 WAYS:

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline on "Cold" Starting. In summer or winter, Super-Shell starts instantly, often warms up in half the time of ordinary gasolines—with less choking. So you use less gasoline.

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in 10 Minutes of Hard Pulling—With Super-Shell's even volatility, you can race up steep hills on less gasoline. And you avoid knocking which alone in a few minutes can waste up to 10% of your power.

Can save up to a cupful of gasoline in One Hour of Steady Running—many motorists report. Every drop of Super-Shell vaporizes more completely. At all speeds it delivers maximum power. On your long drives as well as on short trips, it saves you money.

THESE THREE SAVINGS of gasoline naturally result in more mileage per tankful. Super-Shell is on sale from Coast to Coast, at no extra cost, at more than 30,000 neighborly Shell stations.

REVISION IN TAX SYSTEM URGED BY COMMISSION

Illinois Method Is Called "Chaotic, Inefficient."

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

The tax system of the state government is "chaotic and inefficient," declared the Illinois tax commission yesterday in the final section of its annual report. It suggests that most of the state revenue sources now administered by nine separate agencies be centralized in a new department of finance.

The report also seeks to revive the idea of changing the state constitution by amendment of the revenue article. Critics at once pointed out that three times in the last twenty years the voters have rejected revenue amendments proposed by the legislature. Not in the last quarter-century—not since 1908—has an amendment to the constitution been adopted. Also the voters in 1922 rejected a proposed new constitution and last November they turned down another constitutional convention proposal.

Stability Cheers Business.

Industrialists, the critics pointed out, have held that this stability of the 65 year old constitution and the reluctance of the citizenship to tinker with the basic law make Illinois one area where business can go ahead with recovery plans with confidence so far as state government is concerned.

After urging a change in the constitution, the report says, however, that "a great many things to improve the assessment and collection of taxes can be accomplished under the present constitution." Chief of these, it argues, is centralization of the administration of state and local revenues."

Changing sources of revenue for the state government in recent years are graphically shown in tabulations. In 1915, the state derived 77 per cent of its revenue from the state property tax law, and in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, 15 per cent. This tax was abolished in December, 1933, being replaced by revenue from the sales tax.

Shift to Other Taxes.

Meanwhile the receipts from motor fuel tax, retailers' occupational [sales] tax, and the beverage and liquor tax, administered by the department of finance, became major sources of state government revenue. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1933, the motor fuel tax yielded 30 million dollars, or nearly 30 per cent of the state's revenue receipts. It was the largest single tax collected by the state. In 1934, it produced even more revenue, but was outranked by the sales tax, which in eleven months yielded $32,571,000, or almost a quarter of the state's revenues.

The beverage tax did not go into effect until May 1, 1933, but by June 30 of that year it had produced $469,000. For 1934 its yield, including the liquor tax amounted to $4,514,000, or 3.3 per cent of the state's receipts.

The motor vehicle tax, collected by the secretary of state, was the fourth most important source of state revenue in 1934. That year it yielded $17,623,000, or 13 per cent of the state's revenue.

Federal Aid of $7,829,000.

In 1934 the state's total revenue receipts were $136,500,000. Federal aid to the tune of $7,829,000 made up nearly 6 per cent of the total. In addition the federal emergency relief administration during the year ending June 30, 1934, made unemployment relief grants of almost 44 million dollars to the state.

As to the inheritance tax, the report says it has fluctuated widely. In 1933 it yielded 9 million dollars, or almost 9 per cent of the state's revenue; in 1934 collections were $3,739,000, or 2.7 per cent of the total revenue.

The commission speaks of the costs of collecting the inheritance tax as "inordinately high." In 1931 collection expenses were 8 per cent of the cash receipts from the tax; in 1933, 6.3 per cent. In 1932 twenty-six counties levying inheritance taxes incurred costs equal to 15 per cent or more of collections.

"The most imperative need in Illinois today," says the report, "is the centralization of the tax administration machinery of the state government."

LAWYER WARNS GENEALOGISTS OF RED MENACE

More than 100 men and women members of the American Genealogical society, celebrating the 160th anniversary of the battle of Lexington at a luncheon in the Great Northern hotel yesterday, were urged to muster reserves and hold themselves "ready to respond to the call of the modern Paul Revere." The speaker, Frank H. T. Potter, lawyer, of Evanston, vice president of the society, declared that "today a condition exists in this country which may demand strong action so that the communist influences will be avoided."

The state Legion convention will be held in Quincy Aug. 25-27.

Education Board Seeks Rehearing in Bond Case

The board of education yesterday filed in the Illinois Supreme court a petition for a rehearing on the court's decision Wednesday which denied the validity of $10,000,000 worth of bonds issued by the board to redeem outstanding 1928 and 1929 tax anticipation warrants.

OPPOSE PAROLE FOR BARNETT IN SWINDLE PLOT

Commission Urges He Serve Term.

The Chicago Crime commission served notice yesterday of its opposition to a parole for Maurice A. Barnett, former jeweler convicted of a plot to conduct a fake jewelry robbery and swindle an insurance company. His application for a parole is scheduled to be heard by the state board of pardons and paroles in Springfield today.

Barnett's maneuvers to escape punishment attracted the attention of the crime commission and the Chicago Jewelers' association nearly two years ago. He finally landed in the penitentiary, in spite of the efforts of four members of the legislature to have him paroled before he served a day of his one to five year sentence.

Jail Terms Served by Pair.

Mrs. Laura B. Price and Max Krakow, a jeweler, served sentences of six months in the county jail for their part in the plot said to have been engineered by Barnett. According to the crime commission, Barnett arranged for the fake robbery of Mrs. Price and lent her jewels from his own stock to increase the amount the insurance company would have to pay.

Two years and eight months after a jury had found Barnett guilty the crime commission and the jewelers' association learned he had evaded going to prison. They found he had presented a petition to Circuit Judge Harry Fisher, alleging that additional evidence had been uncovered. Judge Fisher retained jurisdiction for seven months and then denied Barnett's plea.

Loses Twice in High Court.

The state Supreme court twice decided against Barnett, and he reached the Joliet prison on Nov. 23, 1933, four years after his indictment, after Gov. Horner refused him a pardon. According to the crime commission, politicians have been at work ever since to effect his release. The commission insists that he should serve his full term, which, with time off for good behavior, would be slightly less than three years and nine months.

TESTIFIES PEACE WITH T-N-T ENDED DRIVERS' STRIKE

The jury in Judge Michael Feinberg's Criminal court which is hearing the trial of eleven business men and union officials on charges of conspiracy to boycott listened yesterday to the testimony of Lee Gould, 8104 Euclid avenue, vice president of the Heritage Coal company. He corroborated the testimony of previous witnesses that a strike of the company drivers was called off when the Heritage concern joined the Trucking and Transportation exchange [T-N-T]. On cross-examination by Defense Attorney Benedict J. Short, Gould could not name any defendant who forced his company into the T-N-T.

AWARD EX-WIFE $17,500 VERDICT AGAINST AUDITOR

Jurors Decide Malicious Prosecution Suit.

After three years of litigation the $100,000 suit of Mrs. Rose Brandt, charging her husband, Lee, head of an auditing company, with malicious prosecution, ended in a $17,500 verdict for her yesterday.

The verdict was returned after two hours' deliberation by a jury in the Superior court of Judge Martin M. Gridley. The jury had heard evidence since last Monday. Dr. I. Val Freedman, 5816 Kenmore avenue, charged with conspiracy in the case, was dismissed by a directed verdict Wednesday.

Husband Remarried.

Brandt is owner of the Illinois Freight Audit company at 1018 South Wabash avenue. Since his first wife divorced him in July, 1927, he has remarried and lives at 2700 Asbury avenue, Evanston. Mrs. Rose Brandt lives at 6216 Cornelia avenue with her two children.

Through evidence marshaled by Attorney Thomas L. Owens the plaintif sought to show that her husband twice attempted to have her adjudged insane to evade a payment of money. Petitions for sanity hearings were filed by Brandt against his former wife in May, 1928, and again in October, 1931, Dr. Freedman's name appearing on each. Both petitions were dismissed, the evidence showed.

Attempted Evasion Charged.

On the first occasion, Mrs. Brandt charged, the defendant's motive was to avoid payment of a $6,000 settlement agreed to at the time of the divorce. The second petition was motivated, she charged, by a desire to avoid further payment of $35 a week support for the Brandt children.

Brandt, through his attorney, Joseph Z. Willner, denied that the insanity actions were impelled by malice. He sought, rather, to show that there was probable cause in each instance. As proof of this he offered evidence to show that his wife had been found mentally unbalanced in 1926, shortly after the birth of her second child. The plaintif refuted this allegation with medical testimony tending to show that her mental condition at the time was temporary.

2 WIDOWS, PAST 70, TELL LOSSES AT PARISH TRIAL

Two widows, both more than 70 years old, took the witness stand yesterday in the federal court of Judge John P. Barnes and told of their losses in stock of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company. They were called as government witnesses against Frank P. Parish and three other former officials of the company who are charged with using the mails to defraud.

Mrs. Mary E. Perry, 72 years old, of Denver, widow of a Spanish-American war veteran, told how a Denver brokerage firm sold stocks worth $19,000 left her by her husband and replaced them with Missouri-Kansas stock. She said a letter from an official of the pipe line company assured her that in the case of the stock the "normal business risk had been reduced to a minimum." Outside of court Mrs. Perry said that she is living on her husband's pension of $22.50 a month.

Mrs. Anna M. Witherspoon, 78 years old, 5631 North Virginia avenue, said that she purchased 25 shares of the stock for $812.50 in 1930. A salesman for the company told her that the stock would soon go from $32.50 to $50 a share. She lost all of the money invested, the witness said.

FIND BODY OF DROWNED BOY.

The body of Paul Torres, 11 years old, 12442 South Ashland avenue, was recovered yesterday from a clayhole pool at Ashland avenue and 125th street, Calumet Park. The boy was drowned when he fell from a raft Wednesday.

BOGUS POLICE GET $6,000 IN BOLD SWINDLE

Elmer Cable, 74 years old, a former school teacher living at 2007 Cleveland avenue, reported to Lieut. Edward Kelly of the detective bureau yesterday that he had been swindled of $6,000 by two men posing as policemen and one who said he was a newspaper reporter.

Cable said that two men, one giving the name of "Lieut. John Owens" spoke to him on March 8 as he was leaving the Empire theater at Halsted and Madison streets, telling him he was under arrest for disorderly conduct. His bond, they said, would be $2,000.

The "policemen" then took him to the city hall, and were about to enter an office when one said:

"You don't want to go in—too many newspaper men in there. We'll just fix up the bond out here in the hall." Cable went to the bank, drew $2,000 and paid it over.

On April 1, Cable said, the "lieutenant" and a man introduced as Joseph Liebert, "a reporter," appeared at his home. The "lieutenant" explained that an additional bond of $3,000 was needed, as well as $1,000 for the "reporter" to hush things up. Mr. Cable drew this amount from his bank and paid it over. Yesterday he began to think things weren't just right, and went to the bureau.

FORMER WIFE SUES CAPTAIN'S BRIDE FOR BALM

San Antonio, Tex., April 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Biddle Coulter, former wife of the polo-playing Capt. Harold K. Coulter, filed a $100,000 alienation of affections suit today against his bride, Mrs. Alice Morgan Coulter, who was named with him in misconduct charges at a general court martial last July.

Capt. Coulter was convicted on four counts of misconduct with Mrs. Morgan, former wife of William F. Morgan, wealthy Houston oil man, and was dismissed from the army.

The officer and Mrs. Frances Coulter, a defense witness at the court martial, subsequently were divorced and Coulter's marriage to Mrs. Morgan followed.

OUST SERGEANT WHO CONDUCTED INQUIRY IN KENNAMER CASE

Tulsa, Okla., April 19.—(AP)—Sergt. Henry B. Maddux, chief investigator in the shooting last Thanksgiving day of John Gorrell, young dental student, resigned today from the Tulsa police force as a county grand jury inquired into unexplained phases of the case.

Phil Kennamer, 19 year old son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, was convicted of manslaughter for Gorrell's slaying and is serving a 25 year sentence.

Maddux charged his resignation was forced in an attempt to make him the "goat" of a police department scandal and that he would ask for a trial.

Maddux has said that he was offered a $25,000 bribe to "soft pedal" certain angles of his investigation. Commissioner O. W. Hoop also has said the offer was made to the sergeant, but neither would divulge the name of the person they say proffered the bribe.

Masked Robbers Lock Up Family and Rob Home

Three men, all armed and wearing masks, entered the home of Stanley Wilkinske at 1359 North Paulina street late last night and, after terrorizing Mrs. Wilkinske and her two children, took property valued at $275 and fled with it. Among the articles taken were a shotgun, a diamond ring, and a pair of binoculars. Mrs. Wilkinske and her children were locked in the bathroom of the home. Wilkinske released them when he returned home shortly afterward.

Canvass Shows Wallin Is Waukegan City Clerk

Frank Wallin, Democratic candidate for city clerk of Waukegan, won the election last Tuesday by seven votes instead of being defeated by 27 votes, the Waukegan city council decided in the official canvass last night. The official returns as listed by the council were: Wallin, 5,228; John P. Wyllie, Republican, 5,221. Unofficial returns had shown Wyllie the victor.

4 HELD TO GRAND JURY IN DRAKE ESTATE SWINDLE

Four of five men accused of defrauding investors through the perennial Sir Francis Drake estate swindle were held to the federal grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Walker on charges of using the mails to defraud. They are Otto Yant, former barber and banker of Manson, Ia.; Delmer C. Short of Storm Lake, Ia.; James Kirkendall of Chicago, and Lester E. Ohmart of San Benito, Tex.

The fifth defendant, James H. Hauber of Spencer, Ia., was released earlier in the week in bond of $15,000. His hearing was set for May 3. All five were arrested two weeks ago in a raid on a north side hotel where they maintained headquarters.

Oscar Hartzell of Des Moines, Ia., alleged leader in the fraud, is serving a ten year sentence in Leavenworth penitentiary. He and his brother, Canfield Hartzell, now under arrest in New York, are said to have claimed that they purchased the claim of a legitimate heir to the estate, which they valued at 15 billion dollars. English authorities have held the estate a myth.

Postoffice inspectors have recovered approximately $100,000 collected by the men since they moved their headquarters to Chicago after Oscar Hartzell's arrest and conviction in Iowa.

CHICAGO YOUTH REINSTATED AT IOWA UNIVERSITY

Iowa City, Ia., April 19.—[Special.]—Irving Lewis of Chicago, sophomore, and Abe Beechen of Sioux City, two of twenty-three members of Phi Beta Delta Jewish fraternity who were suspended from the University of Iowa for "keeping a disorderly house," were reinstated tonight. President Eugene A. Gilmore said the action was taken upon recommendation of the dean of men.

President Gilmore's statement said "all other applications were denied at this time." Only seven of the twenty-three applied for reinstatement, the others having all left Iowa City.

It was assumed that Lewis and Beechen were absolved of any association with two girls who testified they had immoral relations with eleven members in the fraternity house.

OLD WHISKIES that can never be replaced!

UNDER bonding requirements, whiskey cannot remain in bond more than 8 years. Then it must be bottled. This automatically puts an end to the bottling of 16 and 17 year stock. No longer can whiskey be allowed to take on that extra-mellowness that only time can give. Eight year whiskey is smooth whiskey. But those extra years really put on the finishing touches! Any expert judge of bourbon will tell you that. So those of you who appreciate these fine old patriarchs, and want to lay away a few irreplaceable bottles had better do it very soon. Don't hesitate too long!

ETHICS OF PROSECUTION.

In an opinion which will take its place among the most striking utterances of the Supreme court Mr. Justice Sutherland has rebuked the unethical conduct of a representative of the department of justice and in so doing has set a standard which we trust will be respected in future prosecutions not only by the federal but also by state prosecuting authorities.

Justice Sutherland, speaking for the whole court, reversed a judgment in the case of an alleged counterfeiter because the representative of the department of justice had "overstepped the bounds of fairness," and he took occasion to point out that the prosecuting officer "is in a peculiar and very definite sense the servant of the law, the twofold aim of which is that guilt shall not escape or innocence suffer." Earnestness and vigor in prosecution are the duty of the prosecutor. "But while he may strike hard blows, he is not at liberty to strike foul ones. It is as much his duty to refrain from improper methods calculated to produce a wrongful conviction as it is to use every legitimate means to bring about a just one."

These are, in the theory of our system of justice, truisms, but they are in need of reassertion by the highest authority in the land, for they are scandalously ignored in too many cases. The self-interest of public prosecutors in obtaining convictions overshadows the ethics of their office if they were aware of them. It is of moment, therefore, that the highest tribunal of the nation should rebuke this official misconduct and clearly enunciate, as Justice Sutherland has so well done, proper standards of conduct. "The United States attorney is the representative not of an ordinary party to a controversy," he points out, "but of a sovereignty whose obligation to govern impartially is as compelling as its obligation to govern at all, and whose interest, therefore, in a criminal prosecution is not that it shall win a case but that justice shall be done."

This is a statement which ought to be put up on the walls of every prosecuting department in the country, federal and state. Certainly it is needed in the federal department of justice. The assistant who erred in the case reversed would not have conducted himself with the flagrant disregard of justice the record shows if the spirit and official viewpoint of the department were what it ought to be.

With the multiplication of new offenses, often ill defined, and the imposition of novel responsibilities upon the citizen now being recklessly legislated, there is emphatic need for restraint upon official irresponsibility and oppression. The Supreme court has spoken opportunely, unmistakably laying down the principles which ought to be strictly followed by every prosecuting agency. The opinion, moreover, is not only a guide to prosecuting officers but also a reminder to judges in all jurisdictions that they, too, have a responsibility for the conduct of prosecution before them. Misconduct should not wait for rebuke and restraint by a court of review. The trial judge has authority and the same responsibility as any court of review for the conduct of representatives of government in the trials before them.

WHERE OUR CASH SHOULD GO.

A bus carrying children to a high school near Washington, D. C., is struck at a grade crossing by a railway train. Fourteen lives are snuffed out. The federal government immediately draws attention to the allotment of two hundred millions from the work relief fund for the purpose of constructing railway grade separations, and we are left with the impression that the lives were sacrificed because previous administrations had not been awake to the protection of American citizens.

Details of the accident indicate that the bus was being operated on a little used country road that will not be eligible for improvement even under the present plan. The money available will scarcely scratch the surface and should be spent where heavy flows of trafic and peculiar hazards combine to produce death traps. Moreover, statistics prove very definitly that railroad crossings account for but 4.5 per cent of all highway fatalities, whereas highway intersections may be charged with 24 per cent of the annual motor toll. In nonfatal accidents the roadway intersection claims 51 per cent of all injuries reported. Doubtless the average motorist has less respect for another automobile than for a locomotive, or possibly thinks that he can bluff the other driver, but, be that as it may, the money should be spent where it will save the most lives irrespective of the sentimental features of this regrettable collision of bus and rail.

MONEY ON THE HOSSES.

Handbooks in Chicago, where citizens bet on the hosses without seeing them run, are being raided by the police. In Springfield the legislature is passing a bill to increase the earnings of the Illinois tracks by permitting them to take a larger percentage of the pari-mutuel receipts. The track owners complain that they operate at a loss. The state has a stake in their operation. If the tracks should be forced to close, Illinois would lose approximately $700,000 a year. This amount is a gift [some people might call it by another name] to promote certain agricultural interests in the state. Pari-mutuel betting was legalized in return for this consideration.

Some moral distinctions and economic considerations seem to have been twisted up into something of a comic form, but the whole is only another of the occasional oddities of democracy. The real moral is that a lot of money is a lot of money, and the handbooks do not raise any turnips.

THE TEACHERS' OATH.

A law requiring that teachers in public and private schools of all sorts take an oath to support national and state constitutions as outlined in a bill passed by the Illinois house of representatives does not propose an unreasonable conformity. It is neither an unusual procedure nor a special injustice. Some teachers may resent what they regard as innuendo, feeling that some particular purpose uncomplimentary to them is stressed in the legislation, but that feeling will be found momentary.

The oath of office is common in public service and nearly all responsible public officials and employés are required to take it as a matter of course. The highest dignitaries in the land do. It may be said that the oath has more applicability to persons who find their duties defined in the constitution and law, but that is not an important consideration. Teachers would be the first to recognize the essential worth of their work in any community and the value of it to the country. The various governments created by the national and state constitutions support public education by taxation and they grant the right by charter to private institutions supported by endowment and with tax exemptions to supplement or continue the work done in the public schools.

The state thus acknowledges its big stake in the education and training of its future citizens. If long ago it had been thought fit and desirable that teachers, along, say, with lawyers, take an oath in conformity with the organic law, there would have been no question of special discrimination. Lawyers do take such an oath when they are admitted to the bar because in theory they are officers of the court, although citizens engaged in private practice.

It is only because the legislation follows, and probably was inspired by, a general discussion of radicalism in the schools that the instructors can feel they are singled out for a condemnation they do not deserve. It is safe to say that the oath will find an instinctive response in nearly all the teachers and that it will soon be regarded as a dignity, even by some who may now think of it as an indignity. It is highly improbable that any interference with true academic freedom would result and equally improbable that there would be any witch hunting under such a law. The oath really emphasizes the importance of the teacher's vocation. The various constitutions, federal and state, represent the best and soundest political thought which has been developed in the world, and the state rationally may stipulate that the education of its citizens shall proceed in political conformity with these doctrins until the improbable event of a general recognition of something much better.

PUBLICITY FOR PERKINS.

Fred C. Perkins of York, Pa., the battery maker who spent 18 days in jail because he did not pay the code wages to employés who were working for him for what he could pay them, was questioned in Washington by members of the senate finance committee. Mr. Perkins' case has been appealed and some of the best known lawyers in the United States have agreed to be of counsel without fee in the public interest.

The senators, particularly Mr. Black of Alabama, were disposed to resent Mr. Perkins' willingness to allow his to become a celebrated case with the publicity which has attended it.

The gentlemen of the New Deal should know that Mr. Perkins did not seek the publicity in the first instance. The New Deal set a trap for him and he was caught in it, as other small fellows were. They had been conducting their business under laws which not only permitted them to do so but which protected them. The New Deal made these legal activities criminal and the small victims of such violence naturally became objects of interest and sympathy. No doubt Mr. Perkins would have been very glad if the whole episode could have been avoided, but government insisted that he take a leading part in it and he has been forced to do so. He now cannot be denied his right to discover whether he should have been treated as he was.

Editorial of the Day

[Waterloo, Ia., Courier.]

Associate Dean Nicholas McDowell McKnight of Columbia university is reported to have tied the best previous mark for answering the so-called intelligence test compiled by the office of education in the United States department of the interior.

In the eyes of a midwesterner, however, Dean McKnight failed miserably. He missed only three of the thirty questions. But he didn't know whether Poland China was a kind of a cow, hog, chicken, or horse. He tried to treat his "abysmal ignorance" concerning live stock in a humorous manner by guessing that Poland China might be a device for heating water through a telephone instrument.

Most any day now we expect to hear that Dean McKnight has been borrowed from Columbia to help draft next year's hog control program. He seems to have a faculty for getting publicity, and that's the important thing in the eyes of the AAA.

In these days of experiment a professor can qualify for a job in the Agricultural Adjustment administration more easily by revealing a flair for ballyhoo than by proving an acquaintance with farm problems.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"CHAUFFEUR ALONE Welcomes Hoover Back in California."—Headline. That will probably please the Democrats very much, a lot of Republicans as well. But in this day and age a man who can be welcomed by his own chauffeur and his own auto isn't so bad off. How did they think Mr. Hoover should be welcomed? The Republican Marching Clubs aren't marching much right now and a Republican parade couldn't say, "Welcome Home, Herbert," much louder than the chauffeur could. And remember, Mr. Hoover has not a thing to do about distributing that five billion dollars of easy money around the country.

KYRIE ELEISON.

Had I come near to mourn Thee
When Thou wast lifted up,
Had I but shrunk to see Thee
Drink deep Thy bitter cup,

Had I so much as trembled
Before Thine agony,
I had escaped the anguish
That fills this hour for me.

But with Thine eyes upon me
I stood to watch Thee die.
O Lamb of God, forgive me!
I too cried "Crucify!"

DOROTHY KISSLING.

THE NEWSPAPERS speak of "the bitterly contested fight" in the election of the president of the D. A. R. But when did the D. A. R. ever elect a president without a bitterly contested fight? Bitterly contested fights are what the D. A. R. simply adore, and if they couldn't look forward to a bitter contest when they elect a president they'd simply stay home and play bridge at the country club.

"SHOULD I GIVE my guests all the cocktails they want," asks an anxious inquirer of a Helpful Helps for Hotesses column, "or should I limit them to two?" I don't care how the Helpful Helps editor answered the question, I would say to the anxious inquirer that she hasn't enough money to give her guests nowadays all the cocktails they want. And if she did she would have to have a detail of police, sixteen ambulances, a platoon of marines, and a couple dozen doctors and nurses sitting upstairs ready to come down when things broke loose. After a long dry spell, as the saying went, such as the late lamented Eighteenth Amendment, there is no such thing as giving them all they want.

ECLOGUE FROM CALVARY.

"I bring this linen mantle now
Across the hills of Lebanon,
Let every bloom attend the bough,
I bring this linen mantle now.
Cut down the laurel! Wreathe the plow!
Let purple wings attend the sun:
I bring the linen mantle now

PETER:
"Where are the frankincense and gold,
The Men of Wisdom, where are they?
No unrequited wind has told,
Where are the frankincense and gold?
The sheep are in the valley fold,
Where are the turbaned Kings today?
Where are the frankincense and gold,

JOSEPH OF ARIMATHEA:
"Weep not, pale Joseph; Peter! rise.
The Marys shall be comforted:
Bring precious unguents for His eyes;
Weep not, pale Joseph; Peter! rise.
Shall Martha look on stricken skies
And call Him quick who now is dead?

PETER:
"The lowered threshold of the day
Attends the Chalice and the bread;
The angel of the tomb shall stay
With silver coins, shall Judas pay
For ancient wisdom in this dead?

MARY, MOTHER OF JESUS:
"Lay Him down softly in the tomb . . .
And roll the stone of grief away;
Unlike the Inn, here there is room,
Time shall hang heavy in my womb
To quicken this Golgothic day;
Lay Him down softly in the tomb,

JOSEPH OF ARIMATHEA:
Across the hills of Lebanon:
Let every bloom attend the bough:
I bring this linen mantle now.
Cut down the laurel! Wreathe the plow!
I bring this linen mantle now,
Let purple wings attend the sun;

SECRETARY ICKES says Hooey Long has halitosis of the intellect. Which is going to bring back quite a number of very angry rejoinders from Hooey. Put cotton in your ears, folks, send the children to the cellar, and you women beat on tin pans and make as much racket as you can so you won't hear him. Gosh! this is going to be dreadful!

AND RELIEF ADMINISTRATOR Harry Hopkins down in Washington saith as follows; turn rule and quote: "Illinois is just a pain in the neck." Up sons of Illinois. To arms! To arms! Must our great and noble state be called a pain in the neck? Never! On the record of the years Abraham Lincoln's name appears, Grant and Logan and our tears, Illinois! On to Washington!

SOAP AS AN ANTISEPTIC.

ALTHOUGH the use of soap is mentioned in the Bible, its employment in the household and for cleansing purposes was probably not extensive until some time after the twelfth century. Body cleanliness among the Romans was proverbial, but the only description of soap manufacture appears to be that of Pliny, who mentions the boiling of goat's tallow with beechwood ashes. The Roman athletes anointed the skin with oil and apparently removed dirt and skin débris by means of massage, rubbing with fine sand.

Thirteenth century manuscripts mention soap manufacture in Italy, France, and Germany. In 1622 James I. of England granted a monopoly to a soapmaker who, for a tax of $100,000, was privileged to make three thousand tons per year, a rather meager supply for the population of Britain of that day.

Robert Koch, who discovered the tubercle bacillus, studied the action of soap upon bacteria and found that a solution of 1 part to 1,000 parts of water prevented their growth. Since Koch's time numerous investigators have demonstrated the killing effect of soap upon disease producing organisms. It was shown that the stronger the solution the more rapid was its destructive effect.

Considerable evidence has accumulated indicating that improperly cleansed eating utensils constitute an important factor in the spread of such diseases as the common cold, pneumonia, and influenza. Experiments with the pneumococcus (one of the organisms causing pneumonia) have shown that a soap solution of one-half of one per cent in dishwater is completely germicidal (germ killing).

Washing the hands with soap and hot water will greatly reduce the number of bacteria present, although the skin cannot be made completely sterile even though a brush is used and the scrubbing operation continued for many minutes. This is one of the reasons why surgeons wear sterile rubber gloves over thoroughly scrubbed hands.

How do soaps produce their effects? In simple terms, it may be stated that soap when mixed with water forms an emulsion. The particles appear to be in a sense elastic, capable of forming an extremely thin film, for example, a soap bubble. These soap films surround and loosen solid particles such as dirt and bacteria and enable us to get rid of them through the rinsing action of water. We have noted when washing soiled hands with soap and water that the suds may take on a grayish appearance due to the collecting action of the soap film on dirt.

Although soap and water will not kill all bacteria or remove them from the hands or a wounded surface, their cleansing effect is of the greatest value in reducing the number of organisms present on the skin in the vicinity of a wound. We must understand therefore that a combination of soap and water (hot water) constitutes the best and most available cleansing agent.

Not only in cleansing the body does soap prove death dealing to bacteria but there is no substance that can quite take its place in house cleaning. Woodwork, walls, floors, and furniture—in fact, all solid surfaces on which bacteria may rest—can be cleaned with a soap solution.

Foul smelling disinfectants will not be required in cleaning the sickroom if a fairly strong soapsuds is employed. Soap and water, plus fresh air, plus sunshine, are our best disinfectants.

The skin of certain people is very susceptible to soap and its use is frequently followed by skin irritations and the development of a rash. Experiment will usually determine the particular type of soap that can be used by a given individual with safety.

ON SUNSHINE.

E. L. J. writes: I was surprised to read in your article on tuberculosis that sunlight is prohibited in pulmonary tuberculosis. I am a victim of this disease and for years was made to lie out in the direct sun without clothing for one hour. Is your idea something new or have I been doing the wrong thing?

REPLY.

Direct sunlight is positively contraindicated in pulmonary tuberculosis. There are many reports showing a marked increase in tuberculosis following the bathing season, when individuals have exposed themselves rather freely to sunlight. Light that possesses tanning qualities stimulates circulation, which is exactly the opposite of what is needed in lung tuberculosis. Any one seeking recovery from tuberculosis must provide rest for the lung, with a slowing down of circulation and metabolism which accompany an inactive life.

ALKALINE RESERVE.

A. C. R. writes: Why do we hear so much over the radio about keeping up the alkaline reserve of the body? Are we in danger of becoming consumed by acidosis?

REPLY.

Not at all. The average diet contains sufficient alkali without adding sodium bicarbonate, magnesia, or any other salts or minerals. Whenever the body temperature is raised there is an increased burning of tissues, including fat. In such a condition there is a tendency to acidosis and alkalis are then needed. There are numerous curious beliefs about diet and drugs, many of which have no scientific foundation.

KEEP FOOT WARM.

F. M. writes: I am a diabetic and have a black spot on one of my big toes. What can I do to prevent gangrene?

REPLY.

The foot must be kept warm, elevated as much as possible, and dressed with sterile gauze once a day. If the blood sugar can be returned to normal the area probably will heal with the loss of but a small amount of tissue. If the diabetes is not controled the process is certain to extend.

MAY CAUSE IRRITATION.

S. T. writes: Inks used in cellophane printing contain lacker and lacker thinner (amyl acetate). Can any ill effects of a serious nature result from the constant inhalation of fumes over a period of years?

REPLY.

Breathing the fumes of amyl acetate (banana oil) may cause irritation of the eyes and throat. In some individuals there is drowsiness and nervousness. There is no evidence that organic trouble results.

MORTGAGE SECURITY.

St. Charles, Ill., April 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am taking a mortgage out on a piece of property amounting to $1,200. They want to give a [1] guarantee [2] abstract against it, but I don't know [3] if that would protect me as well as the abstract from the courthouse. 4. Should I keep that or do the borrowers keep it? 5. I was told this deal would not cost me anything, as the people making the loan would have to stand all expenses. Now I learn [6] there are others who have put a second mortgage on it. How do I stand to keep mine? 7. How can I find out if there is another mortgage on it now? I know I should consult a lawyer, but I want to know something about all this before I go ahead. 8. Does the government collect their interest on said loan and who pays that?
J. N.

1 and 2. These two words are not commonly used together. We assume that what you mean is a guaranty policy under which the guarantor offers to protect you against loss due to defects in the title.

3. Obviously the value of the guarantee depends on the financial responsibility of the guarantor. In addition to this, the advisability of accepting such a policy in place of an abstract depends also on whether in your community real estate purchasers customarily deal on this basis so that you need anticipate no difficulty when you come to sell.

4. It is customary for the mortgage holder to have with his papers a separate mortgage policy.

5. You should be represented by some one whom you can trust. If you do not trust the broker, you should employ your own attorney.

6. Such a second mortgage would be subordinate to your previously recorded first mortgage.

7. The guaranty policy should show, but if you have had no experience in such matters you should employ an attorney as above suggested.

8. You give us no facts as to the relationship of the government to the transaction.

CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE.

Palatine, Ill., April 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A certain man owns a farm and I hold the first mortgage against it. He has not paid interest for a year and a half. He died several days ago, leaving a wife and children. 1. What is the first step for one to take? 2. Can I start foreclosure against the estate? 3. Will the Probate court straighten it out?
H. J.

1. You are entitled to file a claim against the assets in the course of the probate proceedings. Whether it is to your advantage to do so would depend in part on the assets of the estate.

2. Yes.

3. We advise you to employ an attorney.

MARKETING FARM PRODUCTS.

Thayer, Ind., April 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Would an Indiana farmer require a peddler's license to sell his own produce to private trade in Chicago?
C. F.

An old statute relating to the marketing of farm products provides that "every farmer . . . shall have an undisputed right to sell the produce of his farm . . . in any place or market where such articles are usually sold . . . without paying any . . . license for doing so."

It seems probable that the phrase "in any place or market" was intended to mean a definitly limited selling area, but it might be interpreted as applying to an entire city. If you wish to ascertain the attitude of the Chicago police, we suggest that you write to the police commissioner's office.

THERE ARE NO ANIMALS THAT SWEAT BLOOD
BILL VENN

It has long been believed that some animals sweat blood at various times. The hippopotamus has been especially popularized in this respect, but the truth is: they do not sweat any blood. This animal excretes a red colored pigment from its skin and this has been mistaken for blood. Several other animals also excrete such substances.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

A YACHTSMAN WITH A GROUCH.

Chicago, April 17.—Conceding most of what you say in your recent editorial on "The Coast Guard" to be quite true, I wonder about your reference to "flimsy pleasure craft" with an apparent lack of navigating skill, and your lamenting that coast guard craft are called out at times to rescue incompetent yachtsmen. "A charge should be made for this service," you say.

To begin with it is safe to say that comparatively few instances of this sort occur; and who is to be the judge of when they deal with incompetents and "flimsy" craft as distinguished from other kinds? It seems an odd system of logic to me that decrees that police service and fire fighting apparatus on shore, for which we are all taxed, should render rescue duty gratis, but similar policing and safety measures [for which yachtowners are taxed heavily, along with other taxpayers], should be sold to the individual user by the government.

I suppose it is to be expected. In the minds of many there is a resentment against all who use Lake Michigan for pleasure and for health building sports such as boating. There are a good many fools who assume that yachting is a sport of the rich and idle. Any one who knows anything at all about the matter can tell you that by far the larger proportion of men and women engaged in the sport today are comparatively poor people. I happen to know a great many of them, and most of them have small craft which cost little more than an ordinary automobile—and under depression conditions they find it hard to keep up their boats at all. We often hear people from the east marveling at how little Chicago people use the lake for boating—either motor or sail. If they'd live here a while, and try it, they'd either go back home for their yachting or take to playing the ponies. You get little encouragement.

The press gives little space to the sport. Last year, after the Mackinac race—which is the longest and most important fresh water race in the world—many of us who were unable to go along with the fleet very nearly went insane trying to find some paper which gave adequate coverage to the event. A complete list of entries and when they arrived at the finish line wasn't available. Columns about baseball, but occasional paragraphs about yachting. Even the recent St. Petersburg-Havana race got more linage in Chicago papers than our own Mackinac classic.

And now the press undertakes to ask the government to soak us for the coast guard services for which we pay taxes. I wonder if THE TRIBUNE favors paying for the service they got when the Escanaba recently broke the ice so that the paper cargo steamers could come through early?

FEDERAL FUNDS FOR THE SUBWAY.

Chicago, April 16.—Chicago is in the unusual position of being able to capitalize on the unfortunate need for providing work relief, by the wise spending of a portion of the federal funds to be presently available, in a civic undertaking of the first magnitude. I refer to the subway project for the business district.

For many years this has been under discussion. There has been virtual unanimity as to its desirability and feasibility, and detailed plans are already drawn for the work. The only obstacle heretofore has been that of its financing and, by happy coincidence, a solution of this difficulty is now at hand.

Rather than incur the waste of federal funds in unsound projects of doubtful value or temporary character, let us revive the "I Will" spirit and undertake this farsighted improvement which would be a source of civic beauty and pride and of lasting benefit to the city. By constructing the subway we could eliminate the noisy and unsightly elevated loop which has caused the business district to be circumscribed within a small area and prevented the normal development of Chicago as the great metropolitan center of the middle west.
EARLE F. RUTHER.

COMPARISON.

Chicago, April 13.—In the year 1876 the public thought congress had gone mad when it appropriated $147,714,941 to run the government establishment for that fiscal year. In 1934 the tax eaters [federal, state, and local] rendered a tax bill to the American railroads of $240,000,000, or approximately $92,300,000 more than it took the government to function on fifty-eight years ago.
ERWIN BAUMRUCK.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Delavan, Ill., April 13.—I get up at 5 o'clock. If I had my way I would compel all of those daylight saving fools to get up at 4. I think that would cure the most of them, including the editor. I worked as section hand during the war. We got up at 4, called it 5 [when it was cool and you could sleep]; went to work at 6 and called it 7; ate dinner at 11 and called it 12, and quit at 3; went to bed at 8 and called it 9, when it was daylight and hot, and there was not a man who did not cuss daylight saving.
J. G. CONNELL.

HOME.

Chicago, April 15.—Here is one for the book: In Monday's TRIBUNE Politeness Reporter tells of a conductor on Grand avenue car ushering in his customers with a cheery "Come right in, folks, and make yourselves at home."

Could such a procedure be considered as obtaining money under false pretenses? What a home life he must lead!

COMPLETE PLAN FOR OBSERVANCE OF YOUTH WEEK

Problems to Be Taken Up at Conferences.

Plans were completed yesterday for the celebration of Youth week throughout the city beginning on Monday. Two outstanding events will be the youths' problem conference in the Hotel Sherman Monday evening, and a civic assembly in the Union League club at noon Thursday.

Nine young people will lead the problem conference discussions on three major subjects: "Youth in Vocation," "Youth in International Relations," and "Youth in Unemployment."

With them on the rostrum, as participants in the discussion from the adult point of view, will be Rabbi Louis Mann of Sinai congregation, and Prof. Elmo Hohman of Northwestern university.

These Are the Leaders.

The nine youth leaders, selected by the Y. W. C. A., the Council of Social Agencies, and the Chicago Park district, are:

Miss Dorothy M. Burger, 6233 Cuyler avenue; Miss Margaret J. Schmidt, Blake hall, University of Chicago; John G. Craig, 3007 North Kolmar avenue; Arland Baillie, 2708 East 76th street; Albert Hamilton, 5530 Kimbark avenue; Abel Berland, 4702 North Drake avenue; Harold J. Gibbon and Harry Allenbrand, both of 20 West Jackson boulevard, and Edmund J. Lindblom, 4530 South Lowe avenue.

Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, will be the principal speaker on the subject of "Youth and Citizenship" at the civic assembly in the Union League club. Supt. of Schools William J. Bogan, vice president of the Chicago Youth Federation, will award five scholarships and 83 achievement medals to boys and girls of high school and elementary school age.

Based on Boys' Week.

Youth week is an outgrowth of Boys' week, which was originated by the Rotary club about ten years ago. Three years ago civic leaders sponsored a move to include girls and develop a city-wide annual celebration to encourage cultivation of habits leading to moral and physical health and to good citizenship.

Sponsors of the celebration are the Chicago public schools, the city parks and playground commission, headed by Edward L. Burchard, the Council of Social Agencies, and Parent-Teacher associations. The movement embraces all organizations whose activities include interest in the training of character in children of high school and elementary school age.

2,000 MEN ARE NEEDED TO FILL RANKS OF CMTC

Nearly 2,000 additional registrations are required to fill the 1935 quota of the Sixth corps area for the Citizens' Military Training camp from July 2 to 31, it was announced yesterday.

Up to yesterday 3,117 applications had been received. The training quota for the corps area, embracing Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, is 3,675. Maj. M. S. Murray of the office of the adjutant general in charge of the area's CMTC explained, however, that at least 5,000 registrations must be had to assure a full training quota after withdrawals and the weeding out of ineligibles.

While more than 500 applications have been turned in from Cook county, Maj. Murray pointed out that the gross quota for the county is 740 men. The offices at 6 North Michigan avenue and on the 9th floor of the new Postoffice building are open to registrants on weekdays and until 1 p. m. on Saturdays.

MYRTLE HOPES ANTI-BALM LAW WILL FREE HER

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, who was sent to jail for failure to pay a $7,500 alienation of affections judgment, said yesterday that she would ask Gov. Horner to order her release when the bill passed by the state legislature to outlaw alienation of affections suits becomes a law. This will occur July 1 if the governor signs the bill.

Mrs. Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue in Chicago, was sued by Mrs. Susanne Nottingham for alienating the affections of her husband, Norman E. Nottingham, police wagon patrol driver. Mrs. Blacklidge has served 18 days of a six months' jail term.

"Governors of some states freed dry law offenders when prohibition was repealed," Mrs. Blacklidge said in her cell at the county jail.

Despite the trouble her affection for Nottingham has caused her, Mrs. Blacklidge said yesterday that her regard for the policeman had not dimmed.

Circus Miss Celebrates Easter

Barbara Cook, 4 years old, has her Easter basket appropriately filled with Peter the rabbit and Tuffy the leopard. They are with the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Brothers circus which opens its run at Chicago Stadium today, to remain until May 5.

TWO CIRCUSES, COUNT 'EM, IN CHICAGO TODAY

One Opens at Stadium; Other at Coliseum.

Two circuses will open in Chicago this afternoon. Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Brothers opens in the Chicago Stadium for a 16 day run and the Cole Brothers-Clyde Beatty circus begins a similar stay in the Coliseum.

Crowds in the loop last night watched a parade of the Cole Brothers-Clyde Beatty show, while out at the Stadium a preview for invited guests was held by the Hagenback-Wallace aggregation.

Several bands, including one of girls in kilts playing bagpipes, calliopes, women riders dressed in gaudy satin and plumed picture hats, and wagon after wagon with cargoes of wild beasts thrilled children and adults in the loop as the Cole Brothers' parade went by. Near the last of the procession were 14 elephants.

Newsboys See Show.

Twenty-five hundred newsboys were among those who attended a special performance of the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaugh-Sells Brothers' show in the Stadium.

They saw young Bert Nelson getting perfect service with plenty of action from his jungle bred lions and tigers, and they were introduced to Mlle. Rasputin, European wild animal trainer, daughter of the slain "mad monk" of Russia, Gregori Rasputin.

Until the 14 wounds inflicted by the teeth of her playmate, the Himalayan bear, in the circus' winter quarters at Peru, Ind., heal she will not appear in her usual act, but will be introduced at each performance.

Manager on the Scene.

Samuel Gumpertz, managing director of the Ringling circus interests, of which the Hagenbeck-Wallace and Forepaug-Sells Brothers' show is a major unit, arrived yesterday to attend the opening today.

He and Mrs. Charles Ringling, 1200 Forest avenue, Evanston, yesterday donated 20 acres of land near Sarasota, Fla., on which will be erected 15 bungalows as homes for aged and indigent circus performers.

Ex-Grid Star Examines Safety Violators' Themes

Policeman William Calderwood of Evanston, former Northwestern university football player, who is now the suburb's juvenile officer, is correcting themes on safety he has been "sentencing" juvenile trafic law violators to write. "Giving a pedestrian warning is very important," one of the youths wrote. "Even an animal should be given warning." Another criticized parents for preaching safety in the wrong way. "Parents," he wrote, "always tell a boy or girl to be careful and not hurt the car."

BOY, 14, RECEIVES HIS 65TH BLOOD GIFT SINCE NOVEMBER 26

The seriousness of his condition was revealed when his father, Gustav W. Pfleger, an unemployed cellist, appealed for volunteers to donate blood. Ten times the father has given his own blood and 55 times volunteers have contributed, but physicians estimate twelve more persons, with blood of group O, are needed.

AUTO LICENSE ARRESTS TOTAL 12,500 IN 4 DAYS

Police last night had arrested more than 12,500 motorists in four days of enforcing the automobile license regulations. Because the enforcement will be continued, now that the political campaigns are ended, the city collector's office in the city hall and the secretary of state's bureau at 120 South Ashland avenue had another busy day collecting taxes that were due on Jan. 1. Yesterday police gave tickets to 111 car owners without 1935 state license plates and to 847 who lacked 1935 windshield stickers. These brought the total since the campaign opened on Tuesday morning to 2,631 state license arrests and 9,965 city license arrests. Reports on last night's arrests will not be available until this morning.

SOHN WILL TRY "BAT" LEAP AT GLENVIEW PORT

Clem Sohn of Lansing, Mich., who has made experiments with "bat wings" attached to his body during delayed parachute drops, will appear at Curtiss-Reynolds airport, Glenview, at 2:30 tomorrow and make an exhibition jump. Sohn's previous experiments with his "wings," which he uses to control his movements somewhat during the fall, have been made in Florida.

In tomorrow's appearance he will step off an airplane at 10,000 feet and attempt to loop, roll, and fall in a spiral curve. To aid him in doing this he will attach fabric between his legs and between his arms and his body. He will open his parachute only when he is within 1,000 feet of the ground.

LOOT HOME AS FAMILY SLEEPS.

Burglars entered the home of Herman J. Venzer, 7641 Kingston avenue, and escaped with $106 and jewelry valued at $1,500 early yesterday while Venzer, his wife and baby were sleeping.

FATHER TO QUIZ ASYLUM INMATE ON MISSING BOY

Max Perrot, father of 4 year old Richard, who has been missing from his home at 4110 North Maplewood avenue since April 4, today will test his final hope that the boy is still alive. Accompanied by Supervising Captain Thomas J. Condon, Perrot will go to the Elgin insane asylum today to make a personal appeal to Joseph B. Bothe, an inmate who has been under suspicion of kidnaping the child.

Bothe was at large on the day of the boy's disappearance. He corresponded to the description of a man reported to have been seen with him, but yesterday every one who had reported having seen the supposed Perrot boy and the "thin man" said Bothe was not the man.

Police Thursday night dispelled the possibility that Richard was in the custody of a kidnaper from whom Perrot had received two letters demanding $150 ransom. A dummy package was placed and police arrested Leo Magnus, 17 years old, 1831 North Francisco avenue, Tuley High school student, after he had picked it up. Magnus confessed writing the letters but convinced police he knew nothing about the boy's disappearance. He was turned over to federal authorities to be prosecuted on a charge of sending extortion letters through the mails.

With Magnus' confession, police returned to their theory that Richard had been drowned in the north branch of the Chicago river, but Capt. Condon agreed to help the father make his final appeal today.

INSPECTIONS FOR HIGH SCHOOLS' R.O.T.C. UNITS SET

Other inspections will be on the following days: Wednesday, Harrison Technical High school; Friday, Fenger and Hyde Park High schools; Tuesday, May 7, Phillips, Bowen, and Morgan Park High schools.

Wednesday, May 8, Crane Technical, Austin and Calumet High schools; Thursday, May 9, Roosevelt, Lane Technical, and Schurz High schools; Friday, May 10, Senn and Lake View High schools.

SCIENCE CAUSES VICIOUS RAT TO MOTHER SQUAB

Prolactin Injection Does Zoological Trick.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 19.—(AP)—Isaiah's prophecy that the lion and the lamb shall lie down together and a little child lead them was shown to be a scientific possibility at the American Philosophical society meeting here today.

The chemical substance to tame both animals is available if any one wants to try it out.

Prolactin Injected.

The rat had received an injection of prolactin, a hormone produced by the pituitary glands of human and all mammals, including lions. The rat was an unmated female, with nothing but wild instincts and no previous experience with mothering anything.

The prolactin induced immediately a maternal instinct so powerful as to mask the rat's natural appetite for eating young squabs.

Prolactin was discovered three years ago by Dr. Riddle. Previous experiments with it indicate that it acts on all animals in similar fashion.

Its primary function is to cause female mammals to give milk for their young. It has done that even when given to males.

Also in previous experiments it has shown the power to induce an instinct in animals, an exhibition of parental concern, or affection.

Tells Discovery's Implications.

Dr. Riddle exhibited the pictures and his latest experiments to suggest the "implications" of this discovery. They point, he said, to a chemical basis for personality.

First, he points out, in experiments thus far, prolactin has induced maternal instincts in two entirely different types of animals, fowls, and rats. Second, its influence is always the same despite the fact that chemically it must work on several different kinds of living tissue of the animal bodies.

"This case also has distinction," he said, "because it is perhaps that type of behavior which appears latest or last in the life history of the individual. The very nature of this maternal behavior identifies it with adult life.

"The maternal instinct here described probably involves more than that which may strictly and properly be called the maternal instinct.

Adds New Element.

"Persistent interest and intelligence seem also to share in the newly invoked activities. Introduction of the hormone temporarily adds to such a rat a new element of consciousness—an elaborated response which can occur without learning, conditioning, or habit formation."

The pituitary gland producing prolactin lies close under the brain above the roof of the mouth. It produces also several other hormones, or chemicals, effective as controls of both conduct and health. This pituitary is called the "motor" gland of the body because of its domination over the other ductless, or endocrine, glands.

Gingrich Selects Five Big Names for Literature of 1938

Arnold Gingrich, author of "Cast Down the Laurel" and editor of Esquire, spoke before the Book and Play club on "Tomorrow's Authors Today" and he made an interesting prediction about writers of tomorrow. By 1938 he said the five great names in American literature will be Louis Paul [whose first novel, "The Pumpkin Coach," was just published], Louis Zara [author of "Blessed Is the Man," also just published], Michael Fessier [whose "Fully Dressed and in His Right Mind" will be published on May 20], Robert Carson and Francis Fuhr.

He named as dark horses Hewitt Henry Ballowe, Myron Griffen, Frederick Scribner, and William Saroyan, explaining that he hadn't put Saroyan with the certainties because the critics, with their adulation of "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" may have ruined him just as they ruined Scott Fitzgerald.

'Folio' Is Book Offering Work of N. Shore Writers

"Folio" looks like a magazine, but it is really an unbound book presenting the work of members of the North Shore Writers' guild. It contains stories, poems, and articles by such professional writers as Louise Ayres Garnett, poet; Kenneth Horan, novelist; Lucy Fitch Perkins, juvenile writer [author of the Twins series]; Rowena Bennet, and Lydia Trowbridge. Other contributors, Helen Hill, Leslie G. Cameron, Shelton Sackett, and Josphine Blackstock, have all had plays produced successfully on the north shore.

This 'Victoria' Is a Critical Labor of Love

Benson Biography Stays in Middle of Road.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Queen Victoria," by E. F. Benson. [Longmans-Green.] Published on Wednesday.

"Ordeal," by Marie, Queen of Rumania. [Scribners.] Published on Wednesday.

"Heritage," by George F. Hummel. [Stokes.] Published today.

ONE would think that books about Queen Victoria, like books about Abraham Lincoln, had pretty nearly worn out their welcome by readers, but even Lytton Strachey's "Queen Victoria," although it was responsible for a whole new school of biography, blithely called "modern," was not the last word.

Indeed, its very modernity, its very daring to stick a sharp but not really devastating pin into the fabric of the balloonlike adoration of the English for their "Mother," had almost as large a succession of apologetic volumes about its subject as a pale succession of imitative volumes of its manner.

And now there appears a life which may well be the meeting place of adorer and detractor alike. It is written by E. F. Benson, son of the late archbishop of Canterbury, by inheritance one of the admirers. It is also by one of the best known of England's novelists and literary men, and by that patent a natural rebel against facile acceptance of mass judgment. That "dry light" which Bacon centuries ago declared to be the best has come but lately into literature, although it illumined science long before.

Lytton Strachey's light was dry, but it was searing. Mr. Benson's, it seems to me, has the quality of dryness tinged with warmth. What he sees has no shadows, no obscurity of the moisture of prejudice, but it does have a sort of affectionate heightening.

From his pages Queen Victoria emerges just as self-willed, narrow-minded, vindictive, rather more [at times] plain stupid than even Mr. Strachey made her out, but Mr. Benson judges her from affectionate premises.

He shows how unpleasant her early life was, how she was thrust into unlimited power before she had power over herself, how by inheritance and education she was unprepared, and with that equipment [he seems to say] the results were remarkable, admirable, and her final conquest of her people inevitable.

The prince consort takes on something of a new light in Mr. Benson's pages. He was a good husband and a good father in the purely technical sense of the word [one feels], taking both marriage and fatherhood as duties which he fulfilled conscientiously but without enthusiasm.

How Albert managed to convince a woman whom he certainly did not love when he married her that he was the incarnation of divinity and an "angel" and the best husband any woman ever had confirms Mr. Benson's hint that the young Victoria was sickening for love before she found her divine mate.

Mr. Benson states with no uncertain criticism Albert's complete misunderstanding of his eldest son's temperament and abilities, which Victoria accepted and upon which she based the long years of her minimizing of the prince of Wales. That, perhaps, is the result of Mr. Benson's research, for in the volume of biography which preceded this one, "King Edward VII.," that monarch received frank and honest admiration from his biographer.

MORE QUEEN MARIE

Like Queen Victoria, who kept a journal from her 13th year until her death, nearly seventy years later, and thus provided unlimited material for her future biographers, Marie, queen of Rumania, kept a copious diary and with its help she has written her autobiography as another source book for the future. She has just published the second volume and called it "Ordeal." It begins with her accession to the throne and tells of the days before, during and after the world war which brought forth "the triumphant birth of a greater Rumania from the ashes of the war."

LONG ISLAND ROYALTY

It is of the royalty of a small town on Long Island during the middle and the late 1900s that George F. Hummel writes in "Heritage." As immigrants to a new world come Gottlob and Barbara Weller, without one word of English and with nothing but four hands and three children to work for and with. Six hundred and seventy-four pages later both of them are dead, but one of their sons is practically lord of that part of the island and the whole map of Long Island has changed physically, psychologically and spiritually.

"Heritage" is one of those vast panoramas of life that by their very minutse impress the reader with the author's enormous but loving labors. If readers had not been demanding tomes of late, "Heritage" might have been, instead of a good book, a fine one. Its story is impressive. It is written with a certain honest craftsmanship. But it sometimes goes on and on like the dormouse's tail . . .

"Heritage" is a novel of events, not of thoughts, and sometimes the dullness of the days in Norwold to this reader is too well translated into words.

"Heritage" has more than a touch of melodrama to it . . . the brother against brother theme fills many of its pages, and it has a sketchy backdrop of New York in the gaudy days of the Tweed ring and Jim Fiske. It is, I believe, the sort of book that most readers nowadays would find satisfying.

Frankau's Novel First Choice of British Readers

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—It is an interesting fact that during the last month the most popular novel in England was apparently Gilbert Frankau's "Three Englishmen" [Hutchinson]. This was a very long book, dealing extensively with three men of strongly contrasted types, and much more ambitious than Mr. Frankau's novels have recently been. It was closely followed in popular favor by Lady Eleanor Smith's "Tzigane" [same publishers], which has been published in the United States under the title of "Romany."

Both books were issued early in the year, and accumulated sales as readers became aware of their narrative attractiveness. They outstripped the books chosen by any of the three or four "selection committees," whether those of the Book society or the newspapers.

There seems no doubt that George Blake's "The Shipbuilders" [Faber] will take its place as the most important topical novel of the day, for it has been received with enthusiastic praise both as a contribution to social history and as a piece of vivid presentation, and it is being very widely read and liked.

Hulbert Footner, whose public in this country grows larger with the passing of each year, is paying a brief visit to London and its environs. His newest book, which in America is "The Whip-poor-will Mystery" and in England, not very attractively, "The New Made Grave" [Collins], is moving towards high rank as a crime seller.

Mr. Footner reads widely in every department of literature. His estimates of current books are always shrewd and far-seeing; he is as much at home in England as he is in America, and his enthusiasm for good work is as great as his zest in the company of interesting people. In a short visit to England he will make many new contacts, will disappear to his home in Maryland to write new mystery stories, will appear again in the West Indies, China, or Germany almost without warning, and, in short, has a greater enjoyment of life than most men of his day and knows more about the way it is spent all over the world than the majority of his fellows.

Public Library Has Special Displays to Mark Children's Week

In observance of Youth week [April 23-30] the Chicago Public library presents on the fourth floor corridor in the main library an interesting exhibit of the work done by the young people's department of the library. Examples of various methods of reading guidance are on display.

Among the exhibits are an attractive King Arthur's round table made in connection with the reading of epic and chivalry books, star maps made by the Boys' Science club, stamp collections, and many other examples of hobbies developed from various lines of reading.

An excellently executed piece of work is that done by the boys' club of a branch serving a large colored district. This is a soap model of the district, showing location of homes, schools, hospitals, etc., in relation to the library branch and was undertaken as a civic project. Informative charts on Negro children's reading interests are also on display from this branch.

There are book exhibits including children's reference books, Newberry medal books, children's books of yesterday and book trails of our country.

Dreiser Says Day of Writer as Individual Is Past.

THEODORE DREISER lectured on Tuesday evening at Thorne hall, Northwestern university, on "Romanticism or Realism?" He gave his audience two distinct and unusual literary ideas to take home with them. One concerned the past, the other the future of American literature, two things related to each other only in their relation to the same thing [if one may thus twist the old geometrical axiom].

"That "same thing" is, according to Mr. Dreiser, American temperament and action. The United States, from its beginnings, he said, has always been an extremely practical nation . . . much of the motivation of life and thought has been primarily for gain. And, because of that practicality, Americans had a wide streak of the romantic about them, to make living from day to day possible. Always to the downtrodden there was the frontier, government lands promised plenty. Until the last frontier was opened hope was always an antidote to the realities of life.

American literature has been more influenced, he said, by the frontier romance rather than by the almost bitter reality of daily life. Like much of American daily life, exemplified, he said, in the feudal slave-worked south, and the equally feudal life of the northern industrialists, who ruled their freedmen with as iron a patronage, the literature of America was copied from England. And no trace of anything at all realistically American came into American literature until Hawthorne, who, although a romanticist of the first water, did in "The Blithedale Romance" give a realistic picture of the fated Brook farm experiment.

Slavery, a great social influence, gave to America not one real volume of realistic writing, he said, although in the 1830s over a thousand books a year were published in Charleston, S. C., alone, where slavery was the foundation of the whole social order. Nothing in American literature touched realistically on the Mexican war, either, he declared, until a contemporary, Claude Bowers, wrote of it. Herman Melville, who wrote in the 1840s remarkably realistic romance in "Typee," and "Omoo," nevertheless had no trafic with the American scene and the treatment which his contemporaries gave him forced him to be silent until two years before his death.

There were hundreds of books written about the civil war, Mr. Dreiser declared, but it remained for one of our contemporaries to write the first realistic novel about it, "The Forge," and a young man in the nineties, Stephen Crane, to write the first realistic account of a battle in it, "The Red Badge of Courage." The only writer of the civil war period who wrote realistically was Walt Whitman, Mr. Dreiser declared, and even Whitman gave a romantic interpretation to his realism by translating the frontier into the symbolism of democracy.

The gold rush was marvelous material, which only Bret Harte used, and he used it romantically even though he saw it realistically. The frontier waited for Mark Twain to be seen and used realistically. Mr. Dreiser declared Mark Twain to be the first of the distinguished realists. In fact, he said, Mark Twain became so violently a realist in his later days as to make terrific onslaughts on the romantic ideal. "What Is Man?" is one of the most sardonic books in American literature.

It was not until the 1890s that the modern school of realism was born, he declared, with Stephen Crane, Henry B. Fuller, whom Mr. Dreiser thinks to be one of the best the century produced; Hamlin Garland with his "Main Traveled Roads"; Hervey White with "Quicksands," Will Payne with "The Story of Eva," Frank Norris with "McTeague" and "The Octopus," Abraham Cahan with "The Rise of David Levinsky." But, said Mr. Dreiser, they were all beaten by the conventional attitude of the time and either turned to romantic fiction or died like Stephen Crane and Frank Norris.

Two young knights errant of criticism then arose who believed so passionately in realism that they preached it as they would a gospel. H. L. Mencken and George Jean Nathan stirred up scores of youngsters to start writing realistic novels, Mr. Dreiser declared, but they have not one really distinguished realistic novel to their credit. The two stars, he said, of the modern realistic movement, William Faulkner and Ernest Hemingway, were certainly not instructed by Mencken and Nathan.

So much for the past. Mr. Dreiser feels that the same romance that we have always had is with us in another form, the movie. We have come to a break in the period of either great romanticists or great realists. He believes that the day of the individual creator is over, and there has come one of collaborations, coöperative efforts as exemplified by the movie, which takes a novel and makes of it the coöperative effort of author, movie-smith, specialists in all sorts of fields.

"There is a strange something coming into life," he said in conclusion, "that is coöperative in compulsion and in its results," and much as he personally regrets the passing of the individual novelist, he feels that the future of American literature may well belong to coöperative groups echoing the compulsion of American society toward coöperation. Mystery of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK

Today we have a sort of omnium-gatherum, something for almost every taste, provided only that such taste runs to mystery and murder.

With a foreword by Arthur Machen comes "The Deadly Dowager" [Doubleday-Doran], by Edwin Greenwood. The heroine of this outrageous and pretty funny tale is Arabella, Lady Engleton, who at eighty-odd is so full of life that she plans and executes death for most of her relatives. All her little schemes have the laudable intention of restoring the fortunes of the house of De Birket, and, since the current head of the family is a nice young man in love with an unusually attractive girl, the old lady's malice stirs in you a slightly sympathetic response. Her victims, too, are intensely disagreeable, or at least futile, so why be squeamish?

One of my more civilized friends confides that she has no use for psychological mysteries, that only murder, frequent and bloody, gives a detective story the requisite punch.

So to her I recommend "Murder in a Mad House" [Crime Club], by Jonathan Latimer. A young and lively detective undertakes the job of tracking down a problematical thief who seems to have made a rich haul in a private sanitarium. The performances which follow leave you unenthusiastic about private sanitariums, but quite enthusiastic about the young detective's wit and humor, not to mention his ability to "take it," He is precipitated into a regular orgy of murder.

Almost he is himself a victim, but luck and a modicum of sense preserve him for future doughty deeds.

A sherif and a coroner add to the entertainment and assorted patients seem no less crazy than a lot of other people. The murderer, who at no time is likable, turns out in the end to be as bad as they make 'em. Its all fast and hardboiled and full of wise cracks. One reason why you should read it is because the author began his career in Chicago. The other is because it's a good mystery story.

"The Will and the Deed" [Dodd-Mead], by Dorothy Ogburn, will be more satisfactory to those who like their murders imbedded in a good all round story. A warped old scientist himself reads his will to his assembled family, having taken a movie of himself in the act. From this curious scene the story progresses to something which may be murder or suicide, each member of the jumbled household taking a hand at snarling the plot. There are police and there is a detective who doesn't get any farther than you will up to the ultimate chapter. It's a good story and very well handled.

Here's Fashion Lineup for Big Easter Parade

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Here is the fashion lineup for Easter Sunday.

Suits lead. Not the rather bulky three piece tweeds that have whirled about the town for the last month, but the new sophisticated ensembles, the dresses of either wool or silk or wool and silk combined. Delightfully slim clothes with plenty of femininity.

The rustle of taffeta either in blouse top, ascot tie, neck bow, or the charming three-quarter length coat of this material going over wool dresses to the smartest places.

Watch the prints. Practically everybody gets into print, small patterns, gay color contrasts, and unusual combinations of printed silk with sheer wool. Redingotes consisting of bright colored printed dress worn under the long, slim wool coat are better than ever. If it's warm in the shade as well as under the sun, you'll see the crackling new taffeta silk suits tailored as meticulously as anything in wool. Some have complete dresses under the short fitted jacket, while others are worn with the newest of white frilly and feminine blouses.

Black and navy take all honors in suits, coats and ensembles. Navy is worn with the new old gold and oxblood red. Black goes with the dramatics of clear white or the more subtle of pale pink or pearl grey.

White accessories come in flurries of lingerie collars, flared and cuffed gloves, white handbags, white hats, all white flowers, and even tiny white bows on the sleek black insteps of black footwear. Pearl gray will probably come in third, especially when it is combined with oxblood red.

Watch the carnations in the coat lapels, the classic pearl earrings, clips, and necklaces, that smart women wear from dawn until dark. And watch the new costume jewelry, it's better than ever this year.

And watch the hats. What would an Easter parade be without them? This year you'll see flattering hats, picturesque feminine hats, with veils, flowers, velvet ribbon. There are straws of all kinds and colors. And notice the brims, for which we need be thankful after months of severe off the face models.

Modern Peony.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Peony quilt blocks always afford a perfect opportunity for combining the gayest and most beautiful of the autumn shades. The combination of peony red and peony yellow, with deep leaf green and a dash of lavender, creates one of the most striking and pleasantly modern quilts. "Modern Peony" fits ideally into this category. The completed pieced block measures 16 inches square, and only 15 blocks are required in one quilt. These are arranged with 15 plain blocks of white or a harmonizing color.

Busy Week-End as Season of Lent Is Closed

Set Date for de Menocal, Simpson Wedding.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Bursting forth from the penitential restrictions of Lent, the Easter week-end provides a gay and interesting array of events ranging from four weddings to a number of small parties for brides-to-be, bunny hunts for the younger generation, and a concert with a charity purpose.

First of all, however, comes the announcement of June 8 as the date for the wedding of Miss Beatrice de Menocal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel A. de Menocal of Boston and William Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson.

This means that all of the Simpson family will go east the first week in June to be in Boston for the marriage of their youngest son and the festivities immediately preceding it. The service will be late in the afternoon at the Leslie Lindsay Memorial chapel with only the immediate families and a few intimate friends attending. There will be a large reception, however, at the de Menocal home on Beacon street in Boston.

Young Mr. Simpson is working in New York City. James Simpson Jr. is to serve his brother as best man and John MacLaren Simpson, another brother, will be one of the ushers.

Four Weddings Take Place Today.

Today's brides are Miss Pattie Alward, daughter of the Vaughan Lee Alwards of the Seneca hotel; her sister, Winifred Lee Alward, whose marriage was to have been kept a surprise until tonight but became news yesterday; Miss Jane Copthorne, daughter of the H. Norman Copthornes of Hubbard Woods, and Miss Virginia Patton, daughter of the Walter I. Pattons of Evanston.

Miss Pattie Alward's marriage to Richard Warren Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Morgan Douglas of 20 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, will be solemnized at 8:30 o'clock this evening at St. Chrysostom's church. The Rev. Dudley S. Stark will read the ceremony, and a reception will follow at the Fortnightly club.

At the club, Miss Lee Alward, who will attend her sister as maid of honor, will become the bride of Ralph Allen Hunt, son of Frank Samuel Hunt of New York, with the Rev. Thomas Anderson of the Wellington Avenue Congregational church officiating. Miss Lee Alward's only attendant will be Miss Dixie Douglas, sister of Pattie's bridegroom, and Michael Harper will serve Mr. Hunt as best man.

Attendants for Pattie Alward.

Miss Pattie's attendants include, besides her sister, Miss Douglas, Miss Romeyn Hess of Evanston, a cousin; Miss Virginia Rich of Winnetka and Miss Jeannette Crow of Elkhart, Ind. Dee Daley of Elcho, Wis., will serve Mr. Douglas as best man and ushering will be William Baker, Ogden White, William White, and Vincent Alward, the bride's brother.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda Mr. Douglas and his bride will make their home in the southwest. Mr. Hunt and his bride will be at home temporarily at 244 East Pearson street after a short wedding trip. Mr. Douglas' grandmother, Mrs. Sue Lyon Douglas, who celebrated her 101st birthday last September, will not be able to attend the wedding.

Miss Copthorne's marriage to Donald Macdonald, son of the John Marshall Macdonalds, will take place quietly at 10 o'clock this morning in the Copthorne home. The Rev. Douglas H. Cornell of the Glencoe Union church will read the ceremony in the Accidents—Lions.

A GIRL named Harriet Flood, who works in an insurance brokerage office, forwards a letter from a client complaining of inadequate payment under his accident policy and outlining the five accidents that befell him in a few minutes' time.

The client narrates that on Sunday morning, going to visit a new house being built for him, he climbed the ladder that is doing temporary duty for the stairs, and, seeing a pile of brick that was not needed there, he decided to remove the brick. He pulled up a barrel attached to a rope and pulley in the elevator shaft, and, climbing down the ladder, he fastened the rope firmly to the bottom of the shaft. Climbing the ladder again, he filled the barrel with brick, then descended and untied the rope to let the barrel down. However, the barrel was heavier than he was, and he went up the shaft with such speed that before he thought of letting go the rope he was so high it seemed more dangerous to let go than to hold on. So he held on.

Halfway up the elevator shaft he was struck by the barrel of brick coming down, with considerable damage to epidermis. He ascended and the barrel descended, and he struck the roof at the same time the barrel struck bottom. The shock knocked the bottom out of the barrel and the breath out of him. Then, the empty barrel being lighter than he, he started down and the barrel up, and again they met in the middle of the journey. He was pounded, bruised and his face skinned by the impact. When he struck bottom he forgot to hold on to the rope, and the released barrel fell from the top of the shaft five stories high and landed squarely on him.

"I sustained five accidents within two minutes," the letter concluded, "one on my journey up the shaft when I met the barrel of brick; the second when I struck the roof; the third when I met the empty barrel descending; the fourth when I struck bottom, and the fifth when the barrel struck me, but your insurance man said it was only one accident, not five, and that I am entitled to receive payment for only one. I therefore inclose the policy and ask that you cancel same, as I have made up my mind henceforth I am not to be skinned by either an insurance company or a barrel."

ONE lion that belongs to Clyde Beatty will not be a part of the Cole Brothers-Clyde Beatty circus when it opens tomorrow night at the Coliseum. He is Leo, the lion that never has seen another lion, and who lives—not in the lion cages of the circus, but in his master's room at the Congress hotel. Leo is six months old, follows Beatty about like a dog, and, also like a dog, goes to his own bed in his master's room to sleep. The famous animal trainer's special pet is being trained for close-ups in the movies. When Beatty is busy in the ring Leo stays in his dressing room.

NOT since he was taken from his mother when he was a tiny cub has Leo seen another lion. He probably will be horribly frightened when he does see them, as were those famous lion mascots of the Lafayette Escadrille when they finally were put in a zoo. The Lafayette Escadrille adopted the pair of lions as mascots when they were tiny cubs. As they grew larger, and a separate camion was necessary for their transportation, they became too expensive to maintain, and they were put in a zoo. One of the men of the escadrille went to visit them one day when he was on leave, and they were in transports of joy at seeing an old friend—one of their own kind, so they thought. You see, having been reared among human beings, they did not realize they were lions. They were desperately frightened of the other lions, the keeper said.

PARIS TODAY

By MAY BIRKHEAD.

PARIS.—The illustrious sovereigns of the past—some of them—were good pickers. They knew how to pick their places of residence, their architects, and sometimes their women. A leading jeweler of the Rue de la Paix is giving a display which proves that these monarchs also knew how to pick their workers in gold and silver. The old and famous house of Mellerio, which 150 years ago was making beautiful things in gold and silver for Marie Antoinette, has assembled a remarkable lot of objects in behalf of a charity organized by the Duchesse de Guise. Many of the best known private collectors of Paris have sent certain striking pieces. Were it not for an occasion like this, the public would never have a chance to see them. These treasures are of a quality that match, or even surpass, what may be seen in the Apollo gallery of the Louvre.

It is not every day that you can see the necklaces, snuff boxes, pendants, and other delicately wrought and jeweled pieces which were ordered by French monarchs from Francis I. to Louis Philippe. Some of the most curious once belonged to Napoleon, and were given by him to Josephine and her children, or to the grandees of the empire. Taking the exhibition as a whole, although it is small, the glass cases, tastefully arranged, contain over 400 objects, and are of such dazzling beauty that they suggest the Arabian Nights.

To rest your eyes from the glitter of gold and jewels, a view of the cunning work in silver will show such curious things as a boat, with sails blown out, and armed with cannon, and small figures on the deck. This vessel served as a wine decanter in the 16th century. Immense ingenuity was shown in contriving coup tureens in sculptured silver; the handle of one shows a stork holding a fish, while another is a dog over a fallen deer.

The climax of this display is the truly marvelous necklace which was made by that prince of artificers in gold, Benvenuto Cellini, or at least came from his atelier. Today this object, of extraordinary magnificence, belongs to Baron Maurice de Rothschild, whose collection comprises all sorts of art works and bibelots. This necklace was ordered by Francis I. and he figured it would be a noble ornament to his spacious figure. But the Emperor Charles V., on making him prisoner, took it away from him and never gave it back.

Good Morning!

Stunning is the adjective that comes to me as I seek to describe this picture—new version of Victor Herbert's intriguing operetta.

Everything ABOUT the piece is stunning! Jeanette MacDonald, her voice; Nelson Eddy, HIS voice; supporting ast, direction, general layout—together combine to have and to hold your breathless interest. And, so I DO believe—that stunning is a pretty good all around adjective for the occasion.

To my way of thinking, Miss MacDonald's portrayal of the gay princess who runs away—SAILS away—to the colonies to escape marriage with a hated Don Carlos and the fate of favorite to Louis XV. is the best thing she's done. She seems absolutely en rapport with her rôle and her leading man, and is in glorious voice. The costumes of the period become her—monstrous well, as I believe would have been said in those times. . . .

As for Nelson Eddy, famous in radio but comparatively unknown in pictures, it may be said that he has everything. A magnificent voice. A magnificent presence and, apparently, a marvelous sense of humor. His scenes with Miss MacDonald—especially the one in New Orleans where they sing "Sweet Mystery of Life" to one another on a staircase—will fairly SLAY the romantically inclined.

The story opens in Paris. Several of the first scenes are reminiscent of some in "One Night of Love." Then the narrative moves its central figure, incognito by this time, to a colony bound boat, loaded with girls destined to become the wives of American settlers. Pirates attack the ship when it's just a short way from New Orleans—and the girls are taken ashore—

—To be rescued by that gallant Capt. Warrington, head of the mercenary scouts, and his doughty men.

I could wish you nothing better in the way of carefree entertainment than an hour spent with "Naughty Marietta." And so—my best wish is yours.

Lecture on Gardens.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

1. A gorgeous gardenia. It seems to be every perfumer's ambition to create this scent. It's one of the most difficult to achieve, and the way it's muffed is distressing. This is one of the best, if not the best, we've ever encountered. It has all the warmth and richness of the flower, with sweetness and an undertone of heaviness, too. It is actually the most lasting gardenia we know. Time was when you had to shell out heavily for this because it was available only in pretty large sizes. Now you can get it in small quantities and feel practically no budget pain.

2. A sweet Easter offering is the little penthouse arrangement of four small flacons of famous French perfumes fitted cleverly into a brown and beige package. These are all thrillers. Some are blends known only by initials, others have charming names, but all are exciting perfumes on the luxurious order. The little perfume bouquet this unusual package represents is a knockout Easter idea.

3. This is inexpensive but delectable. It's a nice fat box of body powder in a famous fragrance. It's the very fine kind that makes your skin feel all satiny and fragrant after a bath and the scent is a light, sweet one. Tucked into the top of the box is a bottle of the perfume proper. It's not new but its consistent popularity is an excellent indication of how much women like it. You'll find this body powder and perfume combination pretty much all around the town.

The same house has another Easter idea that's a good one—a little bottle of their scent with an atomizer. That's practical, if you ask us, as well as being fun. ELEANOR NANGLE.

RAPIST TAUNTS ACCUSER FROM GALLOWS TRAP

Delivers 45 Minute Tirade as 1,500 Listen.

Smithland, Ky., April 19.—(AP)—A 23 year old white man was hanged at dawn today in the presence of the woman he allegedly attacked, after a 45 minute tirade from the gallows in which he called her a "cold blooded murderess" and taunted the crowd to shoot him.

Nine times the man, William T. De Boe Jr. of Paducah, shook his manacled hands over the heads of the crowd of onlookers at 32 year old Mrs. Marjorie Johnson and denied her accusation. Only once, when he shouted, "If I had $500, I wouldn't be on this scaffold, she would have taken it," did she reply.

Woman Answers Accuser.

"Not if you had offered me $1,000," she replied.

Spectators, some 150 crowded into the enclosure and about 1,400 jammed outside, had pointed her out at De Boe's demand, as she stood beside her husband, Randall Johnson.

De Boe declared he had not had a fair trial here and taunted the crowd. "I'm going to sleep in McCracken county [where his father lives]," the youth shouted. "A man can get justice there."

"And if any of you night riders out there who horsewhipped that 62 year old woman [an outrage of several years ago] have guts enough to shoot a man off the scaffold, go ahead and shoot!"

Offers Prayer for Sherif.

His attitude toward Sherif G. H. Heater, the hangman, and G. Phil Hanna, consulting expert on hangings who had promised De Boe an easy death, contrasted with his scorn of the woman.

De Boe's father, W. T. De Boe Sr., and his 19 year old sister, Margaret, accompanied the youth to the foot of the scaffold steps. The sister was red eyed from three sleepless nights as she journeyed back and forth from Frankfort in a vain plea to Gov. Ruby Laffoon. De Boe's mother is dead.

De Boe, convicted of raping Mrs. Johnson during a store holdup, was hanged inside a small eight foot high enclosure erected in the jail yard. The gallows towered high above the wooden fence. People poured into Smithland last night to be assured of seeing the execution.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Ted Weems is a papa! The well known orchestra leader and his wife adopted an 8 weeks old baby girl on Thursday, the day after Ted and his bandsmen concluded a record run of almost a year at the Empire room of the Palmer house and over W-G-N. The baby has been named Eleanor for Mrs. Weems. Mrs. Weems told about the baby in their household at a party welcoming Freddy Martin and his orchestra to the Palmer house Thursday night. The child has dark hair and eyes, as does its new mother.

Other radio folk who have adopted babies in recent months are George Burns and Gracie Allen, a girl; Jack Benny and Mary Livingstone, a girl, and Lu of Clara, Lu 'n' Em, who is Isobel Carothers Berolzheimer, a boy.

And late this summer, while Clara, Lu 'n' Em are on their vacation a baby is expected in the household of Helen King, who is Em. In private life she is Mrs. John Mitchell, 2139 Lincolnwood avenue, Evanston.

Freddy Martin's orchestra seems to have made an instantaneous hit at the Empire room and with W-G-N listeners. Fresh from a triumphant season at New York's St. Regis, he could probably duplicate the record of Weems and Richard Cole for long runs at the hostelry. But in six weeks he must leave for the Cocoanut Grove at Los Angeles, a spot lately occupied by the Lombardos and Ted Fiorito. More than 350 telegrams from well wishers were delivered to Martin during the evening. His music, for the most part, is smooth, flowing, melodic, with rippling piano touches provided by Terry Shand, who shares the vocalizing with Elmer Feldkamp.

OUTLINE PLANS FOR SURVEY OF COLORED AREA

Social Problems Taken Up at Conference.

Plans for the solution of social problems and the improvement of housing conditions among the colored population on the south side were discussed yesterday in the Bethesda community house, 109 East 53d street, at the opening of a two day conference sponsored by the Chicago Urban league. More than 250 social workers, school teachers and south side property owners participated in the symposium.

Frayser T. Lane, director of the department of social and civic improvement activities of the Urban league, outlined the details of a block to block canvass shortly to be begun in the area between Cottage Grove and Wentworth avenues and 22d and 63d street.

Will Canvass Area.

The territory will be divided into large sections and subdivided into individual blocks. A resident of each block will be appointed to study and recommend methods of improving social conditions and preventing property deterioration. These reports will be coordinated into a working plan by the league. The survey is expected to take several years.

The Rev. Harold Kingsley of the Good Shepherd Congregational church declared that policy games and other forms of gambling in the area could be wiped out only by an aroused opinion of the entire colored community.

Warns of Deterioration.

George O. Fairweather, business manager of the University of Chicago, told the conference that property values in the colored residential district would shrink unless immediate steps were taken to halt deterioration.

Others speakers were Wilson Lovett, a life insurance official, who warned of a serious impairment to the health of the community if the dumping of refuse in alleys was not stopped, and T. D. Henderson, an official of the Chicago branch of the Federal Housing authority, who expressed interest in the proposed canvass by the Urban league.

SILK HAT HURLEY, FAMED MAYOR OF SALEM, IS DEAD

Salem, Mass., April 19.—(AP)—John F. [Silk Hat] Hurley, 90 year old veteran of battlefield and politics, who fought in 44 civil war engagements and was five times Salem's mayor, died last night.

Death came to him in the Veterans' home at Hampton, Va. He had his famous silk hat with him to the last.

Hurley's silk hat was a fixture, as much a part of the man as his flair for publicity, his impeccable morning coat, his jaunty burnside whiskers, and the huge diamond which ornamented his boiled shirt front virtually to the end.

In 1907 he toured Ireland and every registered voter in the city got a picture straight from the Emerald Isle. He was mayor at varying times from 1901 to 1914, the latter year of the big Salem fire.

Ushering will be Carl Keith Jr., Mr. Keith's brother, and Bert Moritz of Kenilworth. Mr. Keith, whose cousin, Miss Patsy Keith, will be married to Robert Stuart Macdonald next Saturday in Lake Forest, and his bride will be at home in Evanston after May 5.

Give Many Parties for Wedding Couples.

The parties for future wedding couples are varied and interesting. Mrs. George Adams Richardson will entertain at a buffet supper and paper shower tomorrow evening for Miss Keith, who is a daughter of the Stanley Keiths, and Mr. Macdonald who are to be married in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest.

Miss Elizabeth Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bassett Williams, and her fiancé, Thomas Edmonson Covel of Boston, who will be married next Wednesday evening, will be especial guests at the party, since Mr. Covel and his brother, Richard Bordon Covel, who will be his best man, are visiting the Richardsons. The Williams-Covel wedding will take place in St. Mark's Episcopal church in Evanston.

Mrs. Robert A. Gardner, who had planned to entertain at luncheon for Miss Keith and Mr. Macdonald tomorrow noon, has called the party off because it is Easter Sunday. She will entertain for Mr. Macdonald and his bride when they return from their wedding trip. Mr. Macdonald will give his bachelor dinner tonight.

Miss Catherine Noyes and Roger Dustin Shaw, who are to be married next Friday at St. Chrysostom's, will dine tonight in the apartment of the Edgar C. Rowes on East Division street, where Miss Jane Rowe, the maid of honor, and Mason B. Wells, one of the ushers, will entertain at dinner for them.

Smith, the bride-to-be's brother and sister-in-law, are entertaining at a buffet supper for them. Miss Smith is a daughter of the Harold Cornelius Smiths.

Concert to Mark Jubilee of Sisters.

After Easter services tomorrow morning and family dinners in the early afternoon, many of the city's music lovers will go to the Auditorium theater for the concert Jean Tennyson, operatic soprano, is to give for the benefit of the St. Mary of Nazareth hospital. The occasion celebrates the golden jubilee of the arrival in Chicago of the Sisters of the Holy Family of Nazareth.

One of the interesting features of the program will be the first public presentation of John Alden Carpenter's "The Sleep That Flits on Baby's Eyes."

Some of those who will be in the box rows and on the main floor include Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. George I. Haight, Mr. and Mrs. Homer J. Buckley, and the Polish consul general, Waclaw Gawronski.

The children who ride regularly at the Onwentsia club will give a rousing vote of thanks to Donald B. Douglas tonight, for he arranged, with the assistance of Mrs. Douglas, Mrs. John Andrews King, and Mrs. Merrill Hubbard, to take them all for a horseback picnic today. Mr. Douglas, as chairman of the equestrian committee at the Onwentsia, will be the children's host.

Easter Duck Hunt at Drake Hotel Today.

The huge fireplace in the lobby of the Drake hotel has been removed for this afternoon so that the Drake may hold its usual Easter duck hunt, which is so popular with all the children on the near north side. In addition to such veteran hunters as Nancy and John Krupp, Dr. and Mrs. Peter Krupps' younger children, and Miss Fifi Montgomery, the James R. Montgomerys' youngster, who has won a prize every year, the Drake has invited "Babs" Lyon and "Duke" and "Duchess" Gallagher, children of Ben and Bebe Daniels Lyon and of Mr. and Mrs. Skeets Gallagher.

Mrs. Robert O. Hereford, the former Thelma Jensen, who surprised her friends with her wedding Thursday afternoon, will be represented by a proxy this afternoon at the christening of Melodee Atherton, 6 months old daughter of the Richard Athertons [Elsa Kochs], for she and Mr. Hereford are on their way to New York City.

Mrs. Adam Luke Jr. of Tyrone, Pa., will have a proxy this afternoon, too, but the other godparents, Mrs. August Kochs, the baby's grandmother; Miss Barbara Shaffer, Miss Marian Hedly, William Carmall, and Edward Benninghoven, all will be present. Mr. and Mrs. Atherton will entertain at tea following the ceremony, which will be performed at 3:15 o'clock in the chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church, and Mr. and Mrs. Kochs will entertain at dinner tonight for the godparents.

Mrs. Frank D. Fulton has returned from California, where she spent the spring vacation with her daughter, Miss Helen Fulton, who is a student at the University of Southern California. Miss Fulton will return to Chicago in June. Mrs. Lawrence De Bout, the former Marion Fulton, is here from Ohio to spend Easter Sunday with her parents.

Former Lillian Dudley Soon to Visit Parents.

The Raymond Dudleys are expecting their daughter, Mrs. Philip S. Owen, the former Lillian Dudley, to arrive for a visit shortly after Easter. Mr. and Mrs. Owen are living in New Haven, Conn., where he is working for his degree in medicine. It is not likely that Mr. Owen will accompany his wife.

The Chicago Alumnae club of the University of Chicago is holding its annual spring luncheon today at the Casino club. An election of officers will follow the luncheon.

Flower Styles Give Choice for Easter Parade

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Flowers on the lapel and bonnets in the 1935 manner will set the pace tomorrow for Chicago's annual Easter parade.

Whether it's Lake Shore drive or one of the city's byways, families in their best will march forth to celebrate the festival that mixes human vanity, sociability, and curiosity with religion.

Tomorrow's celebration is to be without precedent in the last several years, according to the city's florists, who yesterday were preparing to fill telephone, telegraph, and cable orders by the dozen. Pleasantly enough for those who like to sentimentalize about the fashions of another day, round bouquets of violets, carnations, or mixed flowers will be fashion's favorites as much as the aristocratic orchids and ever acceptable gardenias.

In fact fashion decrees that flowers be centered or even lowered from the shoulder to the waist this year and still be correctly smart. Nothing better proves the whimsicality of fashion, for it took the corsage a long time to get up to the shoulder. A well known New York florist tried to raise the bouquet in 1912—even went so far as to have a model photographed—but Paris was the only city that welcomed the idea. A couple of years later the fashion came back across the water as a French innovation.

Beaux and husbands inclined to be especially indulgent will choose the rare and costly white orchids for their ladies. Not an Easter has passed in the last several years that Mrs. Clement Studebaker 3d hasn't appeared for worship at St. James' church wearing two or three white orchids. Other names with which the precious flowers are linked are those of Mrs. Fowler McCormick and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, but neither of them will attend church here tomorrow, for Mrs. McCormick is in Europe and Mrs. Carpenter in far off China.

Mrs. Robert R. Baker has shown a preference for deep purple orchids on Easter Sundays in the past and Mrs. Solomon B. Smith for green orchids.

Perhaps no society matron more firmly established the gardenia fashion than the late Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, who always chose two of the lovely, fragrant flowers for her Easter bouquet. Tomorrow the smartest gardenias will be the huge Belmont variety. But the gardenias will have strong competitors in rose pink camellias, valley lilies, and carnations, deep maroon or yellow ones tightly bunched.

Round bouquets of violets and sweet peas will turn back the pages to Easter, 1912, when Mrs. George Henry High, Gwendolyn High, now Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., and Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, among others, appeared on Lake Shore drive with corsages of these flowers and plumed and ribboned hats . . . or again to 1919 when the picture files show Mrs. William E. Clarke on her way to church wearing a corsage of lavender sweet peas that competed with her Easter bonnet for size.

The Easter bonnet, at least in its present frivolous aspect as a harbinger of spring, is really pagan in origin. The first Easter headdress was unquestionably the simple veil Mary wore when she stood outside the tomb on Easter morn, but the bonnet as thought of today comes through the pagan festival that honored the goddess Eastre long prior to the Christian era.

One of the customs of this festival was the obligation of putting on new garments to obtain love's favor for the coming year.

Keep Away from Water

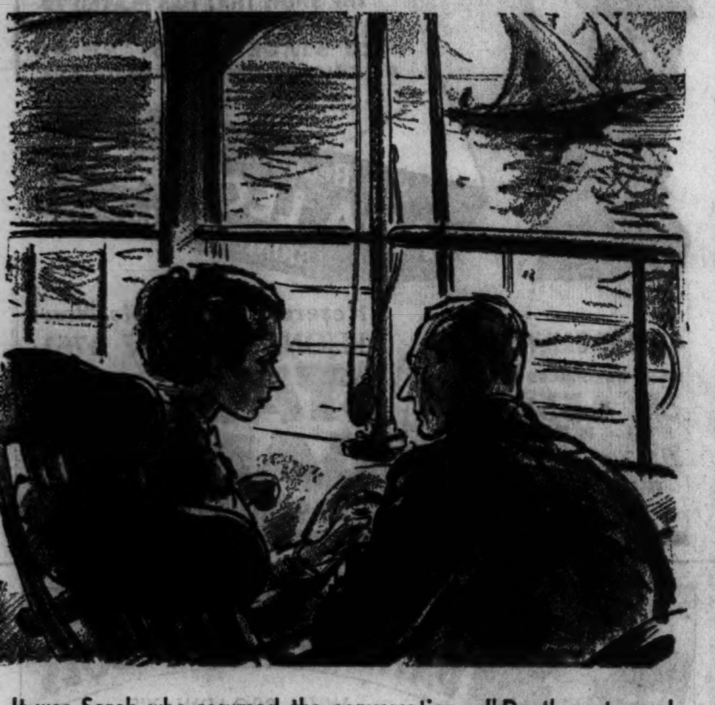
By Alice Campbell.

SYNOPSIS.

Sarah MacNeil, young American living in London, accepts a post as companion to Miss Christine Venables, who spends most of the year at Ste. Brigitte in southern France. Miss Venables has been receiving mysterious death threats through the mail. Mrs. Mark Venables, stepmother of Miss Venables' adored nephew, Harry, dies suddenly. She had been treated by Dr. Gilcrest of Ste. Brigitte. Miss Venables tells Sarah that she and Maj. Frampton were both threatened by two oriental drug sellers they had had prosecuted. Shortly after Maj. Frampton was killed in a fall down an elevator shaft. She believes he was murdered. Miss Venables' particular friends in Ste. Brigitte, besides Dr. Gilcrest, are the Baron Henri de Bellesnaves and Bimi, his beautiful wife; Beryl Tomlins, town librarian, and a few old residents of the resort hotel. Sarah gathers that Dr. Gilcrest is in love with the baroness. Beryl Tomlins is taken suddenly ill and dies. She had taken medicine prescribed by Dr. Gilcrest. Miss Venables receives another threatening letter, telling her she has one more day to live. The fatal day passes safely. Miss Venables takes her medicine and retires. She dies during the night, after declaring that she was poisoned. Sarah tells Dr. Gilcrest that it is up to him to demand a post mortem. It is made but discloses nothing, though the doctor's reputation is damaged. Then the baron dies, apparently a suicide. Dr. Gilcrest conducts a private investigation. The baroness is taken ill and Sarah agrees to stay with her. She distrusts her and the doctor and plans to investigate. That night the baroness has a secret caller. Sarah has hidden behind curtains in the baroness' room. The caller is Harry. He and the baroness are secret lovers, and responsible for the five deaths. Sarah's presence is discovered. She is about to be the next victim when she is rescued by Dr. Gilcrest.

INSTALMENT LX.
DEATH SENTENCES.

Harry had carried his fatal pellet round in a tiny bottle of oil, not knowing when it would be required. He had emptied one of his stepmother's capsules and refilled it, but the Baroness, having to work with the utmost speed, had her capsule previously prepared, ready to slip into the newly filled bottle. As Gilcrest surmised, she knew little or nothing about the different kinds of capsule casings. By pure haphazard she had filched from Miss Barrows' box a kerotin one, but this she did not guess. Learning that the dispenser would be putting up Miss Venables' prescription on a certain Tuesday evening, she hid in the dark garden outside watching till the room was empty. Miss Barrows was summoned to answer the telephone. Quick as a flash she darted to the table, and beheld not one but two bottles of capsules, neither as yet labeled! She must decide instantly or else forfeit her opportunity. For understandable reasons her choice fell on the larger capsules which matched her own and the following night, just after she had polished off the detested dog whose death was to plunge Henri into despair, Harry rushed to her with disturbing news. Had she made a bloomer? Another old girl, a Miss Tomlins, had died in agony soon after swallowing the first capsule out of a new bottle! Worse, Sarah MacNeil had been with her at the time. What was to be done about it?



It was Sarah who resumed the conversation. "Death sentences! It's just, but——."

What, indeed? Nothing, except to settle one vital point, namely whether or not this death came from natural causes. To plant a second sodium capsule in Miss Venables' bottle would be running into frightful danger. Supposing any question over her death arose, would not the remaining capsules be analyzed? To clear up the doubt, Maddalena paid an early visit to the hotel and heard from Sarah quite enough to satisfy her mind. She also learned that owing to the improvement in Christine's health these present capsules were likely to be the last. She took a good look at them to make sure of the size, then, to provide an excuse for returning at a time when both women would be out, she hid her wristwatch deep down into a crack of the sofa. Stopping at the dispensary for her husband, she secured one of the smaller capsule shells and bore it home to fill it, coating the stuff with kaolin to keep it perfectly dry.

To her acute annoyance, the watch was found and brought back. She decided that Harry, who was stupidly calling on her at the moment, must undertake this second job in her stead. How maddening for this watch to be seen at close range by Sarah MacNeil! It was Harry's gift, bought in Paris, just before they motored together to Marseilles, where she picked up her train.

She called Harry back to give him the capsule and to remind him that the final threat was already in the post. Was it wise to have sent it? Certainly—for now there would be real dyspepsia to lead people astray. Harry had no trouble over the capsule, the bottle lying in full view of Chrissie's table. All he had to do was to get Chrissie into the bathroom to fetch iodine for a small cut on his chin, and the thing was done.

His next and worst shock came when he was told that there was going to be an inquest. Worst? No, for the news about Gilcrest's enormous legacy hit him still harder, and Gilcrest was insisting on two post-mortems to clear his own name. Not able to know what damaging evidence might come to light, he went through the torments of the damned till the verdict came through. He read it, breathed again. There was a doubt, but that doubt, though it left Gilcrest under a cloud, did not touch him. Everything was all right—or would have been if Maddalena had not enticed Sarah MacNeil to the villa.

No disclosures regarding the Baron's death could be drawn from Harry, while the woman, from first to last, sat with sealed lips. There was talk of bringing an additional charge, but it came to nothing for lack of evidence. The suicide verdict held.

Not since the Landru sensation had France been so profoundly stirred. A chain of murders, five in all, and each a cold blooded calculated affair! Even the accidental one formed no exception. And yet, but for one tiny slip, all these human sacrifices, would, like the final death, have been judged purely fortuitous happenings. That the archcriminal was a woman, young, lovely, unmarked by evil passions, lent the crowning touch of horror.

On the deck of a steamer bound for Majorca, Sarah and Brian lay in chairs drawn so close that they touched. Filled with a deep peace, neither had spoken for many minutes. It was Sarah who resumed conversation where it had been broken off by an embrace.

"Death sentences! It's just, heaven knows, but somehow I hate thinking about it."

"Hers will be commuted. You'll see," Brian's tone was grim.

"She took the lead. Harry hadn't the brain or the daring, vile though he is. O! Shall you ever forget that sickening collapse of his? Or her face, changing instantaneously to Bertrand's Bimi? By the way, do you think it was the same thing she used when she set me alight? She said it was nothing so crude as a match."

"Was there any water nearby?"

She thought a moment. "Yes, of course, there was! Polly's drinking vessel, under the edge of my skirt. And to think I suspected every conceivable person except her!"

"I wasn't very brilliant myself," he admitted ruefully.

"You were clever about a lot of things. Which reminds me, how do you suppose the Baron actually came to swallow that poison? Have you got a theory to explain it?"

"Yes," he said slowly. "I've worked it out after this fashion: In spite of all bans, Henri never could entirely resist chocolates, and she knew it. Nothing better can be found than a soft centered chocolate for getting paste cyanide down a person's throat. She chose cyanide because of its swift action. Henri probably had some on hand, which he could get without difficulty, on the strength of his old medical degree. She must have saved eight in all, poisoning four and keeping four untouched. Each day just before lunch she placed the four poisoned ones in the box, and when Henri had gone for his nap slipped along quietly to hide and watch, we'll say behind that nearest clump of tammarisks. If nothing happened, she would go on watching till he woke, and if he came away without eating a chocolate she would simply change the poisoned ones for the others and wait till next day to begin all over again."

"Was that done so no outside person would be killed?"

"Certainly. It wasn't safe to chance this sort of stray murder. I should think, though, that she must have been successful about the second try, possibly the third—and when it did happen it was early enough for her to keep her appointment with the masseuse. As soon as it was finished, she went in, changed the three remaining chocolates and laid his fountain pen and the alleged message on the floor."

"Gloves . . ." Sarah leant close, her cheek pressed to his. "Brian, do you know what that brings to my mind? Dear Miss Venables. She put on gloves, white ones, when she handled those letters—the letters Harry tried to make me believe she'd written to herself! How guilty it makes me feel to think for one moment I doubted! We owe her so much."

"We owe her everything," he said simply.

BY MARY MEADE.

All set for the Saturday volley? Here it comes.

Mrs. J. G. has just run across an unfamiliar face in the vegetable market, a potatolike creature going under the name of Jerusalem artichoke. "How is it prepared and served?" she wants to know.

Jerusalem artichokes are cooked much as are the vegetables they resemble. Pare them first and cook them whole or sliced in boiling salted water until they're tender. To accent further their rather distinctive flavor serve them with lemon parsley butter.

"What causes small, white, sugary spots on the top of an angel food cake?" asks Mrs. E. B. U. The problem here probably is an incomplete dissolving of the sugar in the cake with the beaten egg whites. If the egg whites are at room temperature instead of cold, the sugar will dissolve more completely. There's another reason for letting the eggs warm up a little before beginning the cake making, too. Both yolks and whites beat up to a larger, fluffier foam if they are at room temperature.

Mrs. J. A. L. comes forth with two baking questions. The first is: "All recipes for loaf bread seem to specify two tablespoons of shortening. Is there a special reason for this, or would more make the bread better?" We assume that you're referring, Mrs. L., to the standard white bread recipe which makes three pound loaves of bread. This proportion is one that has stood the test of time, but we find that the amount of fat may be increased up to double that amount, or even to one and a half times that much. The result is an increased volume and sheen to the loaves, and one authority at least in the field of experimental cookery holds that bread containing added fat keeps fresh much longer. However, if you increase the fat it will be necessary to lengthen the time which you ordinarily allow for the first rising of the bread.

Mrs. L.'s next query deals with the handling of puff paste. "Should it be rechilled after removing from the refrigerator and shaping? What makes this paste rise?" The second question practically answers the first in this case, for the lightness of puff paste (which has no baking powder or egg to help it along) depends entirely upon the amount of air enclosed and the expansion of that air. For that reason the shaped puff paste is thoroughly chilled before baking.

Since cold air takes up less space than warm, more air can creep in between the layers of paste in the cold of the refrigerator than would out in the warm air of the kitchen. Then, when the oven is hot, the paste is rushed directly from refrigerator to stove and this large amount of cold air expands quickly in the heat of the oven, giving the pastry lightness. For that reason it's wise to rechill the pastry thoroughly before baking.

As to the size of cutter to use for the paste, another question raised by Mrs. L., that's entirely dependent on what the baked paste is to be used for and how small or large you want it. The baked paste naturally will be slightly smaller in diameter than the cut raw mixture, for the expanding cold air rises upward in baking, raising the elastic structure and tending to draw it in and up.

All of which leaves us in just the mood (and with just enough room) for passing along an idea, a fine idea, that a delightful person named Miss T. B. sent in, just as a thank-you for a recipe. We'd never tried it before, but it looks as if it's due to save us and many other people time and trouble. The idea is to line a small pan completely with waxed paper when one is melting chocolate. Then set the lined pan in the top of the tea kettle or above the double boiler, let the chocolate melt, and slide it off the paper with one of those handy little rubber scrapers. Whoops! No greasy, chocolatey pan to wash!

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This pretty dress is suitable for any of the cottons, and it is individualized by a shoulder yoke that covers the upper arms modishly, making sleeves unnecessary. The waist is slightly shirred to this yoke, and is joined to the skirt at the normal waistline. The skirt has flounced insets at the sides and, while allowing ample width, is easy to keep pressed.

The pattern, No. 3145, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Child Responds to Changes in Environment

Outside Factors Alter His Personality.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Children must change.

They must go from stage to stage—the little child from being content to play alone, coming to crave companionship of his own age—the school child from giving implicit obedience, merging into the age where he doesn't want to be ordered around—the small boy from speaking the proper English of his home folks, to using slang and "bad words" due to his widening contacts—all must change.

Our children cannot stay the same, as we said not long ago. We must expect them to change. Growth and development alone would bring that about.

But there are other factors, often outside themselves, which bring about changes in our children. It would be of material help to mothers in handling their boys and girls to realize this.

Let us see to what, besides normal growth and development, we may look for some of the changes which we see, and which so often trouble us in our children. There are dozens of factors, of course, but among them may be found:

1. School and all that it implies of new influences and variety of experience.
2. Contact with more children and grownups.
3. More money or less money in the family exchequer leading to: [a] change of neighborhood, [b] doubling up with another family and consequent complications, [c] mother going out to work or father being at home all the time due to lack of work.
4. Illness—of the child himself or his parents.
5. The coming of a new baby.

These are only some of the things which should lead you to expect changes in your child's behavior and personality. If you learn to expect changes in your child and can in a general way trace the cause of them, it will help you immeasurably in dealing wisely with him.

Our leaflet, "The Five Year Old Turns A Corner," contains practical suggestions for dealing with the changes at this age. A stamped, self-addressed envelope is the requirement for obtaining this.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

THE REVOKE.

The law states, "A player revokes, if, when able to play or lead as required, he fails to do so."

There have been some new rulings on revokes within the last year, therefore the exact penalty is a little uncertain in the minds of most of us. In the first place, no revoke is allowed on the twelfth trick. You just tell your opponent to take his card back. In the second place, the penalty for an established revoke is two tricks for the first revoke and one trick for each subsequent revoke by the same side on the same hand. But you can only take from an offending side the tricks they have won after the revoke becomes established. You can't take any tricks back that you've given them by revoking, either. This holds true for both duplicate and rubber bridge. So if they have won nine tricks, and then revoked, and failed to take any tricks subsequently, you cannot exact any penalty for the established revoke.

A revoke becomes established as soon as the offender or his partner leads or plays to the next trick. Therefore, if you really wish to exact any penalty for a revoke, you must curb your impatience about calling it until the opponents have a chance to convict themselves by making their next play. Otherwise, they only receive the comparatively mild penalty for a revoke corrected.

If you are declarer and an opponent revokes and then snatches the card back hastily, you may treat the revoke as an exposed card or require him to play his highest or lowest card in the correct suit.

If you revoke, as declarer, an opponent may require you to play your highest or lowest card in the correct suit. Declarer is not subject, at any time, to the exposed-card penalty. The actual penalty may not be exacted until the opponent to your left has had an opportunity to play to the trick, without your noticing the revoke.

Dummy can't revoke.

Let's assume that you are declarer. There are five clubs to the ace-queen in dummy. You lead a small club, intending to take the finesse. Second hand shows out, discarding a heart, therefore you go up with the ace. Fourth hand follows with a small club. Then second hand suddenly remarks, "O, I had a club all the time," and takes back his heart. Now you may take back your ace of clubs, but fourth hand cannot change his card. As things work out, you may treat the discarded heart as an exposed card, and you are bound to make both the ace and queen of clubs. Suppose you were missing both the king and jack of clubs. You could require second hand to play his highest club on the trick—cover it in dummy, and make fourth hand play the card he originally played.

If an opponent feels that you may gain three or four tricks by the revoke, he may demand that a correct card be substituted for the revoking card, before the revoke has become established.

Dummy can only question his partner with the approved formula, "No spades, partner?" if he has not seen any of the other hands at the table. Otherwise, declarer cannot withdraw a revoking card. If dummy leaves the table without having seen any of the other hands, neither opponent can claim an established revoke unless they first have questioned declarer about the absence of a certain suit from his hand.

If you claim a revoke, you may inspect the tricks at the end of the hand to settle this claim. If one of the opponents says, "You're crazy. I know perfectly well that I didn't revoke," and mixes the cards, he must, under the rules, allow your claim. Should he refuse to allow your claim, the only thing you can do is either swallow your pride or get up and leave the table in silent dignity. Let's hope such a thing never happens, however.

After you've added up the score of the rubber or cut for the next deal, you can't suddenly say, "O, I remember now. You didn't follow on the third lead of diamonds and then later led the jack of diamonds, yourself." Or, rather, you can point that out as an interesting psychological fact, but you shouldn't expect to collect any penalty.

And finally, poor dummy—always the underdog—can't call attention to an opponent's established revoke at any time. Many a dummy has writhed in anguish under this ban, wondering why his partner didn't catch an obvious revoke.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 19.—Margot Grahame, British actress, was strolling down the beach at Malibou, thinking what a fine day it was and how nice to be out enjoying it all by herself. She became aware she was being followed. A rude masculine voice began making remarks. Miss Grahame walked faster, but the annoyer followed, and the forward remarks continued. Miss Grahame stopped suddenly, turned, as she saw a male figure just behind her.

With a scream she struck out as hard as she could. That's how she and her husband, Francis Lister, who was in "Clive of India," both explain Lister's black eye.

Mrs. Nan Brooks Pierson Macy, New York society personage, who came here from Reno with a $100,000 divorce settlement and took a De Mille movie contract as a bit player, has been summoned home by her mother, and says: "I guess I had better go." Mrs. Brooks disliked the public mention her daughter was getting in Hollywood.

◆

A box of two dozen Easter lilies arrived at Shirley Temple's home yesterday. The flowers were shipped entirely by air express from the Bahama Islands and bore a greeting to Shirley "From the school children of Bermuda and the Bahamas in appreciation of your fine screen work."

Edward H. Griffith, movie director, has had his string of saddle horses all reshod with aluminum shoes, which are a new wrinkle in equine footwear.

In renewing her contract, Radio studio made Anne Shirley a present of a new automobile. It was a special occasion, being the young actress' seventeenth birthday. . . . Charlie Bickford has Nick Foran, ex-Princeton football lineman, as his antagonist in one of the scrappiest film fights of the year, made on top of an old Erie canal boat for a scene in Janet Gaynor's canalboat saga, "The Farmer Takes a Wife." Foran was knocked into the water. In the story Bickford learns the man knocked overboard can't swim, so has to jump into the water to rescue him. "It's no fun to be tossed into the water, either work or play," Foran said with his teeth chattering, "but Charlie's in too, so I feel even."

Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, who danced the "Carioca" in "Flying Down to Rio" and "the Continental" in "Gay Divorcée," will introduce "the Piccolino" to Irving Berlin music in their new one, "Top Hat," at Radio studio. Astaire, who devised the steps and routine, says the dance has an Italian flavor and says it is "a practical dance adapted to the ballroom as well as to intricate theater variations. The average dancer will be able to master it well."

Easter week is the ninth anniversary of the creation of that cartoon character, "Oswald the Rabbit," which was a conception of Walt Disney, but remained in ownership of Universal studio.

Ann Dvorak and Leslie Fenton, who started their San Fernando valley ranch house with two rooms and an agreement to add on to it as they thought they would need and could afford more space, have now added four rooms, a swimming pool, bath house, playhouse, and barns. Ann's pet cow, Garbo, died. But she has a calf named Garbo Junior.

Adolphe Menjou has been in Good Samaritan hospital two weeks and will have to stay there another week or ten days before his rather serious stomach ailment will permit him to finish his part in Warner's "Broadway Gondolier."

◆

For those interested in Ronald Colman's upper lip—an it is surprising how many women wrote fan letters when he appeared clean shaven in "Clive of India"—it may be noted that Ronnie discards the mustache again to play Sidney Carton, a rôle he cherished, for "Tale of Two Cities" at Metro. . . . The studio research department insisted English lawyers in the days of the French revolution were smooth shaven.

◆

The low down on Fred Perry's runout on a movie contract at Radio studio yesterday was that the English tennis champion received an ultimatum from his fiancé, Mary Lawson, English actress, that as soon as he signs for movies in Hollywood their engagement was at an end. So Perry left the studio flat and caught the train for New York to sail home.

Marriage Must Be Undertaken on One's Own

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am 23 and my girl is 21. We are in love with each other. I want to marry her. She wants to marry me. But my salary is so small the only way we could manage would be to live with her mother or my mother." Frank.

From John, Bill, Jim, Tom, Hank, aged anywhere from 18 up, the urge to marry is reported, with little money for marriage but the in-law home considered as their salvation.

We do not like hearing this suggestion from young men with intentions of leaning on their parents. Particularly at this period when the fathers and mothers, no longer young, have all they can do to manage on their own. Granted that it is almost impossible for these young people to marry without help from their parents, and granted that it would be far more wholesome were marriage possible for said young people, we still heartily dislike this leaning on parents by young folk old enough in their own minds to consider marriage.

It's bad enough when two young people have made the plunge and have tried to get on alone, and then to have to appeal to the older ones for protection under their roof. But there's something wrong with the training and the education of young men who, at the marriage age, still plan to remain charges on their parents. It is not with the enforced necessity, but with the planning to do it that we quarrel. It does not promise well for the marriages, not only because of the in-law difficulties, but because of the lack of grit the young men show themselves.

◆

If they plan to marry, if they think they're old enough to marry, let them get out and work out their own marriage salvation or else give up the idea until such a time as they can carry the responsibility themselves. Their fathers didn't take their brides home to be looked after. And, believe it or not, many of the fathers of you boys now in the early twenties weren't afraid to marry on what you are now earning, often less. You young men are supposed to have arrived at man's estate with your thoughts of marriage. Be men, then, Don't talk and act like little boys still hanging around parental knees.

Blowing Helps to Erase Lines Around Mouth

Massage with Cream Also Aids Eradication.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"What can be done for those lines that run from the nose to the corners of the mouth?" asks "Miserable."

"Miserable" is no signature to attach to any beauty query today, since there's a remedy for everything. "Anxious" or "Wondering" would serve, but not "Miserable." Those parenthesis lines aren't corrected overnight by any manner of means. But I have in mind a case in which deep furrows were ploughed down both sides of the face, but six months later one could scarcely see a line at all. It is a common facial marking. Thin faces have it, plump and medium. But I'll tell you what the woman did who "blew" her lines off her face.

She blew and blew, huffed and puffed, or whatever you want to call it. She would fill her mouth with air, then puff this hard against the cheeks and upper lips. The air comes out in puffs through slightly parted lips. Before she began the blowing and puffing she always applied a cream to the skin, the theory being that when the circulation is aroused, the skin absorbs the cream better.

This woman of whom I speak used to time herself by the clock, and three times a day, for five minute intervals, she went through the blowing and puffing. In applying the cream the three specified times a day, she did a little massage manipulation, working the finger tips of both hands up and out toward the cheekbones. And after the exercise period again more massage was done.

It doesn't take so much time, really, but it is the regularity of performance that matters. Often when the woman knew she was not going to be interrupted she would slather the furrowed section with a cream and leave it on. It worked with her, as I say. In two months there was a remarkable change. In six there was hardly a suspicion of lines.

TAKING HAT BRIM WIDTHS SERIOUSLY—the width of your hat brim can make you look as though you actually believed that a hat was the crowning adjunct to masculine dress or that it was something to keep out the weather. We're of that school of thought that believes a hat does more for a man's appearance than practically any other article of dress. That's one of the reasons we've styled this raw edge snap brim, which comes in 3 shades of grey, brown, tan, blue grey, and blue. In 2⅛, 2¼, 2⅜ inch brim widths.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday, for the second successive afternoon, starved on a diet consisting solely of goose eggs. This time it was the erstwhile tailend Cincinnati Reds who dished out the skimp fare. All of which is a smart aleck way of reporting that the Chicagos were shut out by the Cincinnatis, 4 to 0.

The Cubs were blanked by the Reds much more decisively than they were by the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday, aside from the fact that the Reds made four runs to do their job whereas the Cards accumulated only one. The big difference was that the Cubs developed only one threat, whereas they blew four in the licking the Cards gave them.

One Man to Third.

In the fourth inning the home lads had Freddy Lindstrom on third and Kiki Cuyler on first with none out. And that's just where Freddy and Ki were standing when the third out was made. Lindstrom, like Larry French Thursday, was the only Chicago runner to reach third base.

In an effort to get some power in his outfit, Vice President Grimm replaced himself with Phil Cavarretta and sent Frankie Demaree forth in Chuck Klein's place. Phil and Frankie showed themselves better than Grimm and Klein were in the first two games of the season, in that each made a hit. But nothing short of homers would have done any good.

Jim the Digger Was There.

There was a homer in the game. It was knocked by a former Cub, Gilly Campbell, a nice smack in the ninth. The three earlier runs were scored or driven in by Jim Bottomley, who left the team a spell back when he thought he had $100,000 buried behind his Missouri barn. When Jim dug up the dough and counted it, he found he was a few bucks short of the hundred

IRISH RUNNER WINS MARATHON RACE TO BOSTON

Boston, Mass., April 19.—(AP)—Although he gorged himself with the equivalent of 15 hearty meals as he ran, Johnny Kelly, 27 year old Irish runner from Arlington, finished a quarter of a mile ahead of his most dangerous rival, Pat Dengis of Baltimore, today to win the 38th Boston A. A. marathon.

This 26 mile 385 yard grind over the steep hills that range from Hopkinton to Boston was never anything but a contest between the victor and the runnerup.

Kelly's time was 2:32.07 2-5, just 65 4-5 seconds slower than the course record set by Leslie Pawson of Pawtucket, R. I., in the 1933 race. Dengis was clocked in 2.34:11 1-5. Dick Wilding of Mount Denis, Ont., finished third in 2.39:50, the same position he gained two years ago.

Kelly had an excellent chance of breaking Pawson's record until his stomach rebeled under a load of 15 glucose tablets, each said to equal a full course dinner, about three miles from the finish line. He had a tremendous lead on Dengis at that point, but was forced to stop twice for half minute intervals.

Dengis, however, also was having his troubles. He suffered a painful stitch in his side making the last of the Newton hills and was robbed of the stamia he needed to take advantage of Kelly's distress.

Mail orders are now being accepted. Ringside and center sections of the mezzanine are priced at $3.30. Other choice seats are priced at $2.20, $1.65, and $1.10. All are reserved. There are general admission tickets at 50 cents.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Chicago's nickname of "Windy City" is supposed by most people to refer to the blasts which at times form in the north and sweep down over Lake Michigan. That is not the origin as I remember it.

The term was first applied more than 40 years ago by Editor Charles Dana of the New York Sun. At that time New York, Washington, St. Louis, and Chicago were bidders and competitors for holding the World's Columbian exposition, later commonly called the World's Fair.

Rivalry was keen and prolonged. Chicago's claims were presented in such strong and glamorous terms as to cause Mr. Dana's "Windy City" appellation. At any rate, Chicago secured the honor. Dorothy E. Ballantine.

A recent article in this column brings to mind another Dinny Foley story. Before Dinny moved to the Academy building, which once was the saloon of Paddy Ryan, who fought John L. Sullivan, he had a place around the corner on Madison street.

On the night of the Gus Ruhlin-Tom Sharkey fight at Coney Island in 1900, we were in Dinny's getting the fight by rounds. The place was packed. Dinny looked at the crowd, then said in a loud voice, "A hundred min in the house and not a glass of beer on the bar." R. R.

In 1882 to 1890 Lieut. John Baus was in command of the police station at the northwest corner of Larrabee and North avenue. He almost invariably headed parades of fraternal societies which held their picnics on Sundays at Ogden's grove, Willow and Clyburn avenue. He was mounted on his little "Schimmel."

Lieut. Baus always detailed his best dee-tect-iteef, John Lorch, known as "Chew Tobacco Jack," to maintain order at the Grove. It never was a perfect pinch unless "Tobacco Jack" made it. A. A. Haussner.

Lenten Shadows.

Did you ever sit in a chapel
As the twilight shadows fall
And watch the purple figures
On the old encrusted wall?

They seem to tell a story
If our lives have been well spent,
We shouldn't mind the purple
Of the quietness of Lent.

And as we watch more closely
The shadows turn to gold,
Our future is made happy
By the story they have told.

In California the most widely read newspaper column is Harry Carr's "The Lancer" of the Los Angeles Times. Mr. Carr covers a wide range of subjects from his long time newspaper experience which incidentally includes positions of dramatic critic and sports editor, and apparently says just about what he pleases.

Something over a year ago Mr. Carr was sent around the world by his employers, writing stories the while from abroad. Upon his return Mr. Carr was asked by Publisher Harry Chandler "Now, you've been everywhere, what is the most beautiful spot in the world?" "California" promptly replied Mr. Carr. To which Mr. Chandler rejoined, "Well, Harry, next time we plan a trip for you I guess we better give you a half dozen fare tokens on the Los Angeles street railway."

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 19.—(AP)—Darrel [Cy] Blanton stopped the St. Louis Cardinals with one hit today and led the Pittsburgh Pirates to a brilliant 3 to 0 triumph over the world champions. A single by Catcher Virgil Davis in the second inning prevented the 27 year old right hander from registering a no hit game.

It was the second time Blanton had started in the National league. His first appearance was against the Chicago Cubs in the closing game of the 1934 season, after the Pirates recalled him from Albany of the International league. He lost that game.

The Pirates bunched five singles off Southpaw Bill Hallahan to score their runs in the third inning. Cookie Lavagetto opened the attack with a hit, and Tommy Padden, Paul Waner, Babe Herman and Arky Vaughn followed suit.

TIGERS RELEASE DIXIE HOWELL TO BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Ala., April 19.—(AP)—Dixie Howell today was released under option by the Detroit Tigers to the Birmingham club of the Southern association.

W. A. West, president of the Birmingham club, announcing completion of the deal, said Howell would go immediately to his home in Hartford, Ala., to recuperate from injuries received when he was struck in the face by a batted ball at Lynchburg, Va.

Howell is expected to join Birmingham in about two weeks, West said. He will be used as an outfielder.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 19.—John Whitehead, the tall, solemn Texan, bowed his way into the American league today and none other than the titleholding Tigers were forced to admit he looked pretty good. Probably due to a mild case of the shakes, the young man was wabbly at the start, but he soon settled down, and thereafter twisted the Tiger tail until it hurt. Meanwhile the White Sox did enough on offense to capture the final by 3 to 2. It gave the Chicagoans their first series of the season by a 2 to 1 edge.

One Hit in Last Seven Innings.

The Sox also found themselves confronted by a fairly tough gentleman in the person of Old Folks Fred Marberry, who is supposed to be ready for the junk pile. The strong man of many summers pitched excellently, so far as hits was concerned, but in a couple of spots he was wild. In the same spots the Tigers, once with a plain error and once with a blunder of the head, added to Marberry's troubles. In each instance the Sox scored. Two of the runs could have been avoided.

Practically all the clouting the Tigers did can be dismissed with five hits in the first two innings when the 25 year old Whitehead was a bit worried about his big league debut. One of those five smashes was a homer by Charley Gehringer while his manager was on base in the first inning. That, as it turned out, completed the Tiger scoring for the day, although they threatened again in the second. This time Whitehead stopped the same Gehringer with the bases filled and two out.

First Run Forced In.

From the start of the third until the finish only four Tigers reached base, two of them traveling as far as second. Whitehead walked a pair in the fifth, but had no trouble avoiding complications. In the sixth Hank Greenberg opened with a double, the only hit by the Texan in the last seven innings. Hank still was on second base when the inning closed. Then in the seventh Cochrane walked with one gone, but Gehringer filed to Simmons and Goslin fanned.

HOW A VETERAN OUTFIELDER GATHERS IN HIGH FLIES

RED SOX HAND SENATORS FIRST DEFEAT, 10 TO 4

Grove Pitches 6 Innings; Gets Credit for Victory.

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—Although touched for nine hits in the six innings he pitched, Robert Moses [Lefty] Grove had some success today in his first pitching appearance this year when Boston unloosed a late attack to defeat Washington, 10 to 4.

Trailing by one run going into the seventh, the Red Sox knocked Bob Burke out of the box and scored six times to hand Washington its first defeat of the year. Walberg, who relieved Grove after the former Philadelphia star had given way to a pinch hitter, held the Senators to one hit in the last three innings. Grove received credit for the victory.

ATHLETICS, 6; YANKEES, 5.

New York, April 19.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics ruined Pat Malone's debut as an American league pitcher today by belting two of his pitches into the bleachers and pulling out to a 6 to 5 victory.

Wally Moses hit Malone's second pitch for a homer and Bob Johnson cracked out another home run in the fifth after two walks and a hit by Moses had filled the bases. The Yanks twice threatened to tie the score against Alton Benton and Roy Mahaffey, but fell short.

HILLSDALE NINE TRIUMPHS OVER WILDCATS, 4 TO 1

Hillsdale, Mich., April 19.—(AP)—Hillsdale college pounded three Northwestern university pitchers for 11 hits this afternoon to defeat the Purple, 4 to 1. John Smith, who went the route for Hillsdale, limited Northwestern to seven hits and fanned eight.

Hillsdale scored in the third when Selby doubled and came home on Warnstaff's single. The Dales counted again in the fifth on two singles and a stolen base. A double by Tex Gordon in the sixth and a single by Farquharson added another run. The last score was made in the seventh on two singles and a sacrifice.

Roth, Northwestern hurler, scored for the Purple in the eighth on a wild pitch by Smith. Linnstaedt, who started for Northwestern, was taken out in the sixth for Roth. Pederson relieved Roth at the start of the eight.

Si Johnson was the winning pitcher and Bill Lee was the loser. Si finished. Bill allowed two runs, five hits, and five walks. He fanned three. Root allowed two runs, two hits, including Campbell's homer, and walked Byrd, who later scored the third Red run. He fanned four.

Double Play Ends Threat.

The first threat of the game was developed by the Cubs in the first inning, but the chance was blotted out by a double play. After Galan had fanned, Herman singled off Riggs' glove. Demaree, making his first National league appearance at the plate since, 1933, lined a single to center, Herman stopping at second. Lindstrom then grounded into the Reds' eighth double play of the season.

The Cubs got two men on to no avail again in the second. Cuyler walked and was forced by Cavarretta. Hartnett flied to Byrd, but Jurges singled to left, Cavarretta stopping at second. Kampouris threw out Lee. Galan, Herman and Demaree went out in order in the Cub third.

Only nine men faced Lee in the first three innings, although Myers walked to open the game and Campbell walked at the start of the third. Myers was caught trying to steal second and Campbell was caught off first and run down.

First Hit, First Run.

The first run of the game was scored on the first Cincinnati hit. Myers led off with his second walk, moved to second on Byrd's sacrifice, to third on Riggs' fly to Cuyler, and scored on Bottomley's double to right center. Bottomley reached third on Hafey's infield single. Goodman lined a single to right, Bottomley scoring and Hafey reaching third. Hartnett was injured when he crashed against the screen to pull down Campbell's foul. Gabby was able to proceed to the bench under his own power after first aid treatment had been administered.

Cubs Fade Again.

The seventh marked the demise of Lee without a hit being made in the inning. Hafey walked and lingered at first while Goodman and Campbell furnished outs. When Lee threw two wide ones to Johnson he was yanked and Root came on the scene. Root fanned Johnson on four pitches. It was said Lee had hurt his shoulder while making one of his pitches.

Reds Get Some More.

The Reds registered their third run in the eighth. Myers was called out on strikes, but Byrd walked and went to third on Riggs' single to right. Byrd scored on Bottomley's long fly to Galan. Hafey popped to Jurges.

After Herman, Demaree and Lindstrom had been pushed over in order in the eighth the Reds came up for their fourth run in the first of the ninth—that homer of Campbell's. Johnson ended the Cincy offensive with his fourth straight strikeout.

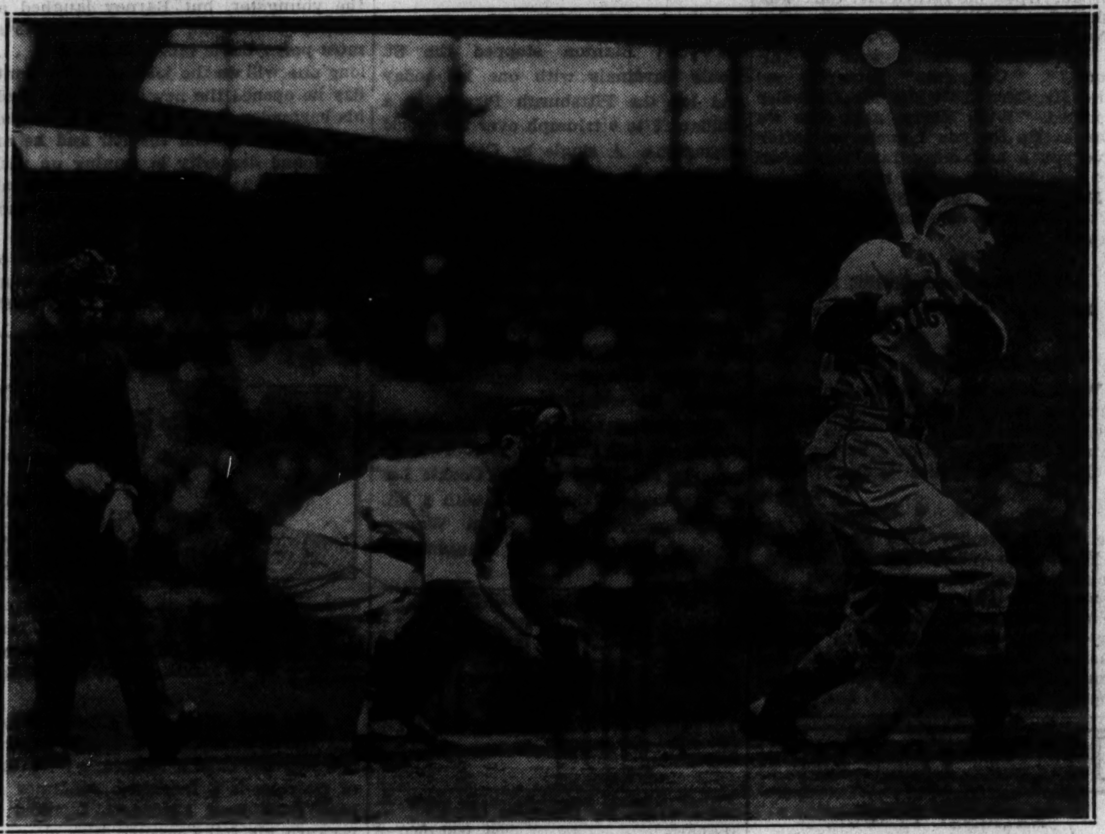
HERE'S ONE SUNNY JIM DIDN'T HIT FAR



Sunny Jim Bottomley, veteran Cincinnati first baseman, who played a major part in the Reds' 4 to 0 triumph over the Cubs at Wrigley field yesterday, took a full cut at one of Bill Lee's pitches in the second inning, but only fouled it. Note the ball at the top of Bottomley's bat, flying out of Catcher Gabby Hartnett's reach. A moment later Bottomley grounded out to Shortstop Bill Jurges.

Carleton Will Face MacFayden and Reds Today

Tex Carleton, late of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Danny MacFayden, late of the New York Yankees, will be the opposing pitchers this afternoon in the second game of the Cubs-Reds series. The game will start at 2 o'clock in accordance with the new Wrigley week-end policy.

Despite the fact that it was Good Friday and the skies were overcast at game time 4,100 paid to see yesterday's game. This assemblage was augmented by 5,500 ladies' day guests.

ILLINOIS SPOILS BADGER OPENER WITH 4-0 VICTORY

Madison, Wis., April 19.—[Special.]—Illinois defeated Wisconsin, 4 to 0, today to spoil the Badgers' Big Ten opener. Wisconsin was held to six hits by Hall Swanson.

John Tomek, pitching for the Badgers, sailed along without much trouble for the first five innings, but ran into difficulty with two out in the sixth when he hit Red Duffner, Illinois first baseman. Franklin followed with a double to center, and both scored on Wib Henry's two base hit. Henry crossed the plate when Tomek and Swikle collided at first on the latter's bunt.

Illinois scored its fourth run in the seventh when Swanson was safe at first on Stan Ferris' error. He advanced to second and scored when Capt. Nordstrom threw wild to first on Reinhart's roller.

INDIANA WHIPS PURDUE, 9 TO 4, IN WILD 9TH INNING

Lafayette, Ind., April 19.—[Special.]—A peculiar decision by Umpire McCullough in the ninth inning that had even the most impartial spectator shaking his head enabled Indiana to break a 4 to 4 tie here this afternoon and chalk up a 9 to 4 victory over Purdue in the Big Ten opener for both teams.

At the time of the decision there were two men out, and Holmquist, who led off the inning with a single, was on second base. Himmelstein hit to Dailey at third base, who threw wide to Skoronski at first. There was a collision on the base line as Skoronski fielded the ball and tagged Himmelstein out, but McCullough, after a slight hesitation, ruled the Boilermaker first baseman did not have the ball at the time of the collision and declared Himmelstein safe because of interference.

Princeton, N. J., April 19.—(AP)—Behind Bill Lincoln's two hit pitching, Harvard defeated Princeton, 2 to 0, for its second successive Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball league victory today.

Dick Bell, Princeton pitcher, gave up only four hits, but singles by Lincoln and Adzigian in the eighth enabled the Crimson to score its second run. The first was scored in the fifth on two errors, a sacrifice and a passed ball. The only hits Lincoln yielded were Bells' scratch single in the sixth and Ken Sandbach's sharp drive in the ninth.

Dodgers Win Double Header from Braves

Boston, Mass., April 19.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers beat the Braves in both morning and afternoon games of Patriots' day by 4 to 2 scores today, and recorded more victories in one day than they did here all last season. They took only one decision on Braves' field in 1934.

Outfielder Danny Taylor and a pair of pitchers, Watson Clark and Johnny Babich, led in the double triumph. Taylor hit a home run with the bases full in the first inning to account for the Brooklyn runs in the afternoon contest. Clark and Babich hurled steadily, allowing nine and eight hits, respectively. Babich fanned Babe Ruth three times. Clark, pitching his first complete game in nearly a year, drove in two runs in the opener with a single.

The run scored by the Sox in the first inning was a gift from Owen, the young man who stepped on Medwick in the late world series. Hayes doubled to left with one out and was nipped at third on Simmons' roller. Bonura walked. Washington sent an ordinary bounder toward short, and Owen, who cut over to get it, failed to hold the ball. This error filled the bases and a moment later Appling walked, forcing Simmons to score. The inning ended on Dykes' roller to short.

The net of the Tiger attack against Whitehead in the first inning was a single, a homer and a triple. Happily for the Sox they were so arranged that only two runs resulted. The single came first. Cochrane was the author of this after White had flied to left. Then Gehringer poked his homer into the bleachers in right center. Next was Goslin with an easy roller to Bonura. Then Rogell tripled into the right field corner, but no harm came of this because Greenberg lifted a fly that caused Simmons no undue exertion.

Whitehead Escapes Trouble.

Whitehead was on the spot again in the second, but got off before being scorched. He nailed the first two men without trouble on taps in front of the plate. Then Marberry singled through short and White walked. Cochrane filled the bases on a hit knocked down by Appling in deep short. Appling closed the inning by picking up Gehringer's roller for a forceout at second. Whitehead also had two on in the fifth as the result of passes, but Rogell couldn't produce in the pinch.

After the first and until the sixth when they scored again to take the lead the Sox didn't encounter much happiness. Nobody reached base in the second against the ponderous Marberry. In the third Simmons singled with one out, but received no assistance. Appling, who opened the fourth with a single, was caught in an attempted steal before anybody was retired. Dykes then grounded out and Sewell singled, only to be forced by Whitehead. The fifth also was a blank so far as Sox base runners were concerned.

The transaction that produced two runs for the Sox in the sixth started with a pass to Bonura. Goslin flagged a line drive by Washington. Appling also walked. Dykes scratched a single off Rogell's glove in deep short, Bonura scoring and Appling taking third. Appling could have been nailed easily, but Rogell, after recovering the ball, dumbly threw to the plate. Appling was able to score a moment later on Sewell's fly to Goslin. The incident was closed on three strikes for Whitehead.

White Sox Play Browns Today; Pick Earnshaw

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 19.—The White Sox left here early this evening for St. Louis, where they open a three game series against the Browns tomorrow. George Earnshaw will start on the mound for the Sox, who probably will have to look at either Buck Newsom or Dick Coffman.

The weather today was fairly comfortable, a feature which encouraged business to the extent of 7,500 customers. The three games drew 36,000 paid.

Gerald Walker, who had won back the right field job with the Tigers, was out of action today. His leg was sore as the result of the twisting he gave it yesterday when he made a mad slide into third base. There was no play being made on him at the time, but Walker always can be depended upon for the unexpected.

COFFMAN LEADS DECATHLON FIELD IN KANSAS MEET

Relays, Specialty Events Begin Today.

Lawrence, Kas., April 19.—[Special.]—Hopes for a fast track and fair weather for the thirteenth annual Kansas relays were enhanced today as ideal conditions prevailed. A record field of nearly 1,500 Kansas High school athletes competed today in the annual interscholastic meet, which forms a prelude to the major meet tomorrow in which sixty-four universities, colleges, and junior colleges are entered.

The relays proper open with preliminaries in the 120 yard high hurdles and 100 yard dash tomorrow morning. The afternoon program consists of thirteen relay races and ten special events.

Start Decathlon Event.

Sprinkled through the high school athletes this afternoon were university stars here for a warmup. The first to take the field was the squad from the University of Arizona, farthest west entrant. Arizona finished third in the two mile relay last year in which Indiana of the Big Ten conference set a meet record of 7 minutes 46 seconds, and has returned this year to find Indiana the favorite again in the event.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Glenn Cunningham, University of Kansas' greatest track athlete and world record holder for the mile, who is now doing undergraduate work at the University of Iowa, will oppose other milers and a team of Kansas quarter-milers running as a relay team in a special invitation event. The relay team will run 125 yards farther than the milers, but experts believe Cunningham hardly will be able to beat them this early in the season. Cunningham turned in a 4:12.7 mile at the Kansas relays last year.

Clyde Coffman, who in 1932 finished in the Olympics decathlon, led the Missouri Valley A. A. U. decathlon field of sixteen men at the end of the first five events tonight with a total of 3,723 points. Coffman, who is a student at the University of Kansas and has finished collegiate competion, is competing unattached.

Specialties Coming Up.

He will be strong in the remaining five events tomorrow, especially in the pole vault, in which he was Big Six conference champion with a record of 13 feet 7½ inches. Coffman finished second in the 100 meter dash, broad jump, and high jump, fifth in the shot put, and sixth in the 400 meter run today.

University of Oklahoma students were second and third at the end of five events, Loyett Burk with 3,584 points, and Elmo Hewes with 3,486.

Junior open—Shirley Ann Johnson, Sunset Ridge.

Coach Ted Payseur of Northwestern will send forth his 1935 Wildcat team for the first time this morning, when they will meet Armour Tech at Kildeer in an 18 hole medal play event, six to a side. The Purple team will consist of two sophomores—Richard Graham and Walter Leesch, and the four men who competed for Northwestern in the conference meet last year. This latter quartet includes Capt. Bill Flynn, Bob Brown, Tom Saielli, and Bert Gookin. Next week the Wildcats will make a trip to Iowa, meeting Iowa State on Friday, Drake on Saturday, and opening their Big Ten season against Iowa on April 29. The conference meet, with Michigan once more an overwhelming favorite, will be held at Kildeer on May 20 and 21.

The Gleneagles Golf club, with two 18 hole courses, is now open for play, Manager Ernest Kartje reports. Packy Walsh returns as professional at the club, which is located at 123d street and Bell road in Lemont.

The Dixie-Hi Golf course, located at 151st street and the Dixie highway, will open its 1935 season today, according to Manager J. W. Lepper, who reports the course in excellent condition.

TAILER AND LUCK PIECE SAIL FOR BRITISH AMATEUR

Tailer, a wealthy young sportsman, who is the metropolitan amateur champion, revealed, as he prepared to sail on the Bremen, that he was carrying a good luck piece in which he placed considerable faith.

"I have a small white elephont," said Tailer, laughing, "that I'm going to carry around in my watch pocket. If it works on the golf course the way it does at the bridge table, I'm going to jinx them."

107,510 to 1 Odds Against an Ace in Golf

New York, April 19.—(AP)—The golfer's chances of scoring a hole in one are exactly 1 in 107,510, E. C. Conlin, rubber company executive, figured out today.

"You have 1,229 more chances of becoming the father of twins," was Conlin's opinion. "Averaging eighteen holes of golf per week-end from April 1 to Nov. 30, you will make 630 tee shots at which rate it will take you 170 years to make your ace.

"Of course, you may make it on your first drive and save a lot of trouble."

PRINTERS PLAY SUNDAY.

Armour Picks Little to Win British Titles

A "cinch."

Tommy Armour thinks that much of Lawson Little's chances to score a slam in the British amateur and open golf tournaments this year. Armour, whose coaching changed Little from just another good player into a champion, believes the husky Stanford star's rivals across the water might as well spend the two weeks of the British championships playing cricket.

Has No Weakness.

"Anything can happen in a golf tournament, but I think Little is a cinch to sweep both British championships," Tommy said today, "and, incidentally, Bobby Jones thinks the same way about it. There isn't a weakness in Little's game. He is a tireless worker and a thorough student who can correct a fault quickly and completely when one does arise.

Names Five Contenders.

If there is a cinch in the American national open at Oakmont, Armour would like to hear about it. He named five players today whom he figures hold a good chance of crashing through the tough course, where he won the title in 1927. They were Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Harry Cooper, Henry Picard, and Paul Runyan.

Perry, Still an Amateur, Sails for Home

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Patriotism has ruled Fred Perry off the gold standard, and so the world's amateur tennis champion sailed home to Great Britain tonight to play for king and country for one more season at least.

"Of course," he admitted, as he packed his trunks for the Berengaria, "they may say to me, 'You've been mucking around a lot and we don't want you,' but until they do I'm going to remain an amateur.

"I'm entirely at the disposal of the British Lawn Tennis association," he said again, as he has said all the way across the country from Hollywood, where he finally tore himself away from motion picture and professional temptation after a visit that included a sparring match with Joe Benjamin, former prize fighter, and a long distance cancelation of his engagement to Mary Lawson, London actress.

"As to the engagement," he said, "that's off, but I'm going to give Miss Lawson a sales talk as soon as I get home. I know it's off because it cost me a lot of money to hear her say 'no' by trans-Atlantic phone, but I'd better not talk about that. It's a delicate subject, and if I say anything I'm sure to put my foot right in it again."

The Benjamin incident in a Hollywood night club was another thing he thought he'd better not talk about but he did remark darkly that if "any one wanted to go around hitting a person who had his hands in his pocket and a pipe in his mouth, it wasn't much to brag about."

A NEW CUSTOM STYLE INTRODUCED BY A FAMOUS CUSTOM BOOTMAKER

When we introduce a new Custom Style, we introduce you to the leading Custom Bootmaker in New York who whittled out the Last, designed the Pattern, selected the Leather and actually made the Original Model with his own hands in his own shop.

We tell you his name, where he lives, and what we paid for his Original Model. No one else ever went so far to give you all the essential, vital facts to prove Custom Style Authority.

But we went still further. We actually bought forty-three pairs of the Original shoe at $42 per pair, so that we could show you today, on the "Compare Shelf" in all Regal windows, Mr. Peterson's $42 Hand-made Originals, side by side with the $5.55 Regal Custom Reproductions.

We don't know how we could make it any more difficult for ourselves. We don't know how we could make it any easier for you.

Now we ask you to make your own comparison of Lasts, Leathers, Workmanship, Design and Finish—and remember that Mr. Peterson personally inspected everything that goes into a Regal Shoe and supervised the reproduction of his new Easter Town Oxford through every operation in the Regal Factory—from the Cutting Room to the Finishing Room. And when he compared his Original with the Regal Reproduction in our Packing Room, he said he couldn't tell Which was Which.

Our windows tell the whole Style Story and our new Spring Line includes a Last for every type of foot and a Style and Leather for every purpose and occasion.

MAX BAER PAYS VISIT TO TOWN; TELLS HIS PLANS

Fighter to End Exhibition Tour Next Week.

Max Baer will end his current exhibition tour next Friday night at St. Louis, Mo., and then head for New York, where on April 29 he will inaugurate a series of thirteen radio broadcasts over a coast to coast network. At the same time he will establish a training camp, probably at Asbury Park, N. J., for a 15 round heavyweight title defense against James J. Braddock of North Bergen, N. J., at Madison Square Garden's Long Island bowl June 13.

The champion and his tour arranger, Frank Pacassi, came in from Kalamazoo, Mich., early yesterday, tarried for a few hours, and then left for Cleveland, where they will be joined by Manager Ancil Hoffman today. Max will spar four rounds with Eddie Simms at Cleveland Tuesday. Babe Hunt, Ponca City, Okla., will be his opponent in a four round encounter at St. Louis.

Art Winch, co-manager with Sam Pian of Barney Ross, announced yesterday that the junior welterweight titleholder's training schedule for his welterweight championship bout with Jimmy McLarnin at New York May 28 has been revised. Instead of roughing it in the Wisconsin woods for ten days, Ross will work at Trafton's gymnasium starting next Thursday. He and his retinue will go to Ferndale, N. Y., the first week in May to initiate serious training at Grossinger's Country club.

◆

King Levinsky opened drills yesterday weighing only 201, about 20 pounds less than he usually scales when resuming preparations. . . . He will initiate sparring drills next week. . . . Red Henaghan, Davenport, Ia., promoter, is seeking Joe Louis' services for exhibition bouts in Davenport and Des Moines.

Promoter Maurice Rivkin last night completed his card to be held at Marigold Gardens Monday. Jackie Sharkey, former Minneapolis, Minn., boxer, and Paul Lee, Indianapolis, Ind., will clash in the eight round windup at 132 pounds. Mickey O'Shea, substitute for Sammy Adams, who sprained his ankle in training, and Nestor Bruggman of the Catholic Youth organization, will be opponents in the six round semi-final at 152 pounds. Four round matches will bring together Le Roy [Sailor] Born and Jack Lazar, Eddie Jackson and Hugh Allen, and Carl Scalise and Scotty McLean. Zack Malkov will wrestle Charles Peterson.

C. Y. O. SWIMMING TRIALS TO BE HELD TONIGHT

North side trials in the fifth annual C. Y. O. swimming meet will be held tonight at Loyola university pool. C. Y. O. acquatic stars from scores of north side parishes will be seen in action tonight. Wednesday night at the West Side K. of C. clubhouse pool candidates from the west side parishes will go through their sectional preliminaries in the hope of qualifying for the finals. The south side trials will be run off at Mount Carmel High pool on April 29. Winners of the sectional trials will meet at Loyola university on Wednesday night, May 1, to determine the archdiocesan champions.

LONGER RACE TO TEST MIDGET CARS TOMORROW

A new test for both drivers and racing cars based on endurance will be offered on the midget auto race program at the 124th Field Artillery armory tomorrow night. Heretofore the feature race has been at 25 laps, but officials of the Midwest Auto Racing association have extended tomorrow's main event to 35 laps.

The change, the officials believe, will determine how well the drivers and cars can stand up under the more gruelling grind. If the tests prove successful longer races will be arranged when the drivers move outdoors at Soldiers' field on May 19.

Twin Orchards Golf Club to Hold Banquet Thursday

A banquet to celebrate a successful membership drive will be held by the Twin Orchards Golf club Thursday night. The banquet will climax an all day golf tournament, which will formally reopen the $1,000,000 course again as a private club. Sam Orner, president, and Joseph Lipshutz, chairman of the entertainment committee, announce that a membership drive conducted through the winter months under the direction of Attorney Samuel Hoffman, has brought the membership list up to a point where the club can again operate on a sound financial basis as a private club after going through the last season as a semi fee course.

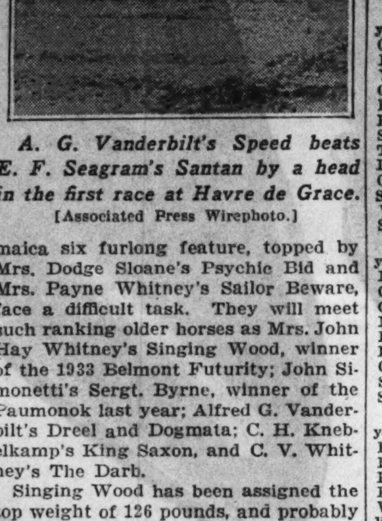
Derby Eligibles Race at Havre, Jamaica Today

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Thirteen Kentucky Derby eligibles, four of which rank high in future books, will attempt to qualify for the 3 year old classic tomorrow when they compete in the $5,000 Paumonok handicap at Jamaica and the $7,500 Chesapeake stakes at Havre De Grace, Md.

The Paumonok, which is expected to draw 20,000 fans to the opening of the Metropolitan season, has attracted 15 high class sprinters of all ages, including five Derby eligibles.

13 to Run in Chesapeake.

Thirteen 3 year olds, eight of which are being prepped for the Churchill Downs fixture, have been named for the Chesapeake, won last year by Cavalcade, the 1934 Derby winner, in record time.



A. G. Vanderbilt's Speed beats E. F. Seagram's Santan by a head in the first race at Havre de Grace.

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The 3 year olds entered in the Jamaica six furlong feature, topped by Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Psychic Bid and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Sailor Beware, face a difficult task. They will meet such ranking older horses as Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Singing Wood, winner of the 1933 Belmont Futurity; John Simonetti's Sergt. Byrne, winner of the Paumonok last year; Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Dreel and Dogmata; C. H. Knebelkamp's King Saxon, and C. V. Whitney's The Darb.

Singing Wood has been assigned the top weight of 126 pounds, and probably will go to the post the choice. Other Derby eligibles entered include Mrs. James M. Austin's Sound Advice, A. C. Schwartz's Good Flavor, and Dewitt Page's Dean Swift.

Plat Eye, Young Native Entered.

The Chesapeake, considered one of the leading preliminary preps for the Derby, will find Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Commonwealth, third choice in the future books, making his first start of the year. The gelded son of Bostonian is expected to be the favorite over Mrs. Payne Whitney's Plat Eye and Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Young Native.

Vanderbilt has entered two of his Derby hopefuls—Cold Shoulder and Gum; Mrs. W. E. Kilmer will race Sun Fairplay, and Thomas B. Gay's Stickemup, and Robert W. Daniel's Tutticurio also are entered.

TANFORAN OPENS TODAY.

San Francisco, Cal., April 19.—(AP)—Historic Tanforan, California's oldest horse racing track, will open tomorrow for a 25 day meeting.

Improvements costing $100,000 have been made, including moving of the mile oval sixty feet eastward, instalation of a six furlong chute, and renovation of grandstand and clubhouse.

The inaugural handicap will be over one mile, for 3 year olds and up. Sand Baby, with top weight of 118 pounds, will be ridden by Johnny Longden. Other overnight entries were Sea Cliff, 110 [no rider]; Impeach, 101 [Neves]; Piety, 109 [Mauro]; Little Son, 106 [Colpitts], and Mumsie, 100 [Stuckie].

LADFIELD IS VICTOR.

Havre de Grace, Md., April 19.—[Special.]—The Havre de Grace feature today was the grade B handicap in which six went to the post. Mrs. C. Crane's Ladfield was made the choice and won in a hard drive by four lengths in 1:11 3-5. This was two-fifths of a second faster than the three year old Today made yesterday. Today's time had been the fastest of the meeting to date. Ladfield carried 114 pounds.

Speed Has It.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt sent out his two year old Speed to win the curtain raiser by a head from Santan, with Piccolo third. The last named was a first starter of C. V. Whitney's which was so well regarded as to be made the favorite. He raced greenly, but closed with courage.

In the meantime Speed was winging through the stretch, but had to be put to a hard drive to stave off Santan. The time was 0:54 for the four and one-half furlongs. The winner returned $8.40 for $2.00. It was the eleventh Vanderbilt triumph of the eastern season, including two stake victories.

CUT YANKEE'S NEW MAST FOR ENGLISH TRIP

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—The racing rig of the America's cup yacht Yankee, which will race in England this summer, was shipped today aboard the Berengaria. It will be unloaded at Southampton and taken to a shipyard in Grosport, where Yankee will be fitted out for her competition against T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour, challenger for the America's cup off Newport last fall, and King George's famous Britannia.

Yankee, under jury rig, is to sail from Boston Thursday, convoyed by her three masted auxiliary schooner Atlantic, on which Gerard B. Lambert, who owns both Yankee and Atlantic, will make the crossing. Atlantic arrived in Boston today, having been fitted out in South Brooklyn.

Stowing away Yankee's rig, which included the new 168 foot steel mast, was a difficult task. The mast was cut into three sections. There also was the upper sawedoff section of Yankee's wood mast, the main part of which will be used for the mainmast of her jury yawl rig in crossing the ocean. The upper section is 25 feet 11 inches. So Yankee will cross the Atlantic with a mast 139 feet. A third piece was her boom, which is 68 feet.

Syracuse Alumni Plan Banquet for Waldorf

Syracuse university alumni in Chicago will hold a stag meeting in honor of Lynn Waldorf, new football coach of Northwestern university and a former Syracuse player, in Mandel's restaurant Wednesday noon.

Aurora Opens Classes for Colts Monday

School days begin Monday at the Aurora race track for the horses stabled there which need further education in the ways of the turf. They will continue daily up to May 1, when Aurora opens the Illinois season with a 21-day meeting; for those which do not learn rapidly, there will be special classes throughout the meeting.

Starter George Wingfield, who is expected to arrive tomorrow, will serve as chief instructor in teaching horses to break from the stall gate. His assistants will be the members of his ground crew—all experienced handlers of race horses. Several of them have arrived, and have been superintending the readying of the Bahr starting gate that will be used this year to send away the fields.

They'll Teach Them Manners.

There will be two classes, for the 2 year olds that do not quite understand such devices as starting gates yet, and the bad actors among the older horses.

With the 2 year olds gentle handling by men who have plenty of experience in schooling youngsters is required in a majority of cases; not many of the juveniles give a great deal of trouble at the gate once they have learned the proper methods of breaking.

Youngsters Are Plentiful.

Because numerous Illinois turfmen intend racing right through the Chicago schedule this season, and most of them are fairly well supplied with 2 year olds, there are more juveniles at Aurora this year than have been seen at the track at recent meetings.

In his condition book for the first seven days of racing, recently issued, racing secretary Dick Leigh has scheduled a daily 2 year old race. During the latter part of the meeting he is hopeful of being able to stage two races a day for the youngsters, for 2 year old contests are popular with Chicago racegoers.

LINCOLN PARK CASTING CLUB HOLDS TOURNEY

Members of four Chicago casting organizations will be in attendance tomorrow afternoon when the Lincoln Park club holds its formal spring opening in its pool at Lincoln park near Fullerton avenue.

Invitations have been extended to and accepted by the Illinois Casting club, the Chicago Fly Casting club, and the National Association of Scientific Anglers. Members of the Lincoln Park club have been casting informally for the last few Sundays.

The club will meet for all day competition in Lincoln park every Sunday, and when daylight savings time goes into effect members and friends will cast from 6 o'clock until dark every evening.

Anglers expecting to enter THE TRIBUNE'S casting tournament which is to be held at the National Boat and Sports show at Navy pier from May 5 to 12, are invited to use the facilities of the Lincoln Park club for practice.

A group of junior casters from this club also is planning to enter the competition, which will be held in a large casting pool surrounded by a natural garden setting.

The casting competition is by no means limited to persons affiliated with the three casting clubs in Chicago, but is open to any one. There will be the following six events in the tournament:

3—Boy bait casters [up to 16 years].
4—Girl bait casters [up to 16 years].

Men and women who have had no experience in tournament casting competition are recommended to enter the fishermen events. Trophies will be awarded to winners in all groups.

Casting Clubs Aid Tribune.

Entrants who are not club members may take advantage of the opportunity to try out their casting arms at the headquarters of the following clubs, all of which are coöperating with THE TRIBUNE in sponsoring the tournament: Chicago Fly Casting club, Garfield park; Illinois Casting club, Washington park at East 58th street, and the Lincoln Park Casting club, Lincoln park at Fullerton avenue.

These clubs are anxious to aid and instruct beginners in the game of fly and bait casting. All meet at their respective parks every Sunday about 10 o'clock, and cast most of the day.

TILDEN GROUP AND CLUB PROS SETTLE TROUBLES

New York, April 19.—(AP)—Bill Tilden's touring tennis professionals and the club pros, headed by George Agutter of Forest Hills, settled their differences today at a meeting presided over by Walter Merrill Hall, president of the U. S. L. T. A.

Control of the professional game was not changed. Tilden's organization, the American chapter of the International Players' association, agreed to become a part of the regular professional association, established in 1927 in coöperation with the U. S. L. T. A.

An American championship, solely for members of the Tilden group, was sanctioned for Orange, N. J., starting May 29. No date was set for the national meet open to all professionals in the fall, nor for the matches between French and American teams, scheduled for Westchester, N. Y. Other chapter matches will be held in Atlanta and St. Louis.

Werner, Ex-Badger, Better After Sixth Transfusion

Madison, Wis., April 19.—[Special.]—The condition of Fred Werner, former University of Wisconsin baseball star, was reported improved today following a sixth blood transfusion. Werner, who is 26 years old, is suffering from a heart ailment.

DERBY HOPES

How'm I Going to Pass Up This One?

BY FRENCH LANE.

(This is the second of a series of articles dealing with the outstanding candidates for the Kentucky Derby.)

"Come, come, fellow," I whispered to myself as I prepared to make my annual bet on the Kentucky Derby, "why bother with the favorite? I can give you the best thing that ever looked through a bridle.

"Now don't spread it around too much, for it will only hurt the price. Let's make 'em pay us off at tops on this one.

"Ever hear of a colt named Omaha?" I asked myself. "Well, if you haven't you've never heard the name of the Derby winner, but please don't tell everybody about it.

"Here's one that can run to the Rocky mountains and back and won't even be drawing a long breath when he gets home. If he falls down a couple of times and stops at the eighth pole tavern for a couple of cocktails I won't be worried about the outcome. He will be running over horses by the time they get within sight of the winning post.

Likes a Distance.

"I know you're going to tell me that he won only one race last year, and my answer is going to be 'What of it?'

"Those races were only two steps for 2 year olds. This colt doesn't begin to run until he's gone about a mile.

"Look up his 2 year old effort. Fourth and smothering horses in the stretch in the United States Hotel stakes, second in the Sanford stakes after making up blocks of ground in the stretch, fourth again in the Hopeful after staging his customary stretch run, second and beaten by inches in the Champagne stakes, fourth in the Belmont Futurity which Chance Sun won, and once more he was picking up his field at every stride. Then a second, beaten another inch in the Jamaica champion stakes.

"Needed more distance, that was all that was wrong with Omaha last year, even though a lot of folks contend that he lacks a scoring punch. I hope the people who think that way bet their money accordingly. It will only help our price.

The Blue Blood of Derby.

"Takes right after his daddy, Gallant Fox, who knows all about Derby conquests after winning it in 1930. Then the 'Fox' went right on to win more money in one year than any horse ever has won over the same period of time.

"Blue blood is on the other side of the house, too, for Omaha's mother, Flambino, was a stakes winner and her mother, Flambette, was just about the prize filly in America as a 3 year old when she won the Latonia Oaks and the American Coaching Club Oaks.

"Then, too, his owner, William Woodward, is a banker. The banker is going to expect something in return for the car fare he's advancing to Omaha for the trip from Maryland to the Derby."

Who could resist this argument? So here I am this morning down hook, line and sinker on Omaha to capture the Derby.

(The third of this series of articles on the outstanding candidates for the Kentucky Derby will appear tomorrow.)

MICHIGAN NAMES WESLEY RAMEY TITLE CANDIDATE

Lansing, Mich., April 19.—(AP)—The state athletic board of control nominated Wesley Ramey of Grand Rapids today as Michigan's outstanding contestant for the national lightweight boxing championship title vacated by Barney Ross.

James F. Duffy, chairman of the board, telegraphed Edward C. Foster, president of the National Boxing association, asking for consideration of Ramey.

Not a drop of "BOTTOMS UP" is bottled until it is one year old and has been scientifically tested to insure a definite degree of mellowness.

ALL AMERICA TURNS TO Bottoms Up SOUR-MASH KENTUCKY STRAIGHT WHISKY!

IT can't be an accident when a whisky achieves such popularity in all corners of the country at once! All the way from Seattle to Miami, "BOTTOMS UP" has become one of the leading sellers in barely 90 days. Lovers of fine whisky can tell you why! In "BOTTOMS UP" they have found a whisky with all the finer qualities they demand, priced only a few pennies above the lowest-priced brands.

"BOTTOMS UP" is a genuine sour-mash Kentucky Straight Whisky. It is made from a Kentucky formula that has been famous for 65 years. This formula calls for a high percentage (35%) of the expensive small grains which add so amazingly to flavor, aroma and mellowness. After distilling, every drop of "BOTTOMS UP" is aged one year in charred white-oak casks, kept at controlled summer temperature the year round. And finally, before bottling, "BOTTOMS UP" is given the scientific ester test to insure definite mellowness. Ask for "BOTTOMS UP" today, by the drink or by the bottle. One test is all you'll need to be convinced.

FEAR 'SQUEEZE' DEVELOPING IN MAY CORN TRADE

Stocks Available for Delivery Small.

With Chicago elevators' stocks of corn at low levels the approach of delivery date on the May contract on the Board of Trade is causing some apprehension that a "squeeze" may develop in the market.

There is an open interest of 25 million bushels in May corn on the Board of Trade, while there are only 3,500,000 bushels in store in Chicago.

Purely speculative holdings of May corn will be closed out before delivery date, as most holders do not wish to take the actual grain. What portion of total holdings comes in this classification cannot be determined.

If delivery is actually demanded on more corn than is available here, it will be necessary to bring in grain from other markets.

Corn Stored at Georgian Bay.

Some 5,000,000 bushels of American owned corn is stored in Georgian bay ports and may be drawn upon. This would be an unusual procedure, as this grain is considered earmarked for the eastern market.

So far shorts in the May contract have had little difficulty in covering their commitments, although the price has been advancing.

Nine more trading days remain before actual deliveries begin May 1. If holders of the May contracts show a willingness to sell out there is little chance of a serious market situation devloping. But this is by no means certain.

The Uhlmann Grain company expressed the opinion that while the demand will finally be filled, it may become necessary to bring corn from other points which ordinarily draw on Chicago for their supplies.

"In any case it will be a very tight situation," the firm declared yesterday.

Threats of Imports Ignored.

The threat that the Canadian stored corn may be rerouted back into the Chicago market has thus far proved ineffectual in stemming the advance in prices. The market has likewise ignored the comparative cheapness of Argentine corn offered for May shipment to Atlantic and gulf ports for May delivery.

Certain grades of Argentine corn are considered eligible for delivery under the Board of Trade's regulations and it is not impossible such foreign grain may be used. Despite these possibilities, however, May corn pushed up to another new high quotation of 90⅝ cents a bushel on Thursday.

Stocks of corn in Chicago, the country's chief distributing market, have been diminishing for months. Ordinarily, during the winter months the supply of corn in Chicago is augmented by shipments from the country.

Country Arrivals Below Shipments.

This season, however, country arrivals have fallen below the shipments made out of this market. Although the eastern and southern states have in a large degree substituted Argentine corn, the drain on this market has been constant.

The recent advance in corn prices has stimulated shipments from the country to Chicago but not comparable in volume with other years. Explanation of this lies in the shortage of corn in the country. Many corn producing sections did not grow enough in 1934 to carry them through the winter, let alone having any to ship into market. As a result truckers have effected a primarf distribution of the crop from the surplus centers to the deficient areas and has cut off the customary movement into market.

The truckers have overbid the Chicago dealers and were able to get corn where the market handlers got none.

CAMPBELL-WYANT VOTES DIVIDEND; FIRST SINCE '31

Directors of the Campbell, Wyant & Cannon Foundry company yesterday voted a dividend of 20 cents a share, payable May 20 to stockholders of record May 4. It is the first payment authorized since the last quarter of 1931, when 25 cents a share was paid. E. J. Campbell, president, stated that action did not represent establishment of a fixed dividend rate. Future payments will depend on earnings, he said.

The company reported earnings for the first quarter of $133,000, equal to 38 cents a share on the outstanding stock, compared with $81,000, or approximately 23 cents a share, earned in the first quarter last year. At the end of the first quarter this year current assets were $1,787,000, against current liabilities of $331,000.

U.S. May File Record Today of Cutten Grain Hearings

Attorneys for the grain futures administration are expected to file a record today in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the hearings which resulted in the suspension for two years of Arthur W. Cutten from trading on American grain exchanges. Cutten appealed the commission's suspension order two months ago and the government agency was given 60 days to file a record of the case. Counsel for Cutten and the government have 20 days after filing of the record in which to submit their briefs to the court.

MOST OF MARKETS TO REOPEN TODAY

Trading will be resumed this morning on the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago and New York stock exchanges after the Good Friday suspension. The cotton exchange and other commodity markets in New York will not reopen until Monday morning and the English markets will remain closed until Tuesday.

U.S. Collects 43% More in March Taxes

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—The treasury tonight reported a 43 per cent upturn in March internal revenue collections and a rise of 26 per cent for the first nine months of the fiscal year.

Collections for the month aggregated $507,304,493 as compared with $390,352,846 in March, 1934, while the three-quarters total was $2,470,769,868 as against $1,962,339,156 for the corresponding period a year ago.

Gains were evenly distributed over the three main revenue sources. Total income taxes were up 40 per cent during the month; miscellaneous internal revenue was 51 per cent higher, while the agricultural adjustment taxes were up 25 per cent.

Income Taxes Higher.

Calculations from March income tax returns disclosed that corporations fared slightly better than the individual during the calendar year 1934. The corporations paid $139,776,550 in taxes, an increase of 42 per cent over the $98,019,089 paid in a year ago, while individuals paid $182,131,312, a jump of 39 per cent from $130,506,538 last year.

Liquor taxes produced $32,928,116 for the month, an increase of $4,607,192 over last year. For the year to date they returned $300,268,391, a gain of $128,202,380 over the previous comparable period. Liquor, however, was not legalized until early in December, 1933, which struck five months off the comparable period.

Stamp sales during the month indicated withdrawal of 8,831,706 proof gallons of liquor and 3,257,717 barrels of beer as compared with 7,049,165 proof gallons of liquor and 2,630,608 barrels of beer in March, 1934.

Tobacco Levies Rise.

Tobacco taxes amounted to $36,993,284, compared with $34,925,036, while the manufacturers' excise taxes totaled $29,185,384, against $26,995,086. Cigaret consumption was higher during the month. Withdrawals were 10,199,611,800, as compared with 9,333,113,760 in March of last year.

Collections on miscellaneous taxes, such as telephone and telegraph use, safety deposit vaults, and admissions amounted to $7,511,093, compared with $13,726,961 last year. The reduction was due to the elimination of the check tax and to a large reduction in the firearms tax.

A sharp increase was shown by the gift tax, which for nine months amounted to $67,631,979 as compared with $8,048,822 the year before.

REPORT WEATHER PUTTING DAMPER ON EASTER TRADE

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Where rainfall and snow flurries did not prevail this week unseasonable weather and duststorms of the middle west deterred the rising demand for merchandise in the pre-Easter trade, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., said today. Previous estimates of the April volume have been revised downward, the review says, but "the feeling is general that much of the loss will be recovered during the final week of April and early in May."

Throughout the east the most favorable reports were received from the smaller centers, where last year's sales were equaled or exceeded. In the metropolitan districts declines of from 5 to 8 per cent were indicated. The Pacific coast made the best showing.

"Seasonal trade was retarded during the week, particularly in distributive branches, by adverse weather conditions which stretched nearly across the country," the report stated. "The slow movement of merchandise in retail channels was apparent in the reduced buying in wholesale markets, as the total of orders at many centers was the smallest in weeks. The expected rush of orders failed to develop."

CHICAGO UNION STATION LOWERS OPERATING LOSS

The Chicago Union Station company, jointly owned terminal of Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific; Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, and Pennsylvania railroads, reported total operating loss of $937,933 for 1934, a decrease of $362,174 from 1933. Nonoperating income, the bulk of which was the $4,521,420 joint facility rent income paid by the parent companies, was $4,586,887, a decrease of $362,718 from 1933.

Net income for the year was $140,000, the same amount that has been reported in each of the last seven years, all of which was disbursed in dividends. Rental is adjusted to net income. The Dec. 31, 1934, balance sheet set up a reserve of $2,036,197 for tax liability to take care of Cook county 1933 and 1934 taxes that had not been assessed.

Trains operated in and out of the station during 1934 numbered 77,900, against 78,052 in 1933. In 1934 the station handled 2,082,553 pieces of baggage and mail, against 1,833,172 in 1933.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A Washington dispatch to THE TRIBUNE, published April 18, erroneously stated that the bonuses of $325,044 would be paid this year to four officers of Real Silk Hosiery Mills, Inc., if that amount was earned after payment of preferred dividends and $1 a share on common. The bonus plan as outlined in the statement filed by the company with the SEC provides that the four officials will receive bonuses of 20 per cent of the net earnings in excess of $325,044. The four officials are J. A. Goodman, chairman; L. L. Goodman, treasurer, P. O. Ferrel, vice president, and J. L. Mueller, secretary. The company operated at a deficit last year.

Grt. Northern Loss Lowest for 3 Years

The road's net railway operating income, before interest charges, in 1934 amounted to $14,101,650, compared with $1,290,551 in 1932 and $11,810,227 in 1933. The total 1934 income, which included $2,490,537 in dividends from the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, amounted to $18,939,827, compared with $6,386,643 in 1932 and $16,697,399 in 1933. Operating revenues in 1934 amounted to $70,752,877, compared with $61,923,891 in the preceding year. Operating expenses were $48,610,180, compared with $41,545,224.

Predicts Larger Earnings.

Discussing the outlook for the future, Mr. Kenney said:

"If crop conditions carry out their predictions, 1935 should show a great improvement in earnings. The indications are more favorable for small grain crops than they have been for the last four years."

Mr. Kenney said last year's improved showing was made despite the fact that the road's trafic was affected by probably the hottest and driest year in most of the spring wheat territory. He explained that the $7,064,957 increase in operating expenses was due mainly to larger expenditures fo rthe maintenance of tracks, structures and equipment, the actual increase in maintenance over the preceding year being about $5,000,000 after allowing for reduction in deprecation. Increased costs of coal, fuel oil and materials resulting from higher wages and shorter hours under the NRA account for about $1,230,000 of the rise in operating costs.

Estimates Wage Restoration.

Mr. Kenney estimated full restoration of wages will cost the road an additional $2,300,000 on labor pay rolls in 1935. He also estimated the rate increases authorized by the interstate commerce commission will increase freight revenues by about $800,000 this year.

He said that the road's experiment in passenger fare reduction has found ample justification, as passenger revenue increased 12.3 per cent and passengers carried one mile increased 30.8 per cent. This is the first substantial increase since 1925.

FREIGHT RECOVERS FROM SLUMP; GAINS 7.7% OVER LAST WEEK

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—Loadings of revenue freight in the week ended April 13 totaled 587,685 cars, according to the weekly summary issued today by the Association of American Railroads. This was an increase of 42,058 cars, or 7.7 per cent, over the preceding week, a gain of 7,704 cars, or 1.2 per cent, over the corresponding week in 1934 and an increase of 89,503 cars over the 1933 week.

The increase in freight trafic last week was in the nature of a recovery from the sharp decline of the preceding week, when loadings fell 71,858 cars. Larger coal loadings were responsible for last week's upturn, just as in the preceding week they were chiefly responsible for the slump in trafic.

Freight trafic thus far this year has totaled 8,643,993 cars, compared with 8,704,219 in the corresponding period in 1934 and 7,239,538 in 1933.

CONTRACT IS LET FOR PART OF NEW GARY STEEL MILL

The Powers-Thompson Construction company of Joliet has been awarded a contract for approximately $1,000,000 for the construction of the foundation work for the new strip mill of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company at Gary, Ind., it was learned yesterday.

Representatives of the construction and the steel concerns declined to discuss details of the project yesterday or the exact amount involved. Actual construction work is expected to begin in a short time.

The job is part of the $20,000,000 construction program which the United States Steel corporation is undertaking in Gary. American Sheet and Tin Plate is a subsidiary of U. S. Steel.

The program calls for reclamation of a section of lake front ground which will necessitate the building of a new breakwater, it is understood. The company is expected to let contracts for the dredging shortly. The new plant will incorporate features that will result in a substantial reduction in labor operating costs.

Four in Cabinet Are Chosen for Cotton Probe

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today appointed a committee of four cabinet members to supervise a study and investigation of the cotton industry.

Members of the committee are Secretary of State Hull, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Secretary of Commerce Roper, and Secretary of Labor Perkins.

The President said the committee will follow two main lines in its inquiry—emergency problems and future plans. He has instructed the committee to make a report as rapidly as possible.

Tackle Processing Tax First.

Under the first branch of the investigation the committee will be asked to determine the relationship of the cotton processing tax to the emergency and consider whether some other tax could be levied which would be less disturbing to the industry. It will also go thoroughly into the wage differential between northern and southern plants.

Other subjects to be studied are whether imports are exercising an injurious effect on the industrial situation and the effect of the price of raw cotton on industrial consumption.

Check Plant Obsolescence.

Under future plans the committee will analyze the physical condition of plants with relation to obsolescence and consider plans for establishing credit for needed or justified replacements. It will also analyze foreign trade opportunities over a long period.

The President observed that the investigation would do for the first time what should have been done about 1890—determination of the obsolescence of plants. He declared he regards obsolescence as a main competitive factor in the situation.

Senator Schall [Rep., Minn.] declared in the senate today that "artificial price control" has increased Japanese imports into the United States more than one hundred fold in the last 16 months.

"The cotton industry of Georgia, the Carolinas, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, and Arkansas is going down while Japan is going up," he said. "It seems that patriotic citizens, as in Georgia, are permitted to wave the flag, provided it bears the printed label 'made in Japan.'"

SMALL RECEIPTS FAIL TO PREVENT SAG IN LIVE STOCK

With some of the wholesale meat markets observing yesterday as a holiday and others reporting a light demand for meats at recent declines, the scant supply of live stock offered at the stock yards met narrow outlet at weak to lower prices.

Supplies were among the smallest on record for a Friday, yet the clearance was extremely slow and some sellers locked up stock in the hope of more satisfactory bids.

While the supply of hogs was not enough to put prices to a test, the undertone was weak from the start and prices for the day averaged 5 cents under the previous session at $11.10, processing tax included. Top sales for load lots at $11.30 also were off 5 cents, although one small lot reached $11.35.

Two kosher holidays next Wednesday and Thursday also figured in yesterday's draggy cattle trade. Some orders for plainer classes of steers were filled on a steady basis, but better grades got practically no action except at weak to unevenly lower prices, with the result that most of the steers eligible to sell over the $10.00 line were taken off the market. Nothing actually sold above $10.75.

A heavier run of lambs, coupled with poor action in other live stock, resulted in a 10 to 25 cent break in most lambs. A few sales were steady.

Auburn Automobile Company.

Investors' Guide: Please send to me as soon as you can your latest report on Auburn Auto. Thank you.—S. W. J.

Answer: Auburn Automobile company is engaged principally in producing the car bearing the name of the company. It formerly was represented solely in the medium and high priced fields, but in 1934 it entered the low priced field. Duesenberg cars, produced by a subsidiary, are manufactured on a custom built basis.

Increased public purchasing power helped boost unit sales in the year ended Nov. 30, 1934, to 7,500 cars from the 4,600 reported for the preceding year. These, however, failed even to approximate unit output for any one preceding year as far back as 1927.

1934	$10,332,000	$3,642,000	$16.21
1933	5,360,000	2,308,000	10.27
1932	12,845,000	975,000	4.46
1931	37,086,000	*3,580,000	*17.64

*Net income.

The higher loss in 1934 over 1933 in the face of almost double sales reflected higher costs of sales and operating expenses.

On Nov. 30, 1934, current assets, including cash of $1,113,000, totaled $5,681,000, and current liabilities were $649,000. Profit and loss deficit was $2,348,000. The company owed $750,000 to affiliated companies [not current].

Capitalization consists of 224,730 shares of no par capital stock on which nothing has been paid since April, 1934. The stock is a speculation.

Back Dividends.

Investors' Guide: I note in your column that Goodyear Tire and Rubber company now pays at the rate of $4 per year on its $7 preferred. Two questions: [1] Will the remaining $3 of this dividend be paid before any dividends on the common can be paid? [2] If I purchased some of the stock now would the back dividends belong to me or to the owner of the stock in 1933?—M. S. J.

Answer: [1] Yes.

[2] You would be entitled to all back dividends on the stock which are made payable to holders of record of the date you hold the stock. In other words, if you hold the stock when future dividends are declared, regardless of whether such dividends are applied toward accumulated unpaid dividends or current dividends, and continue to be a stockholder of record on the record date of payment, the dividend to be paid will belong to you.

PROTEST BY U. S. CALLS GERMANY DEBT VIOLATOR

Charges Default on Dawes Bonds.

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—Nazi Germany was stigmatized as a violator of solemn covenants in a stinging American note, made public today, protesting discrimination against American holders of Dawes bonds.

The note, delivered at the Berlin foreign office yesterday by Ambassador William E. Dodd, because of Germany's refusal to make full interest payments on bonds held by Americans, was the latest of a series of protests against the reich's fiscal juggling.

"The solemn faith and credit of Germany," the American protest said, "were voluntarily pledged by the government that payments on the bonds would be met without discrimination for or against any holder."

Americans Treated Unfairly.

Instead of receiving that equality of treatment, the note continued, Germany announced an arrangement whereby nationals of countries which have special agreements are paid in full, while Americans are "tendered payment in reichsmarks utilizable only for restricted purposes and convertible at a considerable discount from the face value of the coupon."

Americans purchased the Dawes bonds in a coöperative attempt to assist Germany, the American note pointed out, and provided "an essential contribution to the reëstablishment of German currency and finance in 1924." The bonds were floated, the note added, with "specific guarantees of priority of transfer into foreign currencies and nondiscriminatory treatment."

Cite Small Sum Needed.

The German government, it said, needed to provide only slightly more than $2,000,000 to fulfill the obligation. Officials here estimate that Dawes bonds to the value of approximately $6,000,000 are still outstanding in the United States and affected by the latest German fiscal decree.

The German government has cited an inability to secure enough foreign exchange for full payment to holders of all bonds. Most other creditor nations have, however, negotiated special agreements with Germany under which, in exchange for larger purchases of German goods, their nationals have been given advantageous terms in interest payments.

The United States, insisting on the principle of equality of treatment, rejected German overtures for an agreement under which a balancing of trade between the two nations would have given American bondholders full payment.

Berlin May Stand Pat.

BERLIN, April 19.—(AP)—A friendly but firm refusal to alter the decision was expected to be the foreign office's reply to the United States protest against paying holders of Dawes' loan coupons in reichsmarks. A reply probably will be given tomorrow or Monday. Hjalmar Schacht, economic dictator of the reich, is expected to have a hand in framing the reply.

NEW DIRECTORS FOR HUPP MOTOR MAY END CONTEST

Detroit, Mich., April 19.—(AP)—The contest over management of the Hupp Motor Car company moved a step nearer settlement today as attorneys for the rival factions tentatively agreed upon a proposed new directorate.

Negotiations may mean that Archie M. Andrews, storm center in the controversy, will step out as board chairman, they said, and that the presidency of the company will be offered to William B. Mayo, former chief engineer of the Ford Motor company.

George L. Schein, general counsel for the Hupp company, prepared to leave for Peekskill, N. Y., to present the compromise plans to Andrews, whose ouster is sought in a federal court suit brought by J. Walter Drake, former board chairman and a large Hupp stockholder. If the compromise list is accepted, Drake's request for appointment of a temporary operating receiver would be dropped.

BURLINGTON RY. WILL BUILD 500 GONDOLA CARS

Construction of 500 new gondola cars by the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy railroad will be started next June in the company's shops at Galesburg, Ill., according to an official announcement yesterday, "provided conditions do not become any worse."

The job will put the company's Galesburg shops on a full time basis instead of the 12 day a month basis in force now. The company will not have to add to its force of 175 to 200 men at the shops to handle the construction. The cars, the cost of which is now estimated at about a million dollars, will be used to carry coal.

FIGHT POLITICAL CONTROL AIM IN NEW BANK BILL

Republicans to File Minority Report.

Washington, D. C., April 19.—(AP)—Republican opposition to "politicalization" of the federal reserve system under the administration's omnibus banking bill came rapidly to a head today as the house banking committee formally introduced its revised measure. The Republican members of the committee decided to file a minority report against the bill. Majority leaders made plans for early consideration on the floor. Meanwhile, the senate began hearings on the new bill.

Senator Glass [Dem., Va.], chairman of the senate banking subcommittee, is an opponent of the reserve board section. While President Roosevelt is understood to favor keeping the bill intact, Senator Glass wants to act on the deposit insurance and the noncontroversial national bank law amendment clauses first and let the bitterly disputed federal reserve section take its chances later.

Charges Political Control.

As expressed by one house Republican, the minority's opposition centers on two main features:

"1. The politicalization of the federal reserve, giving the President broad powers to depose the governor at will if he does not agree with the President's policies—making the board subject to political control.

"2. Placing the entire monetary circulation privilege in the federal reserve banks, coupled with the fact that the open market policy adopted by the board is made mandatory on the part of the banks."

"This," the Republican spokesman explained, "brings the national debt and the money issuing power into such close relation that money might fluctuate as the debt does. Any nation that had done this has gone broke, as did, for example, Austria and Germany."

FDIC Asks Broader Powers.

Power to cancel the deposit insurance of any unsoundly managed bank was asked for the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation at the senate hearing, but several senators questioned the wisdom of such broad authority, which was urged by Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the corporation.

Crowley read a long prepared statement to the subcommittee and recommended making permanent the temporary deposit insurance law guaranteeing deposits up to $5,000. He also recommended assessments for insurance be based upon the total deposit in insured banks.

Crowley told Senator Glass the idea of making it an omnibus bill was not his. The Virginian claims it was the plan of Marriner S. Eccles, whose nomination as governor of the reserve board has yet to be acted upon by his subcommittee.

Explains Insurance Cancelation.

"If the corporation finds that an insured bank is engaged in repeated practices detrimental to its depositors, the corporation should not be placed in the position of sanctioning such practices, but should be given the right to terminate the insurance of the bank's deposits without jeopardizing the depositors.

"For the protection of depositors, we have recommended that in such cases, insurance be extended for two years from the time that membership in the fund is terminated."

Senators Glass and Couzens [Rep., Mich.] suggested there probably should be some way to close the bank to protect depositors, but Crowley said use of the power "may seldom be necessary."

FOREIGN MONEY PRICES SHOW LITTLE CHANGE

New York, April 19.—[Special.]—Foreign exchange markets in Europe were closed today in observance of Good Friday and while the banks here were open the quotations on the principal currencies were purely nominal and showed little or no change from yesterday.

The British pound closed unchanged in terms of U. S. funds at $4.85⅛. The French franc was slightly easier here at 6.59 cents against 6.59⅛ yesterday. In unofficial trading in Paris the dollar was slightly firmer. The Dutch guilder was steady at 67.49 cents.

Ravenswood National Bank Repaying Depositors 5 Pct.

Elmer O. Ericson, receiver for the Ravenswood National bank, announced yesterday that an additional 5 per cent is being paid on depositors' claims. This marks the third distribution and brings the total paid to 65 per cent of total claims. Payment will be made at the office of the receiver, 6967 North Clark street, upon presentation of notices mailed to depositors. Funds for the payment resulted from liquidations of holdings and a loan from the RFC on the remaining assets.

Notice is hereby given that Lake Cormorant Drainage District of DeSoto and Tunica Counties, Mississippi, filed a Petition in the above Court on April 15th, 1935, pursuant to Public Act No. 251 of the 73rd. Congress, entitled "An Act To Amend An Act," entitled "An Act To Establish A Uniform System Of Bankruptcy throughout the United States," approved July 1st, 1898, and acts amendatory thereof, and supplementary thereto, which Act No. 251 was approved May 24th, 1934, and is called "The Municipal Debt Readjustment Act."

That the Judge of said Court, on April 15th, 1935, rendered an Order finding to the effect that the said Petition and Exhibits complies with the said Act of Congress and has been filed in good faith and that it is accompanied by the written acceptance of creditors holding more than thirty per cent of the bonds and debts of the taxing district affected by the plan, excluding bonds, notes or certificates of indebtedness owned, held or controlled by the taxing district in a fund or otherwise, and that the Court further ordered the publication of this notice and has fixed the day of the hearing upon the confirmation of said plan, and the hearing of objections or interventions of creditors to such confirmation and the hearing upon intervention or such other questions arising in the proceeding as the Judge shall determine, and that the Judge further ordered an interlocutory decree providing that the plan should be temporarily operative with respect to all the indebtedness affected thereby, and that the payment of the principal or interest, or both, of all such indebtedness shall be temporarily postponed or extended or otherwise readjusted in the same manner and upon the same terms as if such plan had been finally confirmed and put into effect, and as a result of such decree and its entry, the principal or interest, or both, of such indebtedness, which has otherwise become due, or which would otherwise become due, shall not be or become due or payable, and the payment of all such indebtedness shall be postponed during the period in which such interlocutory decree shall remain in force, and that any person or creditor desiring to be heard shall appear in the said Court above named, on or before May 20, 1935, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at Chambers, in Federal Building, Clarksdale, Miss., before the judge of said Court, at which time hearing upon the confirmation, and objections, and interventions thereto shall be had.
